I was educated in the public schools of Bishop, Bentonville, Alice and Texas College of Arts and Industries in Kingsville. I was reared on cotton, livestock and dairy farms in south Texas. I conducted my first crop introduction and fertilizer experiments while still a teenager by the planting of hops, mung beans, soybeans, various clovers and alfalfa with seed from a seed distributor in Chicago which were free to students. Fertilizer tests were made from litter, decayed forages and manures. I had a varied career as an agriculturist and land manager and am now retired. My wife, Katherine Moore Woodard True and I have lived in El Paso and Hamilton, Texas and now live at 4830 Bucknell Street, San Antonio, TX 78249. *

This final edition was compiled, edited and published with the grateful assistance of many friends and cousins and others and is limited to twenty three copies for the review and use of others. It has been our personal joy and priviledge to have been of service, honoring those who came before us and helping those who come after us to develop better genealogies.

FROM HISTORY OF SALEM, MA BY SIDNEY PERLEY, VOL I, II

No record of the first layout of the City of Salem is known to exist. A layout was made by the existing land titles. Plot numbers were not correlated with purchase dates, necessarily.

Henry True first appeared in Salem in 1643-44.

About 15-20 December Selectmen granted Henry True (Trew) forty acres of land.

Before 1635 most town lots that were granted were two acres, later they were usually limited to 1 acre. Henry True bought, sold or was granted lot 93. From the drawing it appears to be about 1 acre or the lower half of a two-acre plot bordering on a cove in the South River (Vol I pages 313-314.) This lot was located in the "town."

Farther away, in the Southfield Division the lots generally were 10 acres when issued. Henry True owned lot # 41 in 1648.

The children were baptized in Salem; John, the first recorded was baptized 13 July 1645, Jemima, the last child baptized, was baptized 29 April 1657.

Henry True bought his first house in Salem for 4 L; he bought the next house nearer the harbor in 1649; he bought a third house, in partnership with his brother-in-law, probably about one mile north of Salisbury in 1657.

Henry True died in March of 1659 or 1660 depending on the calendar.

"September 16, 1656, The Return, Henry True, Master, was about sailing from Barbadoes, being there in Carlisle Bay, heade for Boston, with molasses."

New document by El Pasoan is True to life

A new book about the frontier is all True — or Trew, Trow, Treowe or Trewlany (Welsh) or Trye (French).

However they may spell it, families with any variant spelling of the surname True will appreciate "Some Henry True Descendents on the Frontier."

El Pasoan Charles Wesley True Jr. has done this 374-page compilation documenting the offspring of his ancestor, Henry True (date of birth is unknown but he died in 1659 in Salisbury, Mass). Also included are formal genealogies and narrative information on other True lines not connected with Henry.

Author True prefaces his book with these remarks:

hearty pioneer ancestors traveling down the Ohio in river boats, going west on horseback or with oxen pulling wagons as they hunted for better sites for living."

The book is True to life, with some of Henry's descendants pictured behind plows in the Midwest and, decades later, flying off into space as a U.S. astronaut (Alan Shepard Jr.).

Some of the more colorful pieces include one by a 19th century physician, Nathaniel Tuckerman True, who noted physical similarities in all the Trues he met:

"The same arched and heavy eyebrows, round and full forehead, a large frame, sanguineous temperament and slow and deliberate speech ... all seem the same in families far removed by hundreds of miles and a hundred years."

Others featured are Bill True, a U.S. paratrooper who participated in the D Day invasion and repeated his jump in 1983 in California; Evelyn True, a suffragette who celebrated her 100th birthday in 1975; Mary Perkins Bradbury, a convicted witch; and Kentuckian Henry Gray True, who walked to California to seek his fortune in the Gold Rush of 1849.

A nice touch is True's inclusion of information from an embroidered sampler belonging to an Ohio True family, the piece believed to have been the work of a Betsy B. True. The stitched genealogy records Betsy's birthdate, 30 Aug. 1823, and those of her four brothers and three sisters.

The book is available for $32 postpaid, from the author at 9324 McFall Drive, El Paso, Texas 79925. ONLY AT FHL - SALT LAKE

SIGNIFICANT

The two most significant reported findings between the covers of this book may involve the first children of Henry True and Israel Pike.

The record is very clear that Henry's son, Henry was the second son but he has been given the birth year of his older brother, John by more than ninety percent of the providers of True family genealogies.

The editor of an Essex Institute publication of 1974 of the records of the First Church in Salem, Massachusetts clearly shows that John True, son of Henry True was born (or Christened) the 13th day of July 1645 (13:5:1645), he may have been born many months before being presented at a church service for christening.

James Duncan True of Nashua, NH in 1986 found the court records that clearly show that Henry True was born 8:1:1646; also a deposition was located revealing that, in June 1662, Jno. True aged about seventeen years and Henry True, aged about fourteen or fifteen years. This record clearly shows there were two boys, John being the older appearing and thus could have left for other lands to seek his fortune.

The Essex Institute authorized twenty-two copies (and absolutely no more) of the title page and the 'individual' page showing the birthday of John True which are shown as page 299 and 300 in this book.

The publisher requested, and received, authorization to use the title page and page twenty of "THE RECORDS OF THE FIRST CHURCH IN SALEM, MASSACHUSETTS, 1629-1736." edited by Richard D. Pierce, from the Essex Institute, as published in 1974 and which was printed by the Essex Institute. The authorization was limited to twenty-two copies and the Institute will retain copyright to it. I N T R O D U C T I O N

Since editing and publishing my book "Some Henry True Descendants in Texas," nearly all correspondence regarding True genealogy has come from distant relatives living in states other than those in New England indicating that interest for our family history may be stimulated by lost connections and removal from one's place of birth, and very often it is toward the frontier.

No matter where you live in America, chances are that the word frontier means something to you. We have had a vibrant family history with hearty pioneer ancestors traveling down the Ohio in rectangular river boats, on horse back or by oxen pulled wagons as they hunted for better sites for living and making a living. Because of these actions with the need to control travel and personal property, we lost many links in our family connections.

This book will bring you special knowledge of the early generations of our great Family Of True and dispell some of the mysteries of life, resources and activities on the frontier, whether it is behind the plow in the midwest, eating dust in an ancient lake bed in the far west desert or flying off into space as an astronaut.

This book contains genealogical, historical and biographical accounts of the True lines of descent and ascent and some related or allied connecting families.

The family record begins with emigrant Henry True 1 in 1644 in Salem, Massachusets with the purchase of a house followed by the birth of his children, since they were Christened soon after birth we may assume he had previously married and joined a Puritan church which followed very strict proceedures. No real attempt has been made to trace and include all connecting families but much readily available information is included. This editor was very fortunate in securing reliable family data for this book from other individual family members although the opportunity to confirm data from secondary sources did not often present itself. However, the highly regarded "Directory of Ancestral Heads." 1923. Holmes., has Henry True first came from England to Salem, Mass. in 1630. He may have lived on transport passenger ships or worked with the fishing fleet as it is believed that he was living and working off the Canadian coast before joining the Winthrop fleet in 1630 and working in the Salem Area and a house was not needed by transient workers.

This book follows the research reporting of Oliver A. True, Esq., a banker who had a lingering illnes and died 29 January 1863 at the age of 28. After his death it was enlarged upon by Dr. Henry A. True, M.D., and named "A Genealogy and Memorial of the True Family in the United States." September 1873. Marion, OH. It was enlarged again by Henry True, son of Dr. True and named "The Family of True In America." 1899. Marion, Ohio. The organization of these books was unusual as the "line item" system of numbering each descendant was used for those by the name of True moving through each generation, leaving numbers for persons known or thought to have been born with the last name of True, beginning for emigrant 1 Henry True 2 Henry True 2, 3 John True 2, etc. Additions made by this compiler followed the system where it could be determined but usually used blocks of numbers when a tie to the system could be achieved. Persons named True who have not yet furnished a suitable tie were not given a number but are placed as they were received or toward the back where they await further research. Most of the recent genealogy has been written for use in this book, and for each family historian we are thankful.

ABBREVIATIONS

Symbols and abbreviations are required in a document of this kind to reduce the size and cost. You will note that punctuation also has been drastically reduced and some readers may have to take pen and paper and rewrite the sentence to determine the meaning. In some cases the state is not shown; usually it can be found in the above material but sometimes omissions occur following well known cities as Boston, Denver or Houston or when it can be found in the State of Massachusetts. Two-letter state abbreviations in effect by the Postal Service during 1983 were used. The last sentence is a good example: if Post Office had been used instead of Postal Service, only one line would have been needed. Abbreviations follow.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My thanks to everyone who has shown an interest in this book. Many people have given aid to this endeavor and their names can be found in the text. Special books have been reviewed; a few have been quoted from while some quotes could not be used because permission was not on hand by press time.

Items of a somewhat personal nature selected for the Introduction which were from Dr. Ransom Badger True, V and Arthur Webster True are particularly appreciated as they were written to their immediate families and close personal friends.

I particularly want to thank my mother, the late Alye Vera Hines True for her encouragement and for the information she gathered together in preparation for membership in the National Society, Colonial Dames XVII Century; the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution; The Hereditary Register of the United States of America; The United Daughters of the Confederacy; The Washington Family Descendants; Hood's Texas Brigade Association and the Daughters of the Republic of Texas.

Others who have had a big part in its preparation include the late Oliver A. True and Dr. Henry Ayer True. The late Mark True as he collected materials at the same time frame as Oliver made his collections in the mid 19th century. Palmer of Wayland, Massachusetts, who found and made available the works of Mark, Oliver and Dr. Henry. Mrs. Joan K. Lehr who furnished names and addresses of Mary Pennington and Bill True. Lorna Dawley Schwartz of Kalespell, Mountana, who furnished a full copy of Dr. Henry True's Chart of the Family of True, her genealogy, genealogy of Patrick Gerald True, and two publications of Arthur Webster True. Arthur Webster True who answered nearly all of my questions by the use of his files which includes a fraction of the terrific amount of genealogy awaiting finalizing by Stephen and/or Lois True. Bernice B. Smith and the Blaisdell Family National Association; the Hereditary Register Publications, Inc., and Terence D. Belk of Tampico, Mexico who furnished information on connecting Trues.

Also, the late B. F. Cummings, Noreen C. Pramberg, David A. True, Alan Waird Lyons, Ellen Wheaton English, Joann Babcock Fuller, Frederick Pike, The late Evelyn Button, El Paso Library Interlibrary Loan Network (with books as far away as Rhode Island).

And, Wilbur Ashley True, Kermit R. True, The Late Hilma Adah True, Ray True, Greg L. True, Dr. Gilbert M. True, the late Porter Cram True, Alvin and Harry True, Daniel Wesley Brock, Admiral Alan Bartlett Shepard, Florence True Echel, Don Lowse, Rt 1, Box 300 K, Scottsbluff, NE 69361 who needs additional genealogy on the Family of True and the corrections of errors of this book as he plans to publish a comprehensive book on the Trues and pretty soon, too.

Dear Charles:

I'm sorry I have not been able to answer your letter of December 13, 1983 until now. Work and family are so pressing and True genealogy takes a back seat.

I've done considerable research on Henry True and lesser amounts on some of our other ancestors. I've also tried to collect current data from my family which is widespread by now. To my surprise I haven't done much for ten years. I guess I should send out an update to keep it current.

I've enclosed what data I have. You may use it any way you see fit. I would appreciate normal scholarly credit, however.

Sincerely,

THE TRUES AND THEIR ANCESTORS IN AMERICA

1630 - 1969

This project is presented to the family and to all who might be interested. Hopefully it will develop into a more complete version of the Trues in America, particularly the line of Trues from whom we are descended. It is offered for the following reasons:

1) The history of our family is interesting, and makes enjoyable reading.

2) We are all products of heredity as well as environment and many of the characteristics of ourselves were apparently present in earlier generations.

3) The history helps to make relevant much of the history of our own country, especially the opportunities this country has afforded us.

4) In a day of increasing mobility and rootlessness, it is important to have a heritage, and this is our heritage regardless of whether we are aware of it.

The history is not intended to be a dreary recital of names and dates, though that is the crucial first step, but is meant to be a report or story of a lively group of people who lived out their lives in seriousness and gaity and who had their successes and failures. I would like to be able to develop some character sketches of the various members of the True family, as well as some biographical details, but this will all take time, obviously several years. If you would like to receive the installments as I get them written, do let me know and I will send them to you. Also, (and this is the plea of every family historian) if you have any information about the various members of the family which either adds to mine or contradicts mine, please, please, let me know. Often a scrap of information, seemingly unimportant, can save me hours of research time.

Thus, with this little introduction, I humbly submit the first installment of the Trues in America.

Sketches

Henry True (-1659)

Henry True was the first True to come to America as far as we know, and probably arrived here sometime in the 1630s. Where he was born is not known, though probably he came from eastern England. He was a ship-captain and was known to have been one of the first ship-captains involved in the West Indies trade, particularly carrying molasses from Barbadoes to Boston. He owned part of the small ship, the Return, which was a type known as a ketch. It was not a glorious ship, and was probably quite old when he was sailing in command of it. He made trips to Barbadoes in 1652 and 1656 and one to the Eastern Shore of Virginia in 1654.

Henry settled in Salem, Massachusetts and married Israel Pike, the daughter of John Pike of Newbury, Massachusetts. John was a laborer but was educated as he performed the services of a lawyer for many clients in the first two decades of Massachusetts' history. Henry's brother-in-law was Robert Pike, who became one of Massachusetts' foremost justices and was a stout believer in individual rights. Robert defended some of the Salem witches in the trials in 1691, one of whom was Henry's son's mother-in-law, Mary Perkins.

Henry bought a house in Salem in 1644 for four pounds, which represented about a month's wages for the average laborer. It couldn't have been much of a house, and five years later he bought another one, nearer the harbor. This one was apparently much larger, which he needed for his growing family.

Henry was a church member, which was very important in Puritan Massachusetts. Only about 1/3 to 1/2 of the adult males were church members and this set them above their fellow men. Church members were the only ones who could vote in colonial elections, and the only ones who could be elected to office. Of course, they were the only ones who could vote in church affairs, and were the only ones who could have their children baptized, at least until 1649. In order to be a church member, Henry either had to have been a member of a Puritan parish in England, or else get up and confess in public that he had been converted and could show proof of conversion. This was an emotionally trying experience, and still was no guarantee that everyone would believe that you had been converted.

About 1649, Henry became a full-fledged member of the Salem community (which would indicate that he had been at sea before), and was granted free land in several places in Salem. All totalled, he received about forty acres. Four years later, in 1653, he received more land in Salem. Shortly thereafter, the town stopped granting land.

Early in 1640, Robert Pike, Henry's brother-in-law, set himself up in the new town of Salisbury, Massachusetts (the northeasternmost town in Massachusetts). Obviously, Henry visited his brother-in-law, and in 1657 the two of them purchased a house and land opposite the green in Salisbury for about sixty pounds. Although a period of inflation had occurred since Henry bought his first house, this was a substantial price to pay for a house and land, particularly in a relatively new community. There is no record that Robert ever lived in the house, so possibly he loaned Henry the money to buy it and had himself recorded as part owner in order to protect his investment.

Unfortunately, Henry did not live long thereafter, and he died in March 1659, probably a relatively young man. Just why he moved to Salisbury is speculation, but perhaps after his last voyage to the West Indies, which was made in late 1650, he became ill and sought out a quieter place than Salem. His widow, Israel, sold their house in Salem six months later to a merchant of the town for fifty pounds, but kept the property in Salisbury. Some of this has since become the resort of Salisbury Beach, Massachusetts. Shortly after Henry's death, his widow married their next-door neighbor, Joseph Fletcher, and lived with him for another forty years, dying at an obviously advanced age in 1700.

Henry and Israel had six children, John, Henry, Lydia, Joseph, Benjamin and Jemminah, a daughter. She was reported to have bewitched James Carr years later, but he admitted under oath that she had attracted him because of her person, not bewitched him. He later married her.

Henry True's second son was the one from whom we are descended and was born in 1646. He was baptized in Salem (which meant that his father was a church member) and moved to Salisbury with the family in 1657. He became enamoured of Jane Bradbury, the daughter of Thomas and Mary (Perkins) Bradbury about 1667 and married her March 15, 1668. Unfortunately for the young couple, their first child was born two months later in May, 1668. They were hailed in front of the magistrates and fined for their indiscretions; Henry, three pounds and Jane, two pounds.

Henry's wife, Jane, was slightly older than he was, and her father was one of Salisbury's most illustrious citizens. Originally the town was settled by a number of families all at once, and parts of the land in the town were assigned to each family; parts were reserved for future settlers; and parts were held in common. Jane's father, Capt. Thomas Bradbury, was one of these first families to settle in the town, and became the clerk of the court there. In 1648, he was appointed the commander of the local militia (like the commander of a National Guard unit today), a highly respected position. He was a church member, and was a member of the General Court of Massachusetts Bay (the legislature) for several years. Capt. Bradbury was considered a liberal in his day and voted on the liberal side of many - though not all - of the issues of the time. To earn his living he was an innkeeper, though like all Salisbury citizens he had to farm his land, too.

Jane's mother was Mary Perkins, who had come over to Boston with the first migration on the ship Lion in 1630 as a girl of twelve. She was involved with the witch trials in Salem in 1631 (remember Salem was the county seat at the time and the location of the witch trials, not necessarily the location of the actual bewitchings). She was indicted and convicted of witchcraft, but was spared when Robert Pike, Jane's husband's uncle, made an eloquent plea in her behalf. Unfortunately, she was probably somewhat mentally ill, and died nine years later.

To return to Henry, he was a litigious sort of person, and evidently quite successful. He changed the spelling of the name from "Trew" as his father had spelled it, to "True" as we spell it. He commenced litigation to recover his father's house in Salem (the one he bought in 1644) in 1673 and evidently was successful. He purchased a number of parcels of land, mostly in Salisbury and Salisbury Beach, got the town to grant him an unusually attractive piece of land, and commenced litigation to enforce all his rights in the land. Unfortunately, the town meeting later regretted the awarding of the land to him and forced him to accept a compromise.

Henry True was probably the second most successful of our Trues (next to Ransom B. True, Jr., 1846-1926). He was the clerk of the court, the militia Captain--from whence he got his name "Capt. Henry True"--a representative in the General Court and a deacon of the church. He was a house carpenter by trade, which meant he probably finished the interiors of houses, evidently a profitable business in a new community. His position of Deacon was probably the most prestigious of the offices he held, and from 1700 until his death in 1734, he was known as "Deacon Henry True."

Henry and his wife had seven children, Mary, William, Henry, Jane, John, Jemema and Jabez, all of whom grew up and had children.

POSTSCRIPT

These are some of the Trues that I have detailed information about. I hope that I can find out more about the Trues, especially the miscellaneous details that make the sketches interesting. I intend to use this material to help develop information and would appreciate anyone filling out any information that he or she has about either themselves or their ancesters connected to these people and adding it to this. I hope that you enjoyed the sketches; I enjoyed researching them and writing them. RBT V

THINK ?

"Some Do" Says True

"TODAY WE USE every substitute for thinking we can find — horoscopes, palmistry, clinchés, idea killers, Kiplinger letters and Wall Street Journals. Most of our energy is devoted to finding excuses for not thinking. If I make you think you are thinking, you will love me. If I really make you think, you will hate me."

And with sleight of hand, color slides, sweeping gesture and solid logic — all wrapped in a startling verbal package — young educator Dr. G. Herbert True rivets his audience's attention.

Releasing fresh viewpoints to build "creative armor" against the pitfalls of brain-softening habit is the aim of this thought-missionary. Beneath his glitter and his dynamic approach is a line of logic as true as his name. The result is an exposé of habits that tend to kill creative thought.

You Are What You Think You Are

"How long has it been since you have said 'I want to be great'?, True challenges. The new goal in our society today is to be average or normal but not the best. We should try to get away from this train of thought.

Leaders, Note

Leaders will be interested in True's ideas on why creativity is squelched. The idea-killers which we all use or have used in our own situations are the result of what True calls "external evaluation." Look these ideas over, ask yourself if, in your operation. they have proven to be stumbling blocks to doing a really great job with your young people:

- It costs too much.
- It's been tried before.
- It isn't timely.
- It's a gimmick.
- It's too full of theory.
- We mustn't move too fast.
- Let's wait and see.
- Put it in writing.
- Form a committee.
- It doesn't conform to policy.
- It won't work in my territory.

Leaders facing the dynamic years ahead will be likely to find in these stimulating ideas food for the kind of thought that will lead to a better appreciation and understanding of the responsibility of leading our young men and women. There are no easy rules — thinking is a creative process — an individual process. Are you thinking?

Some do. . . .

'Dr. G. Herbert True, a dynamic young man with vision and purpose, spoke for the National Association of County Club Agents during National 4-H Club Congress. As a "missionary" for creative thinking in life, he challenged his audience to re-examine theirs.

He urged the audience to look very critically at the systems, methods and formulas used in their local situations with the thought of trying to evaluate them for what they are.

Dr. True, formerly a professor at Notre Dame Univ. has his Masters degree from Northwestern University, his Ph. D. from the University of Iowa. He did special work at the University of Chicago on creative behavior. His versatile career includes: teaching, writing, copywriting, and radio-television production and direction. He has been described as "a born educator."

THE TRUES

AT SALISBURY, MASS. SINCE 1657

By Arthur W. True 1976

On a cloudy morning on the 15th of June, 1972, we're visiting old Salisbury in the northeastern corner of Mass. We have looked forward to this opportunity for a long time, and we can hardly believe that the day has finally come and that we are really here. Salisbury has been of special interest to the True family ever since they first came to this country. Probably no family had a more lasting influence in the development of a town than the Trues have done in the town of Salisbury. This tape can probably give only a partial picture of all the history that is to be found here.

Highway #110 leads directly into the place which is now known as Salisbury Center. U.S. #1 for years has passed through the center, now there is not so much traffic here since Interstate 95 goes a little farther to the west, actually passing between Salisbury and Amesbury.

We have stopped at the first sign as we enter the old town and there's a typical metal road sign which shows that it was erected for the tercentennial in 1930. The sign reads as follows: "Garrison House and Courthouse nearby, built in 1640 stood the Garrison House and Courthouse. Christopher Batt, who named the town for Salisbury, England whence he came, trained soldiers in this field." Now the sign is in a corner lot of quite a modern house of which there are several right along #110. Immediately back of it is a second or third or later growth of trees which gives a little idea of how the country may have looked before it was as well built up as it is now.

After driving a few blocks further, and crossing a bridge over a railroad track which looks as though it might still be in use occasionally, we came to the second sign which is marked "First Meeting House." The language on this sign is as follows: "Site of the first Meeting House, built in the open green in 1640. The bell hung in 1642 is said to have been brought from England by order of the Rev. William Worster who was settled here in 1639." The sign that I have just described stands on the corner of a little grassy triangle. In the center of this triangle is a stone which bears another marker headed "Potlid Square." the language on this marker reads as follows: "Here the women of Salisbury melted their pewter dishes into bullets that their men might defend their liberties." That is tradition. Every village green in Mass. at once became the scene of active drill. From the American Revolution by John Fisk, "At a meeting of the freeholders and other inhabitants of the town of Salisbury May 21, 1776, it was voted that if the honorable Congress should for the safety of the said colonies declare them independent of the kingdom of Great Britain, they will solemnly engage with their lives and fortune to support them in the measure. From the town records, west and south was the creek set apart at tne first division of land 1639. Thereon were Meeting House, the Garrison House, the Courthouse, and the training ground. Court was held here 1649-1680, town and court records 1639-1928."

As we turn to the left to go into the typical New England small village now called Salisbury Center, we pass the beautiful triangular park which is so characteristic of these villages that has lovely maple trees and the beautiful well-kept green grass. There are two monuments, one to World War I and the other to World War II and Korean War service men. This little triangle gives evdence of two things: first, that a good many Trues are still living in this part of the country, and secondly, they are apparently as much involved with the defense of this country as they were in the very early years of the town's history. The one marker headed "In grateful Appreciation of those who served the town of Salisbury in W.W. I", are listed the three Trues: Fred L., Herbert E., and Waldorf A. From W.W. II, the names are: Bruce C., Charles F., Everett A., John A., and Herbert E. Jr. For the Korean conflict the names are: Franklin E. Jr. and Merrill J.

Several new buildings have been erected in the Salisbury Center. Most of the places of business are located in these new buildings. Together they give a clean and spacious sort of an atmosphere. Leaving in the direction of Hampton, New Hampshire, Lafayatte Road passes under the railroad track right on the edge of town, immediately to the left after going under the railroad track is True Road. This road marks the location of many True residences through the years. We understand that it was the early area in which essentially all the farmland was occupied by the True families. Efforts to learn which were the oldest or which were occuped by the first and second Henry Trues or William True were not entirely successful.

A number of old houses are still standing along True Road. We stopped at the first one on the north, as we turned left off a Lafayatte Road and we found that this was the residence of Everett True, whose widow Clara True and daughter Barbara are still living there, Everett having passed away in 1957. They are descendent through the Jabez True line, Jabez being the son of the second Henry. They are very much interested in the True history of the area and had a considerable amount on geneaology. Through the years a number of additional houses have been built along True Road and many of them, of course, are of a much later period than the old ones. The one that we visited tnat was the Everett True residence was reported to have been built in 1830 and it looks like one of the old houses.

The land is very well wooded and covered with brush, while there is no evidence of out-cropping of rocks. A few places of meadows are still open and evidently hay is being cut, I presume for horses at this period. One can get an idea of what the fields must have been like as clearings within the timber area which presumably existed here originally. One of the interesting things that came out in our conversation with Mrs. True and her daughter was the reference to Moses True who they say was called Moonlight Mos because of his habit of planting in the moonlight which he felt was good insurance of a good crop. Other names that were of enough interest so that they mentioned them were Prince Albert True, who owned a place that will be mentioned later on in this discussion, and George Washington True whose generation and lineage I don't know at this time.

We followed True Road probably as much as a mile before we reached the place where it intersects with Highway #110, coming in from the other side was the town of Salisbury Center. There are several old houses along this road and one or two of them look as though they may have been places of considerable note but we didn't get any information on any of them. We did gather from our discussion with different people that actually originally almost all of places were occupied by some member of the True family. Then after we returned to the Lafayatte Road, we kept a road further away from Salisbury. Approximately four houses further on we reached what is known locally now either as the Red Feather House or the Fletcher Place and it was identified by remains of a restaurant which had burned down. The restaurant was marked "Allan" rather than "The Red Feather," but we were sure that this was the place that we were looking for. We found this to be a very attractive two-story frame house, certainly of rather old lineage. This was the house that was last occupied by Prince Albert True who was mentioned a little while ago. He was evidently a well-known citizen and we found his grave later on in the True Cemetary. We could not be sure that this was the location of the original Henry True place but the evidence was pretty strong that this was the case. I still am in hopes of being able to get the legal description of this property and to check the ownership of it through the official records for the county of Salem, but I don't know just how quickly we can get this done.

Leaving Salisbury on a road that is sort of roughly parallel to Lafayatte Road and running approximately north, we came to a place where this road forks where the old #1 goes on the right side at a cut-off to the new Interstate 95 goes to the other. At this point is the cemetary which is usually known as the True Cemetary at which we found a great many graves of Trues who had been buried in the years past. We did a rather careful search here to see whether we could find any that were directly of the ancestry that I was looking for, but were not very successful in this. There were a few who were buried before 1800. Prince Albert True's marker shows that he died in February of 1917. His wife and daughter are also buried here.

Elder Jabez True, who is listed as having been a minister for forty years and having died in 1835, is also buried here. Another Jabez who died in 1875 at the age of 72 years and 11 months and his wife Anna who died in 1890 also finally found their final resting place here. Their son Oliver, who was mentioned in some of the literature that I have been reading, is credited with having started the history of the True family before his health broke and the project was broken off before his death in 1863.

We learned of another cemetary up a different road from Salisbury. Starting out on the Beach Road, we visited this with a good deal of interest. We found the names of a number of people there including the original minister of the town of Salisbury for whom a more modern marker has been erected. We gave his name in connection with the first plate that I mentioned or I believe it was the second one about Salisbury. Also buried here were a good many of the Pikes, who of course were of the family of Israel Pike, the wife of the immigrant Henry True. Robert Pike has a nice mar-er in his behalf. Several of the other Pikes are buried here as well as a number of members of other families, names of which are mentioned rather frequently in connection with our readings about Salisbury.

Then on to the south of Salisbury, we came to another cemetary that is referred to as being in a "Plain Grove". Actually it is not as much a plain grove as it is adjacent to a plain area. Here were buried a number of families including the Currier family. That was the one into which Winthrop True married. Winthrop True was the one that stayed in the area around Salisbury when most of the family of William True moved away.

Out of town something like a mile or a mile and a half from Amesbury on what is known as Monroe Street is another cemetary known as the Salisbury Plains Cemetary. This is much more modern and contains the graves of many of the Trues who have stayed in the Salisbury area. We found only one old stone on which we could be sure of the word "True", this was Abel True, but we could not make out the year or anything else about it. Around it were several other old ones including two that were doubled indicating that they might have been the markers for children. In this cemetary were buried the people that had occupied the house that I'm going to talk about next which was known in recent years as the Cyrus True House and which I am hoping that we can show later on was the home of William True who represented the third generation in Salisbury of our line Henry, Henry, and then William. The date of the house, which is located on 383 Elm Street, is really not entirely certain. I discussed this house with Martha True of Salisbury, Mrs. Cray of the Bartlett Museum, and particularly the young lady who was living in the house, who is a direct descendent from the Cyrus True who lived here. There are various reports on the house which has very definitely been rebuilt one or more times since the early days. One story is that the house originally stood on the other side of Elm Street, that it has been moved across the street, and that it was rebuilt about 1810. Another one which seems to have more support for it, was that the house was rebuilt at the time of the marriage of Cyrus True and given as a gift to him and his bride Nancy Merrill Barnard whom he married in 1850. At any rate we are reasonably sure that the dairy house which is on the rear of the house was formally something of a much more important part of a structure than it is now because there is very fine wood paneling in the ceiling. The windows in the house are most interesting since the original windows with small panes were taken out of the front of the house and moved to the back, some of them used in the cow shed, and the front is now supplied with windows that have only two panes to each sash, which characterizes them as the Victorian period. The family understanding was that this is what is left of the original William True home. The property has been in the name of a True continously since it was first patented as we are given to understand, only recently was it purchased by somebody whose name was other than True, Mrs. Sears who was born Gertrude Nancy True, the daughter of Leonard True, who was in turn the son of William True, who was the son of Winthrop. Winthrop, as I mentioned before, was one of the original William True sons who remained in the Salisbury community. The land where this place is located is slated for development and actually has been zoned for development. We are given to understand that Mrs. Sears is quite determined to keep the house as a pioneer house and even to restore part of it more to the original condition.

This is in what is known as the Rocky Hill area and I find in the book by Mrs. Saunders Smith entitled Founders of Massachusett's Bay Colony on page 281, the following language about the William True home: "Captain William True's home was situated in that portion of Salisbury called Rocky Hill. It consisted of a large farmhouse and about a hundred acres of land. He was attorney for his father's estate and occupied many positions of trust in the town. Principally he'd been selectman in charge of town affairs. His family received liberal education, were married, and entered into different program settlements with the exception of his son Winthrop, who remained at home, married Dorothy Currier, and succeeded to the estates. Dorothy Currier was the daughter of Samuel Currier, Esquire, a man who held many prominent offices in the early history of Salisbury."

My comments about Salisbury would not be complete without mentioning a visit to the Bartlett Museum in the south part of Amesbury where Margaret Rice is librarian, historian, and where the lady with whom I had talked is Mrs. Milton Cray, who is president of the museum. This museum had started out on a program of accumulating information not only on the families of Amesbury, but also the houses. I was glad to hear that the house that I have just described is one of the first ones on which they hoped to do some research.

Lest there be confusion on the terms of Amesbury and Salisbury, I might mention again that the boundaries have been changed. Although we think of the Trues as having lived in Salisbury, this house which is on what they call Rocky Hill now definitely a part of Amesbury, is in the territory which was part of Salisbury at the time that the original settlements occurred in this area.

On our return visit to the Fletcher farm, we were able to see the man who now owns and occupies it and goes by the name of Whitey Davis. He knows very little about the place except that it is a True homestead and he thinks that the land across the road originally was part of the same one. He said that of course the territory making up the farm was originally much larger and that a considerable amount of it has been sold off and that he now owns either 22 or 26 acres which has been divided into lots for sale for individual houses. He was quite friendly but not really very informative about the place. He has been having some difficulty about an easement which was given to Mr. Allan when he had the steak house on part of the property. It appears that Allan was given an easement that permitted him to dump raw sewerage on top of the ground and now for some reason he is sueing the present owner Mr. Davis who bought the property on mortgage foreclosure. One interesting thing that we did achieve was to see the pictures which had been taken at an earlier date. Neither one of the two had been dated, but one was evidently much older than the other, as judged by the size of the trees. Strangely enough the oldest one was the one that did not show the connection between the house and the barn as being continuous, while the other one did. There is no such connection now. The doors and the windows seem to have no change between the two pictures. We were not able to find out really very much about the house or its history from them. Mrs. Davis had indicated that they had received a record or had studied into a record of the ownership of the house through the years but she did not remember the names. Mr. Davis seemed to be reluctant to tell me what is the legal description of the property. I got the impression that he might have been concerned about the pending lawsuit.

The next place that we went was up the coast only a little ways where we stopped at old Salem on the way. This is the place where the first True, Henry with the Governor Saltenstal party, made his home, when he came to this country probably in 1634 as a mariner or a seamen. He then engaged in the trade with the West Indies and was one of the earlier ones bringing molasses and rum from the West Indies to our New England shores. He made Salem his headquarters for several years and then in 1657 he moved up the coast to Salisbury which was named after Salisbury, England and which was practically a new frontier settlement at that time.

Salisbury was a very interesting place. It had been settled by those who had moved from other New England settlements and as I mentioned, was very much of a frontier place laid out with the village green and the commons. The houses were actually scattered over a fairly large area. You might almost consider them small farms because most of the people had to depend on producing their own food and other things that they might require even though they might have a trade such as some of the Trues did in the form of a weaver or some other job of that kind. Salisbury is a nice clean looking place with the Highway #1 running right through it and quite roomy and neat as many of the New England towns are.

Just north of the town is the house previously described, where probably the first True habitation was built and it is still known as the Fletcher house. Fletcher was the name of the man to whom Henry True's widow was married after he died. Henry lived only about two years after they came to Salisbury. Their children were then brought up by Fletcher, but as far as we can find out they were never adopted and always carried the name of True. Henry True, the second, was one of the best known of these. He took over the property from his father's estate.

The Salisbury area was the home of our forebearers for four generations. As we look at the surrounding area, we see some of the remains of houses that we know have been there for a long time and realize that in the change this is now become practically a bedroom area for Boston. People commute some 25 to 30 miles to work in Boston everyday. We got a picture of some of the changes that have taken place in the old portions of the U.S. during the 325 years since the Trues first came there. It's a matter of a good deal of interest to know that what was happening there was typical of the coast and it gives you some idea of how long it took to get a foothold and before the people really began to move very far inland. A great deal has been written about the community during that time and about the people who lived there, and I suppose nothing that we came across gave me any more of a lift than a statement about the town and the Trues that is included in a book by Mrs. Saunders Smith which is called The Founders of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. In this book she says, "Salisbury was the home of the Trues who occupied more positions of trust in the town, became more prominent and independent in their religious declaration, produced more men for the staunch support of our national independence, more men of letters and science, and assisted in the 17th and 18th centuries more in the colonization of other sections of the wilderness than it has been my privilege to record for any other family. The Trues were of that staunch, sympathetic, reliqious nature that they were not content all together with the daily life of agricultural pursuits, but were rather imbued with the belief that mankind needed help and comfort in its social as well as its religious life and many of the family were evangelists and preachers." She then goes on to tell about the work that they did in the new settlements and how they contributed to the religious life of these new settlements that they went to. Now it's a little hard to tell whether all of this is actually based on such outstanding qualities as she imputes to the Trues or whether part of it is just the enthusiasm of a True descendent who is a very good historical writer. Anyway, I think you can agree that we can be very proud of a statement like that being in a well accepted history of the country.

The Trues lived in this area for four generations as I have said and it was not until we are well into the seventeen hundreds, in fact, shortly before the revolution that one of them became interested in the move farther away from the home of his ancestors. I could readily spend a good deal of time on the Trues in Salisbury, the details of what they did, how Henry was the first captain of militia,[1] how one of them was a selectman, which is the name that applies to the town board members who had a great deal more authority in those days than they have during our lifetime, and how they were active in religious and other affairs of the community.

II. Trues After Leaving Salisbury, Mass.

I found a great deal of the interest in the movements that were made and some of the things that happened afterwards. Beginning with this movement which was at a time when many people were beginning to move from the small seaboard settlements farther inland, this is what I find about Joseph True: Joseph was the fifth in a line of succession from immigrant Henry. He was born in Salisbury, Mass., Dec. 7, 1728, and was the first ancestor to move from the home of four generations of Trues to a challenging new frontier. He married Abigail Page in Salisbury Nov. 4, 1749 and by her had one son, Joseph from whom our line descends. She apparently died young, as in 1756 he again married, this time to Sarah Prescott in Petersburg, New Hampshire. They must have soon moved for soon after they were at Chester, New Hampshire, not far from present Manchester. The first of their five children was born there in 1757. The History of Chester, N.H. from 1719-69, written by Benjamin Chase first mentions Joseph in 1755 as a surveyor of roads. Also in 1767 in connection with a road joining his property. An old map shows his land comprising parts of lots #813 and 814 just south of Raymond, old hundred acre lots the junction of south Raymond and Exeter Road. Both the history and earlier town records which are available in microfilm at the historical, geneaological library in Concord, mention him many times because of his involvement in so many public activities. In 1772, 73, and 74 he was a selectman. During most years he was chosen at the annual town meeting for some specific responsibilities. These included fence viewer, surveyor of lands, road surveyor, examiner of selectmen's accounts, and others. The inventory of 1777 shows that as a constable he was responsible for collecting state taxes in the amount of 64 lbs., five shillings and nine pence. Like many frontiersmen Joseph carried military responsibilities, he was chosen by the militia as sergeant in 1765 and captain in 1775.

There's a great deal of interest about this little town of Chester which we will have to pass over rather hurredly, but the interesting thing to us was that as we trace the map for the community of Chester we found that it was quite close to Auburn, N.H. where my wife Gertrude's relatives lived. As we checked it further we found that her ancestor, David Dinsmore, was shown as owning land not over nine miles from Joseph True. So that in about the middle of the seventeen hundreds our relatives were living that close together in N.H. and probably actually attended meetings together and were acquainted with one another.

The sixth generation in our line, Enoch was born in Salisbury probably in 1752. He represented to a very marked degree the spirit of the late seventeen hundreds and early eighteen hundreds. He was a mover. His mother Abigail Page True did not live long according to indications. As far as we know he moved with his father to Chester, N.H., a distance of about fifteen miles where his father raised the family of seven other children with his second wife Sarah Prescott. After he purchased land at Sandwich which became Carroll County in N.H. near Lake Winnipesaukee in 1772. He started a period of thirty years in that frontier area. With his marriage to Abigail Richardson we have a record of seven children, five of whom married in the Lake Winnipesaukee area. Enoch was a deacon, presumably in the Congregational Church due to the fact that the library at Sandwich historical society was closed for an addition and the fact that we were unable to contact the association secretary, we did not obtain pertinent information on the life of Enoch True in Sandwich. We had not probed the availability of Sandwich vital records or town records in Concord as we had done for Chester and Holderness. And vital records in the office of the town clerk didn't begin until 1874, the earlier ones having been destroyed by fire. The result of this combination of factors was that our records on Enoch in Sandwich are meager indeed. He sold his property early in 1802 and moved another step about 75 miles to Sutton in the northern part of Vermont. The Vermont Historical Gazateer says that Enoch True came from Sandwich, N.H. to purchase the Captain John Anthony place. Later he bought the Cahoon grist mill. Now it appears that this Anthony place may have been the place of Anthony the prime mover in obtaining the original grant of about 23,000 acres from which Billy Mead township, afterwards changed to Sutton township was formed in 1782. Local history shows that the first clearing was made in 1792, the first family arrived in 1792, and the first child was born in 1795. Enoch was chosen as deacon in the Free Will Baptist Church in 1803. That denomination was spreading rather rapidly and represented a withdrawel from the rigidity and what many thought were the tyrannical demands of the Congregational Church and of Calvinism in general. In 1809, 130 Free Will Baptist Churches were reported, many of which were in New Hampshire and Vermont. In 1805, 06, and 08, Enoch served as a lister. That's the name that is still used for assessors in Vermont. He was a selectman in 1805 and 6. Inventory of 1803 shows that Enoch had $100 and a watch, this was one of only two watches in the new town which at that time reported no clocks and no sheep. From available indications Enoch was probably one of the more affluent citizens of Sutton while he lived there from 1802 until his death in 1816. Records and deeds of the town show that he made but one sale of real estate, this was a one acre lot sold to Anna Beck in 1806 for $20.

To return to the children of Enoch and Abigail Richardson True, the oldest three sons, John, Joseph, and Enoch married and lived their lives in the Lake Winnipesaukee area of N.H. We learn more about John later as our line descends through him. The only daughter Abibail was married to Joseph Smith in Moultonborough, N.H. Now some of their descendents are shown to have married Beans and Brockways in the Sutton, Vermont area. Since she was buried there, it appears that Abigail's marriage occurred in 1798 before her parents moved from Sandwich, her married life was spent in Sutton. The fourth son was Thomas who was married in Sandwich. I will not go into detail about Thomas and the two youngest sons as they are not as much involved as John who we are going to talk about later.

One writer mentioning Enoch True and his substantial character and his contributions to society in general, mentions two of his descendents, one of whom was an Aaron True, who was a minister who we have found no detailed record on, and the other was another man whose first name I have mislaid who moved to Baraboo, Wisconsin. He was listed as a leading agriculturalist there at the time that the book was written.

Now let's get back to the Lake Winnepesaukee area. This move to Vermont really involved us very little because Enoch's son John, who is our direct ancestor, stayed in the Lake Winnipesaukee area and did not go to Vermont. He was born in 1772 which would have been the year that his father moved to Sandwich and bought his land there. John was married in 1792 in Holderness which is across Squam Lake to Abigail Smith and lived on a farm near Holderness. Their eight children include Enoch True, Simeon who was our great grandfather, and sister Sally who married Louis Felch. The old town of Holderness, chartered in 1761, was on the hill north of route 175 across from the cemetary. Holderness town records in the state library for the 13th of March, 1798, show that John True was chosen the surveyor of highways. Some of the interesting things in the records that are on microfilm are the inventories of certain years. The assessor's records show the property on which people were taxed. In 1810, John was shown as having 227 acres of unimproved land and improvements valued at $200. By 1821, he was shown as having 124 acres of unimproved land still listed at a dollar an acre, value $124, ten acres of arable or crop land, twelve acres of pasture land. At that time he had two horses, two hogs, five cows, and two other cattle. So you can see that he was a small, probably very close to s self-sufficient farm operator. His taxes that year amounted to $1.83 for state, 81¢ for county, $7.79 for the town, and $3.27 for school.

One of the other men who had worked on these records had reported that he had found a record of the burial of John in the Holderness Village Cemetary. Although we visited that cemetary and checked all the gravestones, we were unable to find his burial in that location. Without doubt he is buried somewhere in the neighborhood of Holderness. We[2] are not sure whether the farm still referred to by people in the Lake Winnipesaukee area as the True farm was his farm or not. It is located on the west side of the lake not very far from the town line between Holderness and Sandwich. Until very recently it has carried the sign "The True Farm." For a number of years it has been owned by a family named West. In driving past it we did not pick up any notice of the sign and apparently missed the place. Those who have visited it including Frances Moss, whom you may recognize as former Frances True, one of Uncle Steve's girls, who has been here visiting her son, tells us that she visited the farm a number of years ago and that it was a very excellent old farmhouse at that time. In an old map that we found it was listed along about the late 1800's as belonging to a C.L. True. So far we have not traced the family line of that individual.[3]

Now we come to Simeon Smith True in the line of our ancestors. He was born in Holderness, 16th of April of 1802. He was married twenty years later in September of 1822 to Lucy Sturtevant of a well-known ancient Sturtevant family that lived at Centre Harbor. They originally settled on Squam Neck, which is the neck of land between Lake Winnipesaukee and Squam Lake. After his service in the revolution, Hosea Sturtevant, then a young man of about twenty, came and looked over this land as a possible place in which to settle. He reportedly climbed the tallest pine tree that he could find in the area and looked all over the land. He wanted to see how it lay and where otner houses might have been built because he wanted to have plenty of space for the place that he was going to locate. He picked out a spot which proved over the years to be a very good one. He then went back to Halifax, Mass., and together with his father and the rest of the family traveled on foot from Mass. over to this point in New Hampshire to start their new home. When he was here one his earlier trip he had met a Sarah Paine whose father had a cabin there where he had been living there for some time. Sarah reportedly was one of eleven daughters in the Paine family. She and Hosea Sturtevant were married and the Sturtevants then occupied much of the territory around there. At one time six brothers had farms that were adjoining. We did not get to see the layout of all of these farms, although we did see the places where some of the holes still mark the spots of the foundations of the houses. Much of the land, of course, is built up now for a much closer settlement.

[2]On our 1975 trip we found grave markers for John and his wife Abigail in the True Cemetary across the road from where their home for sixty years probably stood.

[3]The farm is still called the True Farm. The house has been beautifully restored by the present owner George Butler. It was originally owned by Joseph True, brother of John. John's house was nearby.

Simeon Smith True was the eigth in our line of Trues in this country. He was born in Holderness, where he lived as a young man, and he married Lucy Sturtevant of Center Harbor in 1822. They moved to the Hosea Sturtevant place, which was her girlhood home, sometime probably before 1827. He is shown as having been elected to a town office at Holderness in 1824, and their oldest child was born in Holderness, and their second one in Center Harbor in 1827. The land records in Stafford county show that they purchased the farm of about 130 acres from Hosea Sturtevant in 1830. There they made their home until Simeon's death in 1845. Ten children were born to the couple. At his death the estate was probated, and the widow was granted her portion. The estate at that time was valued at $1200 for real estate, and $460 for personal property.

Lucy's father, Hosea, made his home with her until his death five years later in 1850. That same year she married John True, a cousin of Simeon. He was crippled and was able to do only a limited amount of work, so through all the years in which she continued to live on the farm she carried more than her share of the physical labor as well as the responsibility. Through my father, I got the story that she was a hard worker and frequently went into the fields and took her boys with her to do the work that had to be done there. She lived for 43 years after the death of Simeon.

The history of the ten children of Simeon and Lucy is probably typical of the many New Hampshire families of the time. Movements away from the crowded area with limited physical resources and opportunities were taking place at a rather rapid rate. The two oldest sons, David Maro and George H., moved to Manchester, N.H. where they established themselves in this rapidly growing industrial town. John Nelson settled in Meredith which is only a little ways away from Center Harbor. Three brothers, Hosea, Louis, and Charles, moved to Minnesota. Two daughters, Juliette and Sarah, married in N.H. and continued in that state through their lifetimes. Gilman S. died at the age of only five. Wesley Simeon, the youngest son, died in the army in Va. during the Civil War.

We obtained considerable interesting information about Center Harbor and the old pine tree and its history. The house that was built, was occupied first by the Sturtevants, and then the Trues, and then by the Lord family, Juliette, the daughter, having married Harrison Lord. Also there's an interesting history available of how the Hosea Sturtevant family first moved from Halifax, Mass. to Center Harbor. It must wait until later.

To the Members of the TRUE Family in the United States:

The undersigned have had the privilege of examining "A Genealogy and Memorial of the TRUE Family in the United States," prepared by Dr. H. A. True, of Marion, Marion County, Ohio. It gives evidence of having been compiled with great labor and care, and is admirable in its arrangement, and interesting in its details. We agree with him in the suggestion that it is best to re-write it, both for the convenience of the printer and to allow the new matter, which has already accumulated, to be inserted in its proper place, as well as to give another opportunity for further contributions.

We, therefore, earnestly request all of the TRUE name or connection, who have information respecting their families not yet communicated, to lose no time in sending the same to the compiler at Marion, Ohio. Let this cover memorials as well as statistics of birth, marriage, death, residence, occupation, etc.

He was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and in the war of 1812. Afterward he was Captain in the militia many years. The family went to Maine from Salisbury, Mass., about 1815. He and his sons were stout, strong men, and were invited frequently to "raisings." On the occasion of one invitation, he inquired if there was to be rum there. Being told there was, he declined to attend. The "raising" did not go on very well, and a pressing request was sent to him to come and help. He declined decidedly, until a promise was made to banish the rum. Then he and his boys took hold of the work, and it went up without further difficulty.

THE FAMILY OF TRUE IN AMERICA

BY DR. HENRY A. TRUE AND HENRY TRUE, MARION, OHIO

I once examined the "Gentlemen's Magazine" back some 200 years and with reference to the name True I found the first mention of it as Trye from France. I also found the name Trew in Dutch Heraldy books. I recently went over the London P. O. directory and found the name Trew in two or three instances only. I find the name Trew with many derivatives among the Welsh --- Trewlawny, Trewpenny, etc. By Benj. C. True, Esq., Cincinnati, O.

"There was recently an Archdeacon Trew of the English Church." C. K. True DD

Note by Henry True.

"In 1894 while in England I looked for the name of True and found it only in Lincolnshire. The possible kindred names of Trow and Trew were quite frequent in the directories of many of the large cities of England. In _____, Sir Richard Trewe was mayor of the City of York."

PREFACTORY NOTE

The idea of publishing a genealogy of the American Branch of the True Family owes its inception and inspiration to (599) 7 Deacon Jabez True of East Salisbury, Mass. His son, 1779 2 Oliver A. True, Esq., made considerable collections toward the preparation of such a work, but his early removal from earthly labor brought all anticipations of realizing its completion to an abrupt termination. He died 29 Jan 1863 at the age of 28.

After some years, when it seemed no one else was ready and willing to undertake the completion of the work thus begun, the undersigned was persuaded "to do what he could" toward a more complete Memorial of the Family True.

To suppose that no errors have been committed would be unreasonable, considering the nature of the work, since it deals so largely with dates. All that can be said here is, that the utmost care has been taken to make it as correct as possible. It would not be surprising if errors might be traced to some who have furnished information, since it has been found that the same person in some intances at different times has not given precisely the same statistics.

all of whom have exhibited particular interest and have made large contributions. The kind expression of cheer and good wishes from others, accompanied with more limited stastistics, not forgetting the warm sympathy of many of the gentler sex - equally descendants of Henry True[1] of Salem - are remembered with the kind return of good wishes and kind salutations.

If any one will reflect a moment upon the nature of this work and the manner in which information must necessarily be obtained, - sometimes of reluctant or careless persons, occasionally of those who are given to the chronic suspicion that there is a vernerable negro in the woodpile and whose knowledge is drawn out somewhat after the manner of extracting teeth, - he will have a partial conception of the vexations that belong to an enterprise like the present. These however, are far outweighted by the sympathy arising from new acquaintances formed, new relations established, and the bond of kindred and of blood.

It will be seen by an inspection of the following pages that many of the race of True have been connected with the Church of Christ, either as public teachers or as officers. A large number have the prefix of Rev or Dea. May the names of all, whether found in this volume or not, be found written in the "Lamb's Book of Life."

SOME CHARACTERISTICS OF THE TRUES by Nathaniel Tuckerman True, MD

"On visiting some of the Trues of Massachusetts, and comparing them with those who came from Maine a century ago, I was forcibly struck with the common type of physical appearance. The same arched and heavy eyebrows, round and full forehead, the large frame, sanguineous temperament, and slow and deliberate speech, quite humor, overshadowed by a grave and sometimes severe demeanor, with much stronger reflective than preceptive faculties, --- all seem the same in families far removed by hundreds of miles, and a hundred years. I remember how the stock looked who were born, some of them a hundred years ago. They were quite, industrious, prudent, moral and religious, churchgoing people and fond of the society of their relatives and neighbors. Ocassionally an odd streak ran through some of them which rendered the individual a terror, especially to intrusive boys.

Their generally grave character, good judgement and stalwart frame gave them prominence in society. Hence, nearly all of them were military captains, selectmen, or deacons. They did not seek these offices. They only held them as obedient citizens. Hence they rarely aspired to any special honors. The military officer performed his duties as long as required by law, and then resigned the higher rank to which he was entitled, to some more ambitious aspirant, not deeming the honor equivalent to the expense. I remember three brothers who were military captains at the same time in the same regiment.

The female portion of the Trues should not be passed over in silence. They were generally as marked in character as the other sex. Some were distinguished for beauty; others for nobility of character. I remember some with their massive Websterian forehead and heavy eyebrows, who with a good intellectual training could have made their mark in public life.

We deem it a compliment, here in Maine when we raise a smile at the assertion that the Trues are distinguished from all others by two traits in common; that they are all very honest and rather handsome (This last epithet we suppose. is to be understood in a Pickwickian sense. Editor Henry A. True).

Our Henry True[1] must have had marked peculiarities, which have not been overshadowed by the lapse of ten generations, through a period of two hundred and fifty years. Parental influence on their offspring has generally been decidedly more marked, on the part of the father than of the mother.

F A M I L Y O F T R U E

Almost nothing is known of the Family of True previous to the emigration to America. A case in Chancery is mentioned as occurring in 1576 in which a True was a party in Mr. Drake's Book, "Emigrants to America from England Previous to 1680" is the following: 21 May 1635; These underwritten names are to be transported to St. Christopher's imbarqued in the Mathew of London, Richard Goodladd, Mr. p. warrant from ye Earle of Carisle. Among a list of 132 names is that of Ant. True, age 18.

It was common in those days for emigrants to America to take the West Indies route on their way. The peculiarity of the first name in this case, rather Italian than English suggest the idea that this may have been assumed for some reason as yet unknown and that the real name might have been some other. It is only a suggestion, however the probability is that these emigrants to St. Christopher's found their way for the most part very speedily to New England by means of the vessels which even then frequented the Bermudas and Barbadoes.

There is a tradition widely current that two brothers came together from England of the name of True. This is indicated by the memorandum in 225 John True's Bible, in which he says "Jabez True and one brother came from England" then he proceeded to say that the sons of Jabez True were Henry, Jabez and Samuel and he plainly commited an error with what he had heard as probably true. Farmer's Register makes the same statement as to the two brothers although it probably derived its information from John True. Be this as it may, however, all those of the name in this country appear to have descended from one of the two brothers named Henry True.

The tradition is scarcely less definite that the first emigrant or emigrants came from Yorkshire, England. The writer heard this from his father when a boy and he is pursuaded that the idea is founded upon information in circulation in the family. The first child of Henry True of Salem was born in 1644-5. His age may have been eighteen in 1635 and twentyseven at the time of his marriage. But his wife in all probability was not over twenty one or twenty two at the same time. This would suggest that he came over in some of the vessels which brought emigrants under the auspices of Sir Richard Saltonstall, 1630-35 (and he may have met the Pikes at the time). Sir Richard was from Halifax in Yorkshire and there are persons by the name of True living in the neighborhood of Huddersfield, at Lockwood, and at Bradford all of which are in Yorkshire. What adds force to this conjecture is that the emigrants with Sir Richard generally found their way to the eastward of Boston and settled in the towns of Salem, Danvers, Ipswich, etc., and that the first we know of Henry is that he is found at Salem in 1644 purchasing a small lot of land and a house.

The first True in this country of whom we have definate information has been called by way of distinction,

1 Henry True[1] of Salem.

In Felts Annals of Salem the name is spelled Trew but this seems rather an error of copyists as the method of forming the final e at that time was such as to make the u and the e together to resemble a w more than a ue --- and to cause hasty readers of manuscripts to misinterpret the spelling of the name. Hence the error if Felt and Savage, derived perhaps from second hands. Among those g.l. (granted lands) is the name of Henry Trew, 1640 in Felt's Annals and we find another entry as follows: 3 10 1649; also 17 10 1649; Henry True doth request for land; and Granted forty acres "Salem Town Records"

In the year 1644, August 16, Henry True purchased a house and lot in Salem, probably to enter house keeping. It had belonged to a man by the name of Stratton, who had gone to Barbadoes and left the sale of it with Major Gibbons. The latter gave a "Bill of Sale," which is recorded as the deed in 1st Vol. of Records at Salem and it was afterwards treated as such in subsequent conveyances of the property. Within a few years (the writer was informed in 1861 by a gentleman of Salem) the title of certain property had been traced back to this very instrument and was found to cover land in the neighborhood of India House. The Article is as follows: (Translation)

> I, Edward Gibbons, doe acknowledge to have received of Henry True of Salem fower pound for the house in Salem, which was Mr. Shatton's; and by this payment doe give him fulle possession of the said House; to him and his forever.
> The 16 of August 1644 by me Edward Gibons

The following explanatory paper is also on record apparently to strenghten the title, as the paper above was simply a Bill of Sale in form:

"The testimony of Thomas Browning aged about 73 years & Samuel Ariharth aged 52 years sayth the said Thomas being chosen by henry true, and the sayd Samuel being chosen by Major Gibbins are to appriaise a house that sometime was Mr. John Stratton's and that time in the hands or disposing of Major Gibbens & and to be sold to the sayd henry true according to the above mentioned appriaisers, did value the said house at four pounds together with the grounds adjoining thereto 40th sayd house is sitheat in Salem by the South River side and adjoining the house lands of ye foresaid Tho. Browning & further sayth not and this was about 15 or 16 years ago.

Taken oso oath by both the Third above mentioned.
10-10 mo 1660, before Witt Stathorror.
(Jan. 10.1661 Will Hawthorne)"

The original bill of sale is now in the hands of Dea Jabez True (1872) of East Salisbury and is indorsed, possibly in the handwriting of one 1 Henry True[1]

Samuel Archard was freeman 1668. Thomas Browning came to Ipswich, 1687. Made freeman, and g.l.

SETTLEMENT OF THE TOWN OF SALISBURY

From the "Records of Massachusetts," find a petition of Mr. Bradstreete, Mr. Dudley Jr., Capt. Dennison, Mr. Clarke of Newbury, Mr. Woodbridge, Mr. Battye (Batt), Mr. Batter, Mr. Winsley, Hon: Bilye, Giles Firman, Richard Kent, and John Sanders are allowed "to begin a plantation at Merrimack" and shall have liberty to associate to them such others as they can agree upon; and if any difference fall out amongst the planters about the seat of their towne, or the receiving of other associates or allotment of lands, that then this Court or the Counsell shall set order in it. Sept. 6th, 1638."

Simone Bradstreet, Samuel Dudley, Daniell Dennisonn, Christopher Batt, Samuel Winsley, and John Sanders met 3rd mo 1639 and "It was ordered that there shall be two divisions of meadow, the one nearer the other farther, the nearest shall have fewer acres to each 100^{h}(pounds) the other left to farther consideration."

"It was further ordered that vpland for planting lotts shall be divided so as he that has Vnder 50 pounds shall have 4 Acresand he that has aboue 50 to 150 shall have 6 Acres, and all aboue shall haue 4 Acres to Euerie 100 pounds. Allso it was ordered that all lotts granted to singlemen are on condition that they shall inhabitt here before the last of october next." (Oct 1639 or 1640?).

The plantation was named 'Colechester' 4 Sep 1639 and Salsbury 7 Oct 1640.

It appears the original proprietors of townships divided the land assigned to them which was conveyed in the usual manner; the remaining part was reserved in shares of common ownership, whence the use of the word 'commonage' which could itself be transmitted by heirship or deed designated by the share or shares of the first settlers, and are known to this day in the town of Salisbury.

SOME OF THE EARLY SETTLERS OF SALISBURY

John Pike came from Langford, England, ti the ship James to Newbury in 1635 embarking at Southampton. His wife's name was Sarah. He moved to Salisbury and died there in 1654 on 26 May. (The next line is missing from the text, however it seems that the following is a capsule history of the Salisbury area).

Ca 10 June 1605. Wymouth sailed up Penobscot Bay and River; anchored abreast Camden Mountain on the 12th and sent 10 men with a boy to carry powder and match ashore to hunt.

1606/7. Established a colony at the mouth of the Kenebac; Popham and Gilbert and forty five. May 1607 erected a fortress called Fort George.

1615. The Abemgues, under the chief of the Wancrocks at Pemaquid.

1621. Monhegan, a general resort for fisherman and traders. John Brown settled at New Harbor near Pemaquid and bought the land between Broad Bay and Damarisootta River, twenty five miles wide.

1623. Sagadahoe, Merry Meeting, Cape New Again, Pemaquid and St. George's.

The Dutch as early as 1607. Dameriscotta; cellars and chimneys of great antiquity are found at New Castle. Pemaquid means Long Point; Damariscotta, Little Fisher.

1630. Grant called Muscomgus Patent made March 23rd. Beauchamp and Levert of Lands on St. George. Ashley and Pierce were sent to settle, with 5 others, to make a truck house, supposedly near General Knox's house.

1664. Territory from St Croix to Pemaquid and Kennebec granted to Duke of York, with settlements on Hudson and Delaware. His government was extended for twenty five years as the county of New Castle. He caused a city to be built called Jamestown and a Fort called Fort Charley at Pemaquid.

1689. August. The Fort at Pemaquid was taken by assult and most of the inhabitants killed or carried into captivity.

1692. Fort William Henry built of stone by Governor Phipps on the site of the Pemaquid Stockade (Fort Charley?). This was disgracefully surrendered in 1696 by Cpt Chubb. Several expeditions were made into the eastern country by Ca?ts, Church, Converse and March. Cpt March landed at Damariscotta 9 Sep 1697 and was attacked by savages before well ashore, and though he gallantly charged and repulsed, had 12 or 13 of his men killed and as many wounded.

1715 Ft George built at town Falls of Anddroscoggin and 1716 the town of Georgetown incorporated in honor of King George I. York County extended to St Croix and York established as shire town. Fort of Pemaquid repaired and garrisoned.

1719. John Swevett and Associates erected two block houses on the eastern side of St George's River with a covered way to the water side and a large area between them enclosed with palisades; this was in front of the General Knox mansion in Thomaston. A garrison of twenty men was maintained under Cpt Thomas Westbrook.

1721. Rev W. Baxter spent a portion of time at St George.

1722. Lovewell's War - first attack at Merry-Meeting. 15th of June attack at St George; 200 Indians burned a sloop, killed one and took six prisoners. 24 August. A larger body with a Friar and two Frenchmen renewed the attack and continued the assault furiously for twelve days and nights but failed. The work was made a public garrison; soldiers wages: Captain 7 pounds per month; Lieutenant, 4 pounds; Sergeant, 2 pounds, 8 shillings; private, 2 pounds.

1723. Expedition up the Penobscot with 230 men under Col Westbrook.

1724. Cpt Josiah Winslow in command of the fort; going out of the Fort to Green Island April 30 with 16 men, beset and killed.

1725. 13 Dec. Command of St George given Cpt John Gyles, the builder and late commander of Ft George at Brunswick. He was the son of Thomas Gyles, Esq., of Pemaquid, who had been Chief Justice of the county called Cornwall when under Duke of York. When his father was killed by the Indians 2 Aug 1689, John then a young lad was with his mother, one brother and two little sisters, taken captive and carried off into the wilderness. After a captivity of nearly nine years during which he had many narrow escapes, and became familiar with the Indian tongue, he was set at liberty and immediately taken into the public service at Boston. He was employed as interpreter and held a Captain's commission at Casco, Brunswick and St George which he commanded as late as 1736 or later.

1727. The Indians told Gov Dummer that they liked the first Truckmasters, as "We have nothing to say against Capt Gyles at all, he is a man that is agreeable to us." Eaton infers from the language used by the Indians that Cpt Gyles was not altogether popular. "Perhaps, like his father at Pemaquid, he might have been too rigid and puritanical in the discharge of his duties to suit those undisciplined sons of the forest." It is probable, also, as the office of Truckmaster was lucrative and annually filled by the legislature that some little competition sprang up and the influence of the Indians was sought by the different candidates. The following is part of a letter to Rev Thomas Smith from his father, then Truckmaster.

"To ye Rev M. Thomas Smith, at Falmouth, Casco Bay. Per Sir Wright. St George's Fort, Apr 6th, 1727. Last night arrived here. Sir Wright with express from his Honor, the Sir Governor chiefly relating to the Indian killing of a cow and some swine in the beginning of February at Montinious. Cpt Gyles gives his service to you and entreats you to favor so far if you can order it as to give us a visit here and preach on the Sabbath. Sir Wright offers that if you will do it he will both come with you and carry you back in his schooner free of charge. From your affectionate father. T. Smith." With this postscript -- "At Boston it is much talked of that here is a great difference between Cpt Giles and myself: if there should be the same at Falmouth, you may assure any body that we have not had the least angry word of difference since my arrival from Boston."

1728. 28 November. Cpt Gyles commander of the garrison at Ft St George, received a commission as a Justice of the Peace and was probably the first civil resident magistrate on the bank of the St George River.

1730. Mills were built at Damariscotta by William Vaughan, Esq who was extensively interested in fisheries at Monheghan and Matinious.

1731. Some further provision was made for the accomadation of the garrison at Ft St George, and at the request of Cpt Giles, the Court votes that, "For as much as transporting of wood for this garrison in the usual manner is found too difficult, the said Giles have liberty at the charg of the provisions to purchase one yoke of oxen, one cart and sled for that service; (the soldiers to cut and cart the wood and get hay for keeping the oxen, and get the hay for keeping them in season).

1735. Cpt Giles acted as interpreter between the Mr. Waldo and the Farratine or Penobscot Indians.

1736. A settlement made with the Indians and ratified by the legislature giving Waldo liberty to settle to the upper falls, Warren. The garrison was reduced to one officer and ten men. Cpt Giles retired from the command of St George and settled at Roxbury, MA, where he was living in 1753.

1748. Cpt Bradbury still there.

1752. Cpt Bradbury still at St George's as Truckmaster.

1753. The Indians said, "Cpt Bradbury and Sgt Fletcher are very good men. We like them well and desire that they may be encouraged."

1755. Cpt Bradbury still there. The settlers complained that he favored the Indians. He speaks of this in a letter to the Governor and in a postscript entreats that he may be dismissed from my charge here.

1757. Cpt Jakey Bradbury, 4 pounds a month. He was censured, resigned, and on an investigation by the Legislature, he was completly exculpated. He spent the remainder of his life at Newbury where he died as is believed near the door of the cemetery, well off, never married and his property went to the children of his brothers of whom one or more were settled in Falmouth. Whilst in command of Ft St George, two of his nieces, on a visit there became acquainted with two young men in the garrison. One to John Boggs and the other John Kirkpatrick. Samuel Boggs and Anna were Scotch settlers of Warren. 2d son, John m. Mary Bradbury who died July 22d, 1809, at 77. John Kirkpatrick 6, 1734, came with the Scottish Colony in 1753 married Ann Bradbury and died 17 June 1785 at 51; she died Jan 18 1817 at 82. (The 6,1734 probably should be b 1734).

(Now, turn back to - Some of the Early Settlers of Salisbury - line 3; the missing line may include the following: "Their children were 1 John who M1 Mary ?, M2 30 Jun 1685 Elizabeth Fitz Randolph; 2 Robert B ca 1615 M1 Sarah Sanders: M2 30 Oct 1684 in Salisbury, widow Martha (Moyce) Goldwyer; 3 Dorothy M Daniel Henrick of Haverhill; 4 Israel M1 Henry Trew of Salem, M2 18 June 1660 Joseph Fisher; Ann (or Hannah) had issue in 1654. Issue all by M1 of Robert Pike2: Sarah, Mary, Dorothy, Mary, Elizabeth, John, Robert, Moses). From page 19 in the Family True by Henry A. True as follows).

Children. 1. Major Robert born about 1615, moved to Salisbury and died Dec. 12th, 1706 in his ninety-second year. He was made freeman May 17th 1637; was commissioner for acknowledgement of deed and was Deputy 1662, 1663, 1668, 1669, 1670 and 1680 and thense called "Worshipful." He was in succession Lt, Cpt and Major in the Militia.

2. John Pike M Mary Bradbury. 3. Dorothy Pike M Daniel Hendrick. 4. Ann. 5. Israel, a daughter M Henry True. 6. Sarah D 1659.

Thomas Bradbury settled on land nearly oposite Newbury east of the old ferry. He was a precinct man in the Colony for more than fifty years. In 1641 he was appointed firt Clerk of the Writs for Salisbury with all the functions of a magistrate; Deputy in 1651 and many subsequent years; Commision for Salisbury in 1657; Ensign 1648; afterwards Capitan; died 16 Mar 1694/5. He married Mary, daughter of John Perkins who in her old age arrested, tried and condemmed among those accused of witchcraft, but was reprieved and pardoned after the excitement passed away. She died December 20th 1700.

George Carr was appointed "to keep the ferry at Salisbury at the Island where he now dwelleth for the space of two years that he find a sufficient horse boat and give diligent attendance. The ferrages as follows: for a man present pay 2 D, for a horse 6, great cattle 6, each, calves and yearlings ea 2, goats 1, hogs 2, . If any be forced to swim over their horses for want of the great boat they shall pay nothing" at a Court holden in Ipswich 28 ? 41.

It would seem that Henry True removed from Salem to Salisbury as early as 1651 as would appear from the following deed of Richard North, still in existance:

"Know all men by these presence that I, Richard North of Salisbury, in the County of Norfolk, in New England, husbandman, for and in consideration of the sum of sixty pounds Sterling to be paid by Henry True and Robert Pike both of the town aforesaid, as by three (or these) several bills obligatory under their

This instrument was acknowledged by Richard North to be his act and Deed, his wife consenting thereunto surrending up herright of dower the 19th day of April 1658, before me. Thomas Bradbury, commissioner for Salsbury by the General Courts order.

This Bill of Sale within written was entered and recorded in the county records for Norfolk in pages 65 and 66, the 20th day of April 1658 as attest. Thomas Bradbury, Regr.

After this we know nothing more of Henry True than that he, within this or the following year (1859) left Salisbury for Newfoundland and never returned. His widow seems to have had satisfactory evidence that he was lost (perhaps lost overboard or by wreck of the vessel) as she speaks of his late decease in the winter of 1659.

Henry True married Israel Pike, daughter of John and sister of Major Robert Pike about 1644. She survived him many years and again married. The following deed shows the sale of the Salem property.

"Be it known to all men by these presents that I Israel True of the town of Salem now of Salsbury in the county of Essex, widow administrator to the estate of Henry True my husband, late deceased, for a valuable consideration, to me and hand paid by George Gardiner of Salem, merchant, before the ensealing hereof, have bargained, sold, aliened, assigned and set over, and do by these presents bargain, alieane, assign and set over unto George Gardner aforesaid, one dwelling house with about one qtr of an acre of ground adjoining thereunto with aple trees, fences and all appurtances thereunto belonging, as also ten acre lot, being ten acres more or less, three qtrs of a acre of salt meadow

HENRY TRUE OF SALEM

It is evident that the wife of Henry Trew (True) was named and called Israel by her parents although some have had doubts as it is generally conceded that boys are named Israel and not girls. The citation of the will of her father shows that there has been no error in considering the wife of Henry True as Israel True, the fifth child of John Pike. The children of Israel appear to have been seven although but three grew to mature age, so far as we have the means of knowing, viz: Henry, Joseph and Jemina lived in the area, married and had families. The names of the others are given in Savage's Dictionary and as the date of baptism is given it is inferred that he obtained them from a church register.

The Issue is as Follows: (of Henry True 1 and Israel Pike of Salem)

The widow Israel True, M 18 June 1660 Joseph Fletcher of Salisbury, a Husbandman, Planter, Weaver and a Businesman and acquired considerable property.

11 Oct 1665 entry in Massachusetts Records: In the case of Robert Ring, plff against the town of Salisbury, deft which was also tried in the last County Court at Salisbury and Court of Assistance, the Court confirmed the verdict of the Jury of the Court of Assistance finding for the plaintiff 49 pounds, 6 s, 4 d, damage and cost of court, 18 pounds, 6 s. "and execution was soon after taken out and levied 'on the land' belonging to the town of Salisbury." This was the common land or Commonage. The next April 23, 1666, Joseph Fletcher bought a tract of this land of 28 acres and his step son Henry True four more adjoining and the deed still extant was signed by Robert Ring Acknowledged July 11th, 1666.

The consideration of this twenty eight acres was the 'full sum of fortie pounds.' It is described as 'lying and being upon the west side of ye highway over the way and new bridge so called, leading toward Hampton; bounded easterly x marked trees northerly by ye great plain westerly toward 'Goodale Swamp.'' This tract with that of Henry True forms the 32 acres acres afterwards a part of Henry True's land. Henry True built a house on his four acres which was still standing in 1861. Joseph Fletcher built also upon this tract, situated where the house of Joshua F. Eaton now stands (1861) and also near where the old 'huckleberry' grist mill formerly stood, the dam of which in part remains (1861). Joseph Fletcher's house was taken down in 1719 and another erected on the same site, which stood until 1761 when it was destroyed by fire. The town's ammunition was kept in this house for many years and was on deposit there at the time of the fire; when the fire was first discovered, the entire roof was enveloped in flames and was spreading rapidly through the building. To remove the powder at that critical moment was an undertaking too hazardous to be attempted and consequently an explosion was the inevitable result; throwing and scattering large fragments and debris in all directions while those present escaped injury by previously taking shelter behind the large apple trees in the orchard. It was said when the building of a new powder house was considered by the Town at an annual meeting and the question of a site was agitated, one of the persons present jokingly made a motion that "It should stand at the tail of Huckleberry Mill." Hence the name of the old grist mill which was built by Dea Jabez True and Henry Eaton ca 1743-45.

Issue of Israel (Pike) True and Joseph Fletcher

1 Mary Fletcher B 9 Apr 1662

It is believed that all of the children of Mrs. True were treated with equal affection by Joseph Fletcher and that they grew up together and were provided for as one family. The following will of Joseph Fletcher will show something of the character of the man and his relation to the members of his family as well as a specimen of the style of such instrument.

"The last will and testament of Joseph Fletcher made this 2d day of February, 1679, who being well and sound in understanding and memory of disposing capacity through Mercy of God for which I give hearty thanks, but sick, weak in body and not knowing the day of my death do make and ordain this my last will and testament.

"First, I give resign up my soul into the hands of Jesus Christ, my blessed Savior and Redeamer, in hope of a blessed reception resurrection of my body and everlasting glory with himself and all saints in the world to come and commit my body to the earth from which it was taken and all my earthly estate to be disposed of as followith. My first debts be paid and funeral discharged I give and bequeath unto my daughter Mary Fletcher thirty pounds to be payed out of movable estate by my executrix at the day of said Mary's marriage or at such other time as my executrix shall think meet.

"Secondly, I give and bequeath the rest of my estate both real and personal unto my beloved wife Israel, for and during the term of her natural life for her support and maintainance.

"3ly, After her death my will is that all my real estate, that is to say land and houses shall be equally divided among fouer children, namely, Henry True, Joseph True, and Jemina True and Mary Fletcher of which land my daughter shall have all my lot of upland by Henry True's which I bought of Robert Ring 28 acres) and also my part of the meadow that I bought of Hurde called Cove lying in the great meadows and all the rest to be devided equally between our three children Henry, Joseph, and Jemina aforesaid provided those two parcels of land to Mary be a full forth part of the whole but if it fall short of value it shall be made up out of the rest, but she shall not return anything of it if it shall be better than an equal fourth part.

"4ly. My will is and I do give all the rest of my estate to be equally divided between the four aforesaid children excepted only my four Commonages which I thus dispose of.

"5ly, I give and bequeath two of the said Commonages after my wife's decease to Joseph True, and the other two Commonages to Mary Fletcher aforesaid all the aforesaid lands, houses and Commonages, I do give unto our four children aforesaid and unto their children forever, they themselves to enjoy it as long as they live and afterward to go to their children.

"Lastly I make and ordain my dear and loving wife Israel my sole executrix of this my will and testament on good condition. I have thought good to add that it is my will that though I have in this will given our land to our four children after them forever I do now add that I give it to them their heirs or assigns yet if reason require they may alienate it. 2ly, Do further declare that if either of my said daughters dy without issue of their body their part of lands or house bequeathed as afore shall return to those bretheren and sister that survive presently after her decease if she die unmarried and after her husband's decease if she die married."

Joseph Fflecher his jf mark

"This will as it is on the other side was signed and sealed in the presence of us. Robt. Pike, Sarah Stockman, Mary Allin."

Note. Joseph Fletcher recovered from the sickness here referred to and lived many years but his daughter Mary died 23:11mo. 1682. The above will was therefore never probated, he disposing of his property during his lifetime by deed to his surviving children, Henry, Joseph, and Jemima True.

Israel Fletcher died 12 Mar 1699-00 and her husband three days later.

Joseph Fletcher died 15 Mar 1700.

Robert Pike, brother of Israel (True) Fletcher, married Sara Sanders 3 Apr 1641 and died in Salisbury 12 Dec 1706 in his ninety-second year. Children: Sarah, Mary, Dorothy Mar Joshua Pine, Mary, Elizabeth, John, Moses.

Note. It appears that on or before the marriage of Cap John March with Jemina True, his father, Hugh, "entered into a contract, or covenant or promise that the said Hugh should give his son John twice the portion as the said Fletcher should give his said daughter-in-law, Jemina." It seems that Fletcher gave Jemina 66 pounds and Hugh neglected to comply with his part of the agreement. After a time Fletcher attempted to compel Hugh to fulfill his promise and entered a suit against him for 132 pounds, "in behalf of Cap John and Jemina" in the County court. At the court, held in Ipswedg in March, 1682, three years after the marriage the case was decided against Fletcher. He, however, appealed to the Court of Assistance and on the 5th of September following, recovered a judgement against Hugh in behalf of the said John and his wife Jemina.

About thirteen years after this, and after the death of Hugh, Col John commenced suite suit against Fletcher for the amount and interest which he had recovered of his father Hugh, which he estimates as now worth 260 pounds. The copy of the writ served upon Fletcher is still extant and the reasons for an appeal from the County Court in which seems he was "cash in the sum of 132 pounds and cost" to the Superior Court, to be held at Ipswedg the 31st March 1696, are still preserved.

1. He denies that he ever received anything.
2. He confesses that he released the judgement on information that Hugh had paid his son John as it was "no more than honest and just."

3. It is impossible that he (Fletcher) should have had any part in the 'pay' since according to the testimony of Caleb Moody and Robert Lord it consisted of a house and land of Hugh March, some goods and forty or fifty pounds in a debt due to John to his father, and a feather bed to make up the complement. Now he says the house and land remained in the hand of Hugh until his death and was in the posession of his son John to this day, that he never had any of the goods in his possession, that the debt of forty or fifty pounds could never have been his, and there is little reason to think he had any of the feather bed.

4. The evidence of Moody and Lord shows that CPT John March had all this property, which was taken on the execution for his benefit and that an agreement of settlement was made between John and his father with the consent of Joseph Fletcher stipulating for the transfer of the property above mentioned:

"Now, when the agreement was madeby and with CPT John March, and all the property was turned over to him to his full satisfaction and all the acquitances were given, what reason hath Joseph Fletcher to be sued for it?"

"What way, the result of the second trial of this case we do not know but there exists an instrument showing a settlement 27 Apr 1696 in which John March acquits, releases and discharges his father-in-law Fletcher, from all debts, dues and demands of what kind or nature soever and from any judgement of Court or Courts, etc., etc., from the beginning of the world to the date hereof."

From all we can learn Joseph Fletcher was a generous hearted man, ready to burn his fingers in behalf of his wife and children, and it would seem that there was about as much 'human nature' exhibited in respect to porperty in those days as at the present time.

Note 2. A new ferry was granted, across the Merrimac by Sir Edmund Andros to CPT John March. It was situated just where the town's ferry is now against the Market Square in Newburyport. The first ferry was about a mile above at Carr's Island, and until this year had monopolized all the eastern travel from the mouth of the river to the ferry in Amesbury. This grant was in consequences of a petition sent in by CPT March 23 Sep 1697. James Carr remonstrated against it , stating that the floating bridge at Carrs Island cost more than 300 pounds, and that the injury to him was more than 50 or 60 pounds a year. This ferry was later purchased by the town of COL March 11 Jul 1705 for 240 pounds and on 5 March 1706 they sold one half of it to the town of Salisbury for 120 pounds.

Freeman 1675, Rep 1689. Farmer's Reg & Savage's Dictionary. 28 Apr 1692 LT Henry True chosen representative to serve at first session of ye grate and General Court to be holden at Boston in Town House, 27 May 1695 (Town Record of Salisbury).

He was CPT from 1696 to 1722. His Order Book is still extant covering that period. In it is mentioned of COLs Pierce, Saltonstall and Noyce. Some extracts are given:

"CPT True was a House Carpenter by trade though in some papers is called a Weaver. There is extant an "indenture" of Robert Carr as apprenticed to him till he come to the age of twenty one years" and "The said Henry True to this said apprentice the ? or arte of weaver, shall do his best endeavor to come to be taught; and also instruct him in reading and writing a ledgible hand; To this instrument Robert Carr and Elizabeth, his mother set their hands and seals this 9th day of September 1697 in the ninth years of the reign of William the 3d, by the grace of God of England, Scotland and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith."

It would seem, indeed, that CPT True had a number of "irons in the fire' as with his ordinary business he was more or less constantly engaged in matters related to the public welfare and the town affairs. He settled upon the four acres bought of Ring, and built a house upon this tract and in 1716 another house which was standing in part, that is the upper story of it in 1861 as a wood house (perhaps for storing lumber or fire wood). This was northwardly of and on the same side of the main road as and adjoining to the 28 acres bought of Robert Ring by his father-in-law (step father?) Fletcher. To this during his busy life he added considerable more land both the north of him and on the other side of the road.

He was appointed administrator of his wife's mother's estate May 1701, chosen Selectman 7 Mar 1692/3 & 1695/6; Assessor 2 Aug 1694; Town Clerk 25 Feb 1694/5; Moderator 15 Feb 1704/5. CPT Henry True and LT Nathanial Brown were both elected to 'ye office of deacons in this Church' the Congretional Church of Salisbury.

EXTRACTS FROM THE ORDER BOOK

"Orders from his Excelency and COL Peirce (see also P A True's ltr of Apr 11, 74) for to set a double military watch. The order bore date of 5 Nov 1702. It was accordingly done; the watch at ye plains and ye upper end of ye towne ordered by LT Brown and below by myself and EN Eaton and 3 men in a night and was sett ye current and on the 9th current and order for garrisonning was accordingly pursued. "On the 4th of July 1706 prior to the arrival of the other men above mentioned a dispatch was received by CPT Henry True from SGT John Wadleigh of Amesbury requesting him to send a party of men to preambulate the woods that night as the Indians about 1 O'Clock made a bold attack upon the residents of the town and had killed John Ash, Nathaniel Wood's wife and three children, also Robert Hoyt's wife, a child missing and a boy of Thos. Hoyt's killed."

"Jany 24th (1707) received an order from COL Noyce to muster my Company and to warn one half to be at a minute's warning to be ready with snow shoes and six days provisions, which accordingly warning by Henry True and Jabez was given for ye Company to meet on Saturday the 25th inst. which was performed and a list of ye part of ye Company taken that are to be ready to march for ye release of any distressed place. Orders weere given out to ye commanders of ye several garrisons ye 29th of Jany, 1706 for strict watches night and day in this time of fear and danger of ye enemy."

"Those men went with CPT Harvey to room of Abra Brown ox Collins in ye room of Abr Watson, Andrew Downer and John Stevens, Jacob Stevens. Jan ye 10 1708.

"Haverhill beset with French and Indians Aug 29, 1708."

"An order from COL Noyce for the dismissing of scouts and garrison soldiers ordering that the 10th of November, 1708 and the men were dismissed the 11th a night."

The homestead of CPT Henry True has always been in the possession of his descendants. It has belonged to his son Jabez, to his son Samuel, to his son Jabez, and to his son Jabez who lived upon it in 1872. There have been three houses and 5 barns erected upon it. The first house was built by CPT Henry previous to 1690; the second in 1716, the upper part of which existed in 1861 and was used as a woodhouse. This was done in 1818. The weather boarding, on the north side, had two small holes looking toward the 'great plaine' which were doubtless used to take observations and note the appearance and activities of Indians.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF SALISBURY

Particularly its Ministers

1. "Mr. William Worcester, the first minister of Salisbury died October 28th day of the 8th month, 1662, in an advanced age and about the 20th year of his ministery, more or less." He was Bpt 5 Oct 1595 at Watford, Northampton, England, probably as an infant as his father, Rev William Worcester was the Vicar of Watford. He was educated at St John's College, Cambridge University, in 1620 and was ordained deacon 22 Dec 1622. He was Vicar of Olney for about 12 years before coming to New England in 1639, settling at Salisbury where he became a freeman in 1640. He married first Sarah --- who died in Salisbury on 23 Apr 1650. He married second in Salem or Salisbury, widow Rebecca Swaine. He received land in the first division, 1i 1640 and in 1654. Probably because of his standing in the community and the respect for ministers, his name is second on the list of land grants and first on the list of townsmen and commoners. His widow later married Deputy Governor Samuel Symonds. He and Sarah were parents of the following: Susanna, Samuel, William, Sarah, Timothy, Moses, Sarah, Elizabeth and Elizabeth. Daughters Elizabeths and Sarahs died relatively young.

2. "Mr. John Wheelwright, the second minister of Salisbury" had a stormy career between his graduation from Cambridge and his call to Salisbury, rather late in life. He was vicar of Bilsby, England for 8 years and came to New England in 1636. Because of sympathetic views with an inlaw, he was banished from Massachusetts, went across the state line and founded Exter but a change in the state line caused him to have to move from the state again and went to Wells, Maine, allowed to return to Mass., called to Hampton for about 11 years before going to England and returning to Salisbury after the death of Reverend Worcester. He M1 8 Nov 1621 Mary Story who probably had two children, John and Susanna before her death in England. He M2 Mary Hutchinson probably in Boston and they were parents of the following: Samuel, William, Catherine, Mary, Elizabeth, Mary, Rebecca, Hannah, Sarah and probably Thomas.
Reverend Mr. Wheelwright was dismissed from his church in England because of his public statements and was subjected to advanced opinions of his sister Mrs. Ann Hutchinson as was Rev John Cotton "characterized perhaps as chiefly relating to spiritual illumination and which without the restraint of sound and sober judgement may easily pass into fanaticism through a lively and fertil imagination" which caused great disturbances in churches about Boston, and led to investigation by the courts. In his confession to the governor of Mass. he says "it is the grief of my soul, that I used such vehement and censorious speeches. I repent me that I did adhere to persons of corrupt judgement, to the countenancing and encouraging them in any of their errors or evil practices." After this, he lived nearly forty years, a valued servant to the church; Morris's History of New England.
3. "Mr James Allen, The 3d minister of the town, was called here from Boston Anno 1682 and was ordained 4 May 1687. He died 4 March 1695/6 in the 39 year of age and 8th of his ministry." He was born in New Haven CT 24 June 1657, son of Dea Roger Alling and Mary Nash and graduated at Harvard College with a Masters in 1679. He married in Salisbury, 1688, Elizabeth Cotton, dau of rev John Cotton of Plymouth . Their children were Joanna Allen who M Elias Pike, Mary Allen who M John Appleton and Elizabeth Allen who M Rev Joshua Moody. His widow M rev Caleb Cushing, 4th minister of Salisbury.
4. Caleb Cushing, the 4th minister of Salisbury was from Scituate 16 May 1696 and was ordained 9 Nov 1698. He D Jany 25th 1752 in the 80th year of his life and 56 of his ministry." He was B in Hingham, Mass. 6 Jan 1672/3 M 14 Mar 1698/9 Elizabeth (Cotton) Allen and grad Harvard College 1692. Their issue was Caleb B 10 Oct 1703 and D 1798; James B 20 Nov 1705 Grad Harvard, ordained Reverend; Reverend John Cushing B 10 Apr 1709 and Grad Harvard.
5. Reverend Edmund Noyes was the 5th minister of the Congregational Church of Salisbury and he was called from Newbury. He was ordained 20 Nov 1751, and D 12 Jul 1809 in the 81st year of his age.

Note. (by CWT) There was very little info in Dr. True's book on Rev Edmund Noyes. Hoyt's old Families and Coffin's Sketch of the History were reviewed. According to Hoyt the records of the first two pastorates are entirely missing and the records from 1687 to 1805 have been printed in Hist. Coll. Essex Inst. Vols 16 and 21.

CPT Henry True married Jane Bradbury, daughter of CPT Thomas and Mary Bradbury. Mary Bradbury was the daughter of John Perkins. In 1692, Through the agency of the Carr family she was involved in the accusation of witchcraft and the papers relating to Mary's case are here given.

July 26th , 1962. Concerning my beloved wife Mary Bradbury this is that I have to say: We have been married 55 years (1637) and she hath been a faithful and loving wife to me this day. She hath been wonderful laborious, diligent and industrious in her place and employment about the bringing up of our family which have been 11 children of our own and 4 grandchildren. She was both prudent and provident of a cheerful spirit, liberal and charitable. She being now very aged and weak and grieved under her affliction may not be able to speak very much for herself, not being so free of speech as some others may be. I hope her life and conversation hath been such among her neighbors as give a better and more reall testimony of her than can be expressed by word.

Samuel Endicot VS. Mary Bradbury.

Samuel Endicott aged thirtyone years or thereabouts testified that about 11 years since being bound upon by a savage with Capt. Samuel Smith late of Boston, decd, just before we sailed Mrs. Bradbury of Salisbury the present woman at the Bar came to Boston with some forkins of butter of which Capt. Smith bought two, one of them proved butter and after we had been at sea three weeks our men were not able to eat it it stunk so, and run with maggts, which would make the men very much disgusted about it and would often that they heard Mrs. Bradbury was a witch and that they verily believes she was soe or she would not have served the Captain soe as to sell him such butter.

And further this deponent testifieth that in four days after they set sail they met with such a violent storm that we lost our main mast and rigin and lost 15 horses that about a fortnight after we set our jurymast and that very night there came up a ship by our side and carried away two of the mizzon shrouds and one of the leeches of the main saile and this deponent further saith that after they arrived at Barbadoes and went to Saltitudos and had laden their vessel the next morning she sprang a leak in the hold which wasted several tons of salt in so much that we were forst to unload our vessel again wholly to stop our leak, there was then four ft. water in the hold, after we had taken in our tacking agains we had a good passage home but when we came near the land the Captain sent this deponent forward to looke out for land in a bright moon shining night and as he was setting upon the windlass and saw the legs of some person being noways frightened and that presently he was shook and looked over his shoulder and saw the appearance of a woman for her middle upward having a white cap and a white neck cloth on her which then frightened him very much and as he was turning off the windlass he saw aforesaid two legs.

The deposition of Mary Green who testifieth and sayeth that she have been a longtime afflicted by a woman which told her her name was Mrs. Bradbury and that she came from Salisbury but on the 2nd of July, 1692: being the day of the examination of Mrs. Bradbury I then saw that she was the very same woman which told me her name was Mrs. Bradbury, and she did most grievously afflict and torment Mary Walcott, Sarah Vibber, Elizabeth Hubbard and ann Putman and I believe in my heart that Mrs.Bradbury is a witch and that she has very often afflicted and tormented me and several others by her acts of witchcraft.

A deposition of Richard Carr who testifieth and sayeth that about 13 years ago presently afterward some difference that had happened to be between by honorable father Mr. Geo. Carr and Mrs. Bradbury the prisoner at the Bar upon a Sabbath at noon as we were riding home by the house of Capt. Thomas Bradbury, I saw Mrs. Bradbury go into her gate, turn the corner of and immediately their darted out of his gate a blue boar and darted at my father's horse's legs which made him stumble in a strange manner and I also saw the blue boar dart out from Mr. Carr's horses legs in at Mrs. Bradbury's window and Mr. Carr said immediately what do you see and we both said a blue boar then he said from whence came it and we said out of Mrs. Bradbury's gate, then said he I am glad you see it as well as I. James Carr V. Mary Bradbury Deposition of James Carr who testifieth and sayeth that about 20 years ago one day as I was accidently at the house of the house of Mr. Wheelwright and his daughter the widow of Maverick then lived there and she did most courteously invite me to come oftener to the house and wondered I was grown much a stranger and within a few days after one evening I went thither again and when I came thither again Wm. Bradbury who was there a suitor to the said widow but I did not know it until afterwards, After I came in the widow did so coarsely treat the said William that he went away seeming to be angry. Presently after this I was taken after a strange manner as if a living creature did run about every part of my body ready to tear me to pieces so I continued for about three fourth of a year by times and I applied my self to Dr. Crosby who gave me a great deal of visek but could make none work where upon he told me he believed I was bewitched and I told him I thought so a good while and he asked me by whom and I told him I did not care for speaking for one was wanted an honest woman but he urgeng me I told him and he said he believed that Mrs. Bradbury was a great deal worse than Goody Martin, then presently after this one night I being in bed and awake there came something to me which thought was a catt and went to strike it off the bed and was held fast that I could not stir hand or foot but by and by coming to my strength I heard something come into me again and I prepared myself to strike it and it coming onto my bed I did strike at it and I believe I hit it and I believe in my heart that Mrs. Bradbury the prisoner at the Bar has often afflicted me by acts of witchcraft.

William Carr for Mary Bradbury.

The testimony of William Carr aged 41 years or thereabouts is that my brother John Carr when he was young man was a man of as good capacity as most men of his age but falling in love with Jemina True (now wife of Capt. John March), and my father being pursuaded by one of the family (which I will not name), not to let him marry so young my father would not give him a portion where upon the match broke off which my brother had so much laid to heart that he grew melancholy and by degrees much crossed not being the man that he was before to his dying day. I do further testify that my said brother was sick about a fortnight or three weeks and then died and I was present with him when he dyed and I affirm that he died peaceably and quitely, never manifesting the least trouble in the world not wanting any body else to bear hurt and yet I was with him til the breath of life was out of his body. Testimony concerning Mrs. Bradbury's life and conversion.

We the subscribers doe testify that it was such as become the Gospel. She was a lover of the ministry in all appearanceand a diligent attender upon God's Holy Ordinances, being a courteous, peacable disposition and carriage. Neither did any of us (some of whom has lived in ye town with her for about 50 years) ever hear or know that she had any difference or falling out with any of her neighbors, man, woman, or child, but was always redy and willing to do for them what lay in her power night and day, though with hazard of health or other danger more than might be spoken in her commendation, but this for the present.

Note: It seems strange to us in these days that an aged person, whose whole life according to the testimony of her neighbors has been one of charity and kindness, of piety and acts of good will, should have been condemned for witchcraft because "physick" would not "work" or butter became rancid at sea, or storms disabled a vessel and caused it to leak, that such puerile fancies should arise as the dream at the capstan or the blue boar. Yet the record is that this sort of testimony was all powerful in the minds of the men organized to convict.

The following were tried and condemned on the 9th day of September, 1692: Martha Corey, Mary Easty, Alice Parker, Ann Pudator, Dorcas Hoar and Mary Bradbury. Those underscored were executed September 22 following. Nine more were condemed on the 17th and four of them were executed the 22d on the gallows.

In Upham's work upon the Salem Witchcraft, because, as he says "it has been too much supposed that the sufferers in this delusion were generally of the inferior classes of society and particularly ignorant and benighted. they were the very reverse. They mostly belonged to families in the better conditions of life and many of them of the highest social level. They were all persons of great moral firmness and rectitude as was demonstrated by their bearing under persecutions and outrage when confronting the terrors of death their names do not deserve reproach and their memories ought to be held in honor. The case of Mrs. Bradbury may serve to disabuse the public mind of the great error on this subject."

"Her husband Thomas Bradbury had been a prominant character in the colony for more than fifty years. In 1641 he had been appointed by the General Court Clerk of the Writs, for Salisbury, with the functions of a Magistrate to Execute all sorts of legal processes in that place. He was Deputy for many years and a Commissioner for Salisbury empowered to act in all criminal cases and bind over offenders where it was proper, to higher courts, to take testimony upon oath and to give persons in marriage. He was required to keep records of all his doings, if the parties agreed to that effect, he was authorized to hear and determine cases of every kind and degree without the intervention of a jury. The towns north of the Merrimack River and all beyond now within the limits of New Hampshire constituting the County of Norfolk and Thomas Bradbury for a long series of years, was one of its Commissioners and Associate Judges. From the first he was conspicous in military matters; having been commissioned by the General Court in 1648 Ensign of the Training Band of Salisbury. He rose to its Command and in the later portion of his life was universally spoken of as Capt. Thomas Bradbury. All along, the records of the General Court for half a century demonstrate the estimation in which he was held; various important trusts and special services requiring integrity and ability being from time to time committed to him. His family was influentially connected. His son, William, married the widow of Samuel Maverick, Jr., who was a son of one of the King's Commissioners in 1644, and owned considerable land in Boston Harbor, particularly an Island, called by his name and since called East Boston. She was the daughter of Revernd John Wheelwright, a man of great note."

"Robert Pike born in 1616 was a magistrate in 1644, he was a deputy from Salisbury in 1640 and many times after, Associate Justice for Norfolk in 1650 and Assistant in 1682, holding that station by annual election to the close of the first Charter and during the whole period of the intervening and insurgent government. He was one of the Council that succeeded to the House of Assistance when under the New Charter, Massachusetts became a Royal Province. He was always at the head of military Affairs having been commissioned by the Gen-Court, LT of the Salisbury Training Band in 1648 and in the later years of his life he held the rank and title of Major."

Major Robert Pike and Mrs. Pike were first on the list of Salisbury Church, He was first on the list of Commoners after the minister in 1650. He died in Salisbury on 12 Dec 1706.

Such is the character of some of those who were connected to Mrs. Bradbury, and used their upmost exertions to procure her acquital. We may glance at the character of the witnesses against her and the probable motives that influenced them in their testimony.

The wife of Thomas Putman was Ann Carr of Salisbury. She was of a nervous and excitable temperament and early became involved in the witchcraft prosecutions and probably influenced her husband in his earliest efforts to put down the works of the devil. The father of Ann Putman was George Carr who was an early settler and owned the ferry which had been a subject of controversy. He was also a ship builder. Richard Carr was 20 years old and Zeruzabel Endicott was fifteen years of age at the time they saw a blue boar. In company with the elder Carr, James Carr had some type of flirtation with the widow Maverick in which he seemed to have imagined that because of William Bradbury, son of Mary Bradbury, as a suitor of the fair widow, his mother had bewitched him to get him out of the way. Mr. Upham supposes that Mrs. Ann Putman was the member of the family who opposed the marriage of Jemina True with her brother John and had an influence to break off the match. She naturally atributed the sickness of her brother and his subsequent death to Mrs. Bradbury having derived her impression of Mrs. Bradbury's general character from her father and brothers, with the aid of the imaginary suggestions of other young men, perhaps, who worked for her father and belonged to Salem. A conjecture, once put into circulation would be sure to lose within its travels.

Of the magistrates we have some account. John Hawthorne was a son of William Hawthorne. The latter appears on the Church records as early as 1636. He died June 16th, 1681, 74 years of age. No one fills a larger space in the annals of Salem. Soldier, Council before the Courts, Judge on the bench, distinguished as a public speaker, he is the only one whose reputation as an orator has come down to a later age. He was assisatant 17 years, deputy 20 and in 1644 was the first speaker of the House of Representatives. His son John succeeded him "to public honor" and was actively engaged in the Salem trials for witchcraft. Of Corwin we do not know so much.

The Salem trials doubtless exhibit a remarkable phase of human phychology. They furnish food for thought respecting the occasional vagries of the mind, and in the degree of aberration to which it is subject through the influence of prevailing notions or popular enthusiasm. It may not again take precisely this form of temporary madness, but it is not yet beyound the reach of being led widely astray on many subjects of human experience and social intercourse or social laws. This temporary aberration may not by any means be confined to Salem, to New England or even to Old England. "So generally were the wise so good, as well as the weak and wicked, of this century convinced of the reality of witchcraft," of the possibility of a league between some human medium and the devil for the practice of deeds of darkness upon unsuspecting subjects of their spite, that we find Richard Baxter writing a preface to the account of causes of wichcraft and declaring him who would not believe it to be an obdurate Saducee, but Glenville publishing stories of witches; Sir Matthew Hale trying them in the Court of the King's bench; several eminent lawyers laying down rules to convict and several grave clergymen, such as Perkins and Bernard, undertaking to prove the existance, and defining the characteristics, evidences and boundries of witchcraft. The same general conviction prevailed everywhere. Every where persons suspected of being witches and wizards were tried, condemed and executed by the authority of the first tribunals in Europe, as well as as by inferior Judichories. In England more persons were executed in a single county, than in all the colonies of New England, from the arrival of the Plymouth settlers to the present time. Blackstone's Commentaries on the Common Law of England contains to this day the Article on the subject of this delusion. In Salem, the defusion of sentiments relating to this subject had a natural origin as it was set on foot by some Indian and Negro servants among whom notions of the supernatural, the possibility of dealing with familiar spirits and the efficacy of charms and incantations were wide spread and especially prevalent as well then as at the present time. The delusion had a fruitful soil in which to germinate and bring forth a crop of wild stories, and alas, wilder and more dangerous acts. It took hold minds of higher cultivation and social standings and ran riot with their susceptable immaginations. No wonder it eventually drew in the cooperation of the more staid and sober minds for enthusiasm in every department of thought as it is always contagious. Such is the law of the human mind when subjected to its influence it is incapable of properly estimating the value of human testimony. The royal governor of old Mass. was not less under the influence of this temporary popular frenzy than Cotton Mather, the most learned minister of the time, though perhaps not the most judicious. But when the "affected" or the "afflicted" proceeded to acuse the wife of Sir William Phips the veil of delusion seemed to be lifted. Men perceived that they had been made tools in carrying out the malice of some and the baseless imagination of others.

Several valuable lives were taken in the most ignominous form on the Gallows Hill. It is permitted to the decendants of Mary Bradbury to know that she was in someway delivered from the shameful death to which she was condemmed. She returned home to her devoted husband and sympathizing family and friends. She lived eight years after the scenes of the terrible trial at Salem, surviving her husband who had made such strenous exertions for her release. Mary Bradbury died Dec. 20th, 1700. Her will is on record. Here are some extracts.

"The will of Mary Bradbury, dated 17th February, 1695/6 in the eight year of his Magisties Reign, King William 3d.

2d. And I make my beloved son-in-law Henry True to be my sole executor of this my last will and testament."

None were more penitent than the chief actors in the Salem tragedies. None made more humble confession of the errors they had committed and the delusion under which they had acted. Nineteen years afterwards (1711) the General Court appropriated several hundred pounds to be paid the sufferers or heirs.

Although there is nothing to mark the burying spot of Henry True 2 it is said that he mowed an acre of hay in a day at the age of 80 and that he lived to his 91st year, but in the old burying ground, in the East Parish of Salisbury is found a humble stone with the following inscription:

CPT March petitioned General Court to recover loss of 500 pnds while defending Casco Fort in 1690 where he wounded when attacked by French and Indians, infidels, barbarous people; his losses included a sloop, furniture, 89 sheep and cattle, 15 acres of crop (peas, wheat, Indian corn), etc. Court granted 50 pounds in consideration of the brave defense of his Majesty's Court at Casco Bay where lately attacted by enemy and the wounds he received. 28 Mar 1704 Court confirmed the Ferry to Col John March, 1st granted in 1687.

Hampstead, May 13th, 1752.

To the inhabitants of the town of Hampstead:

Gentlemen and fellow Christians: You having invited me to settle with you in the work of the Ministry, which I have taken into serious consideration, and earnestly sought to God for his Holy Spirit to Guide me and direct me in such a great and important work, and in particular in respect to my carrying with you; having likewise considered the proposals you have offered for my support and your unaminity in an especial manner, I find myself inclined in tarying with you. I cheerfully accept your invitation and comply with your proposal promising to perform the duties on my part as I shall be enabled; depending on God for Devine Help and releying upon the promises of the Exalted Redeemer; being as I trust not insensible of my utter insufficiency for such an important work, as all my sufficencey and support must be from God. I would earnestly entreat your fervent prayers to God for me, that his Grace may be mightly in me and sufficient for me, that His strength may be perfected in my weakness; That he would give Devine Wisdom and skill and succeed my endeavors to promote the Kingdom and Interest of Christ Jesus, that so I may run in vain, either labor in vain, and may at last give up my account to God, with Joy and not of Grief.

Henry True

The Salry voted was "450 pounds each of ye first two years, in money, old tenor, or equal to it in money; and after ye first two years are expired, then 500 pounds a year of ye like money during ye time he continues to carry on ye work of ye ministry amongst us in this Town of Hampstead." Aferwards at an adjourned meeting they voted 1000 pounds O.T. one half in bills of credit and ye other half in labor and material for building, --- also 20 cords of wood annually, after he hath a family. Also ye peaceable possession of ye land, granted by the Proprietor of Haverhill, to ye First Minister who should settle in Timberland (Hampstead).

The Ordination and Installation services took place June 20 1752. The Rev Edward Barnard of Haberhill preached the sermon from Acts XI 24. "For he was a goodman and full of the Holy Ghost and of Faith." It is presumable that Rev Edmund Noyes and the two Deacons of the Salisbury Church, Moses Merrill and Nathaniel Fitts were present.

After he graduated in 1750 he kept school in Haverhill MA where he studied Divinity with the Rev Edward Barnard of the Congregational Church as young men preparing for the minisrty were in the practice of doing with such instructors as they chose. Judging from the manuscript sermons many of which remain to the present day, his Theology was of the unusual Calvinistic type, common to the times. They are not noticeable for the frequent discussion of doctrines although these come in by way of an occasional remark, but abound in classical thought and suggestions.

It is stated that he received an invitation to settle in his native town of Salisbury but declined mainly in consequence of the oposition of Henry Eaton, who raised some technical objection "merely for the sake of being contrary."

He married Ruth Ayer of Haverhill in 1753 having doubtless made her acquaintance during his preparation for the ministry. We have extant two almanacs of the years 1753 and 1754. In the first are some very distinct allusions to his intended wife, but there are many remarks of interest on the blank leaves inserted for notes and it may be as well to give them in the order of date. This will also introduce the names of neighboring ministers whish are mentioned by way of exchange as well as the intercourse with his family.

Tuesday, June 29th, he left Hampstead a second time for the Army, passed through Keene, Walpole and reached Crown Point July 10th, mentions Col Goffe, Col Whiting, Rev E. Taylor of CT. Mr. Fossenden, after spending the warm weather returned home Oct. 16th.

After the commencement of the Revolutionary War his salary was very small owing to the depreciation of the currencey, he labored much upon the land which was given to the first minister of Hampstead on which he had built a house. From this source he derived something for his support. He received also some land for his services as chaplain, which eventually produced something to himself or his estate.

He was an ardent Whig (an American favoring independence of England during the Revolution) during the Revolution and did not scruple to preach in behalf of liberty and encouraged the people in all measures of resistance, among whom he had great influence at this crises. He would use no foreign tea, but sometimes the domestic kind "such as Dudy Goodwin sent down from Haletown in a long birch box. When he built a cider mill he told Dea Goodwin he would not shingle it until he knew whether Lord North would have it." He wrote a piece of poetry against the use of tea and published it. When the young men who enlisted in the army came to Church on the Sabbath previous to their departure and presented themselves in the front of the pulpit for special prayer, his own son Samuel on one occasion took his place among them. His intention was not known to his family "though the father who officiated and of course produced a great sensation among them." This son was at the capture of Burgoyne and afterwards at Providence where he died of disease. His sister Mary, who lived to the age of 93 and died in 1865at Hampstead remembered how the family went up to the scuttle of the house, when Samuel left, and looked after him as he and his party went down the road and over the hill. Twas a remarkable event imprinted on their memories.

In 1855 Mr. Jessee Davis was living at the age of 87 and remembered the appearance of Mr. True when he himself was a boy. He stated that he was a venerable looking man with light silvery grey hair, and like most of the family of pretty large frame but not inclining to corpulency.

The original number of members of the Church was 63 and during his ministry of 30 years 83 were added.

He died suddenly, the late members of the family understood, upon a week day but Mr. Isaac Smith, who delivered the centenial address in 1849 stated that it was upon the Sabbath (May 22nd,1782). It was upon the Sabbath says he, just as he was ready to leave his house for the house of God to preach as usual, when, scarcely a moment's warning he was called to a tabernacle not made of hands, to spend an eternal "Sabbath of Rest." If our calculation is correct, the nearest Sabbath would be the 20th of May, or the 22nd would occur on Tuesday. This corresponds with a statement in Sibley's History of the Union, derived doubtless from his son, Rev Henry True "On Sunday he preached and appointed a lecture on Thursday. On Tuesday he attended family devotions in the morning, apparently well, and died before noon."

From the diary of Rev Gyles Merrill. "May 22nd 1782. This day Rev Mr. True of Hampstead died suddenly." In the margin, "My beloved and worthy uncle ye Rev Mr. True of Hampstead died about 11 O'Clock a.m. How suddenly he had complained of a sharp pain in his breast, which darted into his arm. He took salts, was a little better. No danger was apprehended but alas, suddenly he died to the surprise of all his family. He was esteemed by all his acpuaintances --- a pious good man and minister. On ye occasion we may cry Help Lord, etc. He died aged 66, greatly lamented by his people and acquaintances."

"May 24 attended ye funeral of my Uncle True. Mr. Starns preached ye sermon from Mark. The perfect man and behold ye upright for ye end of that man is peace." And this would agree with the tradition respecting his death which we have recited - that he had been out upon the farm at work and as was common with him, came in weary and laid himself upon the bed. His wife knowing his careless habits soon followed him to see that he had some light covering upon and found him just breathing his last.

Mr. Kelley, his successor in the Pastoral Office (after about 10 years) gives the following description of his character. "He always maintained the character of a good man, agreeable to the text: Acts 11 24 which Mr. Edward Barnard of Haverhill preached from at his ordination. During the first half of his ministry, no clergy was more highly esteemed or better treated by the people than he was treated. As his family increased they added to his salary. The whole sum that the people gave him, over his regular salary was nearly $3,000 and this was when the daily wages of selectmen was only 2 s. But toward the close of his ministry they cut down his salry for several years to $200 a year. Other ministers came into the church but no revival among the people who were sanguine and who were versitile in their opinions. This did not unsettle the good minister nor sully his character in the view of any man; but it reduced his salary and the number of his hearers, so that after his decease the people were in trouble."

Esq Isaac Smith's Centennial speech of Hempstead ref to Rev Henry True: "Mr. True was the means of doing much good. His influence is felt to this day. He left a family of numerous children who settled in different parts of the land and carried with them the habits and virtues which their father instilled into their minds in their youth."

Mr. Kelley's estimation of the worth of his predecessor was such that he named his oldest son after him; the Rev Henry True Kelley who graduated D.C. 1819 and was a minister at Madison, Geauga Co. Ohio, and died in 1843 ae ca 43 years. Dea Jabez True now (1873) of Salisbury MA, grandson of Samuel and a brother of Henry relates the following story told him by his father, Samuel.

"An old clock, although a good brass one had got out of order and had not been running for a long time but suddenly began to strike in my grandfather's room and struck about 40 times; and after stopping again, commenced and struck about the same number of times. This occurred several times, about eleven O'Clock in the forenoon. His wife, Sarah, was so alarmed that she put on her bonnet and went to one of the neighbors saying that she would not stay in that house, and Dea Samuel remarked that we shall hear some bad news. About 11 O' clock that night a man from Hamstead arrived with the intelligence that his brother Henry was dead and died about 11 O'Clock that morning." Thus was he translated in a moment as it were "from this early house of our tabernacle to a house not made with hand eternal in the heavens." This inscription upon his monument a horizontal table of slate was written by Mr. Barnard and is as legible as when first put up and apparently stands as firmly as it did 80 years ago:

THIS MONUMENT IS SACRED TO THE MEMORY OF
REV. HENRY TRUE, A.M.

First pastor of the Church of Hampstead, who suddenly departed this life on the 22nd day of May, 1782, in the 57 year of his age and the 30 of his ministry. He left a widow and eight children to morn over his tomb. Revelation was his guide and reason his companion. He was an affectionate husband, a tender parent and faithful friend. Prudence, integrity, condescention and dignity were happily united in his character together with judgement, learning and devotion.

A testimony of his worth is embalmed in the minds of his acquaintances to whom he was endeared in life and by whom he was lamented in death

With cheering heat the radiant sun,
Marched to his full meridian blaze,

But while we marked the course it ran,
It vanished from our eager gaze,
To other climates it sped its way,
The Saints rejoice to see its ray,
And Angels bade him welcome home.

Mrs Ruth True survived her husband more than 27 years living with her children in the old house in Hampstead. She was a small woman of sprightly manners, good taste and good sense. She was well qualified to perform all the home duties of a Pastor's wife and to practice all the lessons of economy that are generally so necessary in the domestic life of a clergyman. That she was fully appreciated by her husband is evident from the expressions of ardant attachment in his letters still extant and in the constant references to her in his journal kept during his absence with the Army.

THE FAMILY OF AYER IS HERE GIVEN

John Ayer or Ayers is mentioned as residing in Salisbury in 1640 where he had a daughter Hannah December 21st, 1644, removed to Ipswich in 1646 and to Haverhill in 1647 where he died March 31st 1657. His will dated March 12th preceding names his wife Hannah and children John, Nathaniel, Hannah who married March 24th 1663 Stephen Webster, Rebecca, Mary, Obadiah, Robert, Thomas and Peter. Robert the 2nd, married 1659, Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Palmer and settled in Haverhill.

Peter 2 married 8 Oct 1659 Hannah, dau of 1st William Allin, freeman 1666, Representative 1683,5,9, 90. Died at Boston 3 Jan 1699 ae ca 66 yrs (Savage).

Children of Robert and Elizabeth Ayer.

Samuel Ayer B 11 Nov 1654 M (says John True) Mary Johnston, sister of Abigail (but according to Savage) he M Elizabeth, dau of Simon Tuttle and according to him had Obadiah, H.C. 1710, John and James. He was Selectman and killed by the Indians in their attack upon Haverhill 20 Aug 1708, the last date is in CPT Henry True's order book.

The family of Ayer is limited in the book of Dr. H. A. True. Hoyt gives about 130 Ayer/Ayers in his 'Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury' starting with John Ayer as recieved land in the 'first division' of Salisbury. His wife was also Hannah ? who D Haverhill 31 Mar1657. Their Issue:

Not covered by Hoyt are facts provided by Dr. True such as Robert Ayer's son Samuel Ayer 3 was a dea and CPT with a son James[4] also a Dea who M Mary White who D Hampstead 14 May 1777 and bur near Rev Henry True; that a dau, Mary 5 M Rev Isaac Morrill and another dau M Rev Henry True 4 of Hampstead; that a grandson named Nathan had five dau before falling from a tree and breaking his neck; Samuel Ayer 5 M Ann Hazen (Samuel was a son of Rev James Ayre 4) dau Ann Ayer 6 M John Kimball; A humble stone near the grave of Rev Henry True 4 bears the following: "In memory of Mrs. Mary Ayer, widow of Dea James Ayer who died May 14th 1777.

79 Deacon Samuel True[4] 10 child of Dea Jabez True,[3] B 16 Dec 1728 Bpt 29 Dec 1728 D 11 Nov 1815 Joined Congregational Church 9 Jun 1754 M 11 Apr 1754[4] widow Hannah (Kimball) Hazelton B 24 May 1729 D 21 Jul 1768. Dea Samuel resided on the old site of CPT Henry True and gave his attention to farming. He seems to have remained very much at home and not to have transacted public business to any great extent. In the almanac of his brother it is mentioned that the widow Hazelton, if the reading is correct, "sent him a great cheese 6 Aug 1753. He may have become acquainted with her during his residence at Haverhill, and been the means of introducing her to his brother Samuel, 6 Mar 1754" and there is a memoranda that Deacon Kimball, his wife (sister of Abigail) brother Samuel and "the widow" made him a visit, that is, "so I interpret it." The next month he himself makes the following entry: 'April 11th, 1754, then I was married and moved down my wife and children the 14th of April, 1754." Mrs. Hazelton had two dau when she married Samuel True 4, Hannah and Abigail.

It does not appear when he was chosen Dea but the Church records show that Mr. Noyer "Assistant at the ordination of Mr. Samuel Webster at Temple NH 1 Oct 1771 and Dea Samuel True was a delagate and 30 Oct 1771 ordination of Joseph Currier at Goffstown, Deacon Jackson and Deacon True, delagates."

Mrs. Hannah True seems to have been a superior woman. Her married life was a happy one and she was the true mother of her family. Her father was Dea Benjamin Kimball who M Mary Emerson and D 5 Aug 1741. Their first child Mary B 1 Jun 1718 Hannah Kimball M1 Jonathan Hazelton of Haverhill. Deacon Jabez True 6 once mentioned to Hon Caleb Cushing of Newbury that Mrs. True had 4 great grandsons as members of Congress. He wanted to prove his assertion and proceeded to do so as follows: Hannah Hazelton, her daughter M Benjamin Cushing Esq. son of Parson Caleb Cushing; Mrs True also had a dau Mary who M Ezekiel True 5 and her dau Abigail was the mother of Hon Ebenezer Knowlton of ME: Her dau Martha M Winslow Page of Gilmanton NH whose Dau Hannah was the mother of Hon Ira A Eastman; Her dau Sarah M Moses Pike of Salisbury of whom was born Caleb Pike, the father of Hon James Pike of NH so that Caleb Cushing, Ebenezer Knowlton, Ira A Eastman and James Pike were all great grandchildren of Mrs Hannah Hazelton True and all have been members of Congress of the United States.

Mrs Hannah True was admitted to full Communion in the Congregational Church 12 Nov 1758 and her pious spirit devoted at least one to the children to the ministry. She died eight days after the birth of her ninth child Ruth.

"My wife was taken sick the 13th and died the 21st of July 1768." The following inscription is upon her humble gravestone:

"Here is interred Mrs. Hannah True the wife of Mr Samuel True who D 21 Jul 1768 Aged 39 years and 21 days. A lone the great All penetrating God Knows his own offspring. And our last Abode. The Dead in Christ. Their sleeping dust shall rise with sparkling Glory and ascend the skies. Burried the 22d a valuable woman, excellent wife and I hope a Good Christian. Revernd Gyles Merrill."

Deacon Samuel intended doubtless in this inscription to the sterling character of his deceased wife. He was not so fortunate in his second marriage. Four years after the death of his first wife he married Sarah Miah of Newbury 29 Aug 1772. It is said he was influenced in a certain degree by the lavish professions of religion which were made by Sarah. Three children were born to him of her and she died 17 Feb 1812 age 72 years. If there is anything to the doctrine that "sons take after their Mother" it might find an apt illustration in the worthless character of her son Henry, while the descendants of his first wife so distinctly prove the far reaching influence of her "rich blood" they are ready to rise up with her husband "and call her blessed."

Dea Samuel entered heartily into the popular movement with regard to the opposition to the measures adopted by Great Britain towards America. He presided at a Town Meeting which was called to consider the state of the country. The following action will show the temper of the times and is probably a sample of the feeling prevailing in the state and in fact throughout New England.

"At a meeting of the Freeholders and other inhabitants of the Town of Salisbury 28 Dec 1772 voted and resolved unaminously:

1. That the most essential rights of mankind are Life, Liberty, Property.
2. That the only end and design of government is to secure these.
3. That great invasions have been made upon all these; our rights by the British Administration till our grievances ond oppression are become intolerable.
4. That our representative be instructed and direced to use all his influence in the House that all proper measures may be taken to obtain a redress of their grievances.
5. That if this fails of effect, the Town is ready to unite with the other towns in this government and with all the other British Governments on this Continent in all lawful measures which on a Joint Consultation shall be judged necessary to save our sinking state and to obtain redress of our Grievances.
6. That a copy of the above Votes and Resolves be transmitted to the Town Clerk to the Gentlemen of the Committee of Communication and Correspondence at Boston for their Reasonable and Prudent care of the public Good." Samuel True, Moderator.

221 Samuel True 5 B 9 Mar 1758 D 5 Aug 1778. Reinlisted in the Army of the Revolution and was at Saratoga at the taking of Burgoyne. His brother remembered well (in 1855) his return home of an evening and his taking him in his arms. (Next line missing) fever or dysentery, at providence, RI, COL Stephen Peabody was the Commander of the Regiment.

"On the 24th day of May 1778 Gen Prescott, the British Commander, who had been captured in his quarters the preceding year by COL Barton, under pretence of an anticipated attack on Rhode Island, sent a detachment of 500 men up the bay, to destroy the American boats and other property that fell in their way. At daylight the next morning they landed between Warren and Bristol and proceeded in two divisions. They destroyed 70 flat bottom boats, and a state galley, a meeting house and a number of dwellings at Warren, robbed the inhabitants, drove away livestock, and at Bristol fired the Episcopal Church mistaking it for a dissenter's meeting house, carried off considerable plunder and burned twenty dwellings. Gassing's Field Book, Vol 1. 645.

Samuel True Says, in a letter 29 May 1778 to his father, "On Monday the 25th, there was an alarm. I immediately turned out the Company and joined the Regiment, drew ammunition and marched with them. It being very warm that day, it was the more tedious marching. We went about 15 miles between three and four hours, namely from 9 to 12 or 1 O'Clock, but the enemy on our approach, made to their boats, so that we were in no action though the men appeared in high spirits. We were almost an hour too late. I saw the brave COL Barton just after he was wounded, but it is thought that he will get well. I heard that one man of ours was mortally wounded and that is all I know of that were hurt. The enemy it is thought lost some. They carried off the priest and destroyed the stores. At Bristol They burned some houses. We took from them two drummers and a brass drum."

Samuel True was the favorite of his father, and had commenced his studies as a preparation for college. From some expressions in the letter, it is assumed that he was a pious young man, and that he had the ministry ultimately in view.

"The rations with which they were served consisted of rice and flour bread, peas, potatos, pork, beef and fish."

L. D. Hildreth M.D. of Marietta published some sketches of the early settlers of Ohio in the Hesperian, a magizine published in Cincinnati by W. D. Gallagher. Among others is found a sketch of doctors of which the following is extracted. "Dr. Jabez True obtained the knowledge of the learned languages and English grammer sufficient to read medicine to advantage from his father, who generally had a class of young men preparing for college. Having sellected this branch for a profession, studied the healing art from under Dr. Flagg of Hampstead a popular but very eccentric man highly eminent as a physician and much esteemed by his friends. Dr. True having finished his studies near the close of the Revolutionary War, volunteered his services in the defense of the Country by entering as a surgeon of a privateer, fitting out for a cruise at Newburyport, distant fifteen miles from his home and sailed for Europe. Soon after reaching their cruising ground and before many prizes were taken, the vessell was wrecked on the coast of Holland, this closing abruptly his prospect of wealth.

"The shipwrecked mariners were received kindly by the Hollanders, amongst whom the Dr. remained until the cessation of hostilities, when he returned to America." On the way the party stopped in London, and had the pleasure of seeing the King, George III in some of his walks about the streets." In a few months after this he entered on the practice of medicine in Gilmanton NH where he remained three or four years.

"The Ohio Company was organized in 1787 and feeling a strong desire to visit the enchanting regions in the Valley of the Ohio so admirably described by the writers and travelers of that day, he became an associate and bidding adieu to the land of his birth, went out in company with a family from Newbury, reaching the mouth of the Muskinggum early in the summer of 1788. The settlement of Marietta had then but few persons in it. The country was covered with dense forests and there was more employment for able bodied men in clearing land and building log cabins than for physicians. Nevertheless he was not disheartened but erected a small-log office for his books and medicine, a short distance from the bank of the Muskinggum, on what is now called Muskinggum Street near the dwelling of William Moulten, a goldsmith, from Newbury, in whose family he boarded for several years. At the breaking out of the Indian War in 1791 he received the appointment of Surgeon's Mate to the infantry and Rangers, employed by the Ohio Company's Directors at Marietta, with a salry of twentytwo dollars a month which was a welcome and timely aid during the years of privation which attended the war and sorely tried the resources of the most able ot the inhabitants. This appointment was held until the close of the war. During the most gloomy and disheartening periods, schools were kept up by the inhabitants as they all had to go into garrisons. The New Englanders, deeming the instruction of their children one of the most important duties, Dr. True taught a school part of the time in a large lower room in one of the block houses in the garrison at the point."

After the close of the war he built a small dwelling house and office, turning his attention to the clearing and cultivating a little farm about a mile above the town on the bank of the Ohio. He still remained a bachelor until the year 1806 when he married Mrs. Sarah Mills the widow of CPT Charles Mills, a very amiable and excellent woman. She was a native of the town of Wrenthan, MA.

In the year 1798 he became united with the Congregational Church in Marietta under the pastoral care of Rev Daniel Story, an uncle of the late Justice Story of MA. This was the earliest religious society in Ohio. In this church he was for many years a deacon filling the duties of that sacred office with great fidelity. His charity for the poor and especially the sick poor was unbounded and was only limited by his scanty means, often bestowing on them a large portion of the avails of his attendance of his richer patients. It was many years after the settlement by the Ohio Company before bridges were built.

During this time he was the principal physician for Marieta and the adjacent country extending his rides for 20 to 30 miles. Swimming his horse across streams and following trails marked only with Indian signs blazed on trees. The people were generally poor and had little to spare for the services of a doctor. With him it made little difference whether the patient was rich or poor. He was always ready when his health permitted to attend on their call and to divide his last dollar with those who needed it. A practical proof of his equinamity of temper, generosity and forgiving disposition even to those who had done him an injury was related to the writer by the transgressor himself. The Doctor was an ardent admirer of fine fruit and had cultivated with great care, some of the choicest varieties of apples and pears in his garden near his house. Amongst them was the richest kind of 'Summer Sweeting' apples to which the neighboring boys paid daily visits when the Doctor was out of the way. James Glover, a partially blind man, near sighted man well known to the inhabitants of Marietta many years since for his natural, ready and keen wit, but then a stout boy of fourteen or fifteen years of age, hearing the other boys speak of the fine apples in the Doctor's gardens, concluded that he would also try them, so one night a little after bedtime he mounted the tree and began filling his bosom and pockets with fruit. Making a rustling among the branches, the Dr. happened to hear him and coming out into the garden, looking up into the tree he spied him and hailed him. James was obliged to answer and and give his name. "Oh, James, is that you? Why James you are in the wrong tree. This is the Summer Sweeting. Come down, come down my lad and I will help you get some of them." This was indeed the fact, but in his hurry he had not yet made the discovery of his mistake. James came down very slowly expecting rough treatment, and the kind language of the Doctor only a ruse to get him within his reach. But he was pleasantly dissappointed. The Doctor, instead of harsh words or beating the aggresor, as most men would have done, took a pole and knocked off as many apples as he could carry and dismissed him with the request that when he wanted any more to call on him and he would assist in getting them. James, however, never visited the tree again and did all in his power to prevent the other boys from doing so.

For several of the last years of his life he held the office of County Treasur which afforded him a modest salary without much toil, and enabled him to extend his charities to the new societies for the propagation of the Gospel and other benevolent purposes which came into notice 30 to 70 years ago and of which he was a zealous promoter. His house was the house of all itinerating preachers of the Congregational and Presbyterian sects who visited the town and were in the cause of religeon. Samuel J. Mills, the projector of foreign missions spent two weeks with him in 1812, when was formed the "Washington County Bible Society" which still is in full operation and was first in the valley of the Ohio. He was the "Gains" of Marietta, although for its population it abounded in men zealous and liberal in promoting good works. In his domestic relations the Dr. was very happy. His wife was cheerful, humble and sincere Christian with a lively, benevolent temperment, ever ready to aid in all his works of charity. By this union he had no issue, but the children of his wife were treated with all the love and tenderness that he would have bestowed on his own.

In person, Dr. True was tall and spare with simple but not ungraceful manner; his eyes grey and small, one having been destroyed by disease of the optic nerve; with full projecting brows; nose large and aquline; forehead rather low but face mild and expressive of benevolence; he was a man of whom no enemy could say hard things; and whom everyone loved and respected. He died of an epidemic fever which prevailed in Marietta in 1823. His memory is still cherished by descendants of the early pioneers for his universal charity, simplicity of manner and sincere piety."

His brother Henry visited him in 1799 making the journey on horseback in twentyfour days and spent the winter with him. He himself with his wife made a visit to New England in 1810 accomplishing the journey on horseback.

Rev Henry True 5 was fitted for college, partly at the academy in Atkinson and partly with his cousin Gyles Merrill of Plaistow NH. Afterwards he taught school five or six years in Salisbury, Beverly and Tyngsborough MA and spent the winter of 1799 with his brother Jabez in Marietta OH. He was induced to undertake this journey by his brother who represented that there was a good opening for an establishment for an academy in the new settlement. Not finding the state of things as he had been led to anticipate, he spent the winter and returned in the spring.

He studied Divinity partly with the Rev Lawrence of Tyngsborough and partly with the Rev Dr Chaplain of Groton (whose son was later imprisoned in the South for entertaining anti slavery opinions). In 1805 he received the call from the Congregational Church of Union to become their pastor and in the spring the town ratified the call and voted a salry of $400 and 20 cords of wood with the priviledge of 4 absences a year. The ceremonies of ordination and installation took place in Sep following. The occasion was one of great interest and excitement in this country town as it was the first that had occurred there. There was a general assemblage of the inhabitants of the town as well as the presence of many from surrounding towns. The family of Maj Gen Henry Knox. Secy of War under Washington, then residing in Thomaston was present among others. The meeting house was thronged with attendance. The Council was large and those who officiated were as follows:

Opening Prayer, Rev Freeman Parker of Dresden; Reading the Scriptures, Rev Thos Cockren of Camden; Sermon, Rev Hezekiah Packard, D D of Wiscassett; Ordaining Prayer, Rev Alfred Johnston of Belfast; Charge to Pastor, Rev Manasseh Cutler M.D. of Hamilton MA; Right Hand of Fellowship by Rev Jonathan Huse of Warren and Concluding Prayer by Rev Moses Dow of Upper Beverly MA.

The Rev Manasseh Cutler was quite distinguished as a public man as he frequently engaged in enterprizes connected with the interest of science and political affairs. He was eminent as both a divine and as a naturalist. His cultivation of the science of botany led to the introduction of several new native productions including the materia medica, Indian tobacco and skunk cabbage. He became interested in the plans of emigration to the west, organized the Ohio Land Co., and spent considerable time in procuring the necessary legislation from the Congress of the United States. He was particularly engaged in the settlement of Marietta, Ohio. Rev Dr Packard commenced public life as a drummer boy in the Revolutionary Army; afterwards grad H C in 1787 in a class which included John Quincy Adams, Chief Justice Cranch and Judge Samuel Putnam, and was universilly esteemed as eminent, wise and judicious as a divine. Years later after he had left Chalmsford it was said that the people of that place had never been sorry but once and that always.

Rev True continued the pastor of the Church until Oct 25 1820. His ministerial life continued and was attended with many vicissitudes. Difficulties occured with the doctrine of teaching. His theology was of the general type common in New England previous to the introduction of the peculiar sentiment of Emmons and Hopkins. He was what was called a moderate Calvinist in distinction from those who promulgated the new meta Physical Subtleties of Doctrine with an asperity that tolerated no disscent even in modes of expression.

HINC ILLAE LACRIMAE. He lived and served the church in a period when unfortunately for him the theological pendulum in New England had vibrated to the opposite extreme of what it has since attained, The Council called to terminate his pastoral relation to the Church say that " they are happy to find the Church have passed the following vote: the Church of Christ of which Rev Henry True is pastor voted 25 Oct 1820 that they highly esteemed their pastor as a neighbor and a friend and a citizen and as a Christian and that they regard and respect him as a consciencious and faithful minister of Christ and deeply lament that circumstances are such that a dissolution of his pastoral relation to them had become expedient. The Church is still anxious for his welfare and prays for his health and prosperity and the Council cordially unites in giving him its approbation as a minister of Christ and recommend him as such to the service of the Churches, wishing him to administer Gospel Ordinances as occasion may require. The Council further say that the unamious opinion of that Council which Ordinated him was that his confession of faith and the answers he gave to questions proposed to him by the Council obviated and did away with all the objections brought against him by those professedly agrieved. Indeed the Council deem it proper distinctly to state, from the testimony before that the original objectors to the Rev Mr True have in the opinion of the Council manifested unreasonable opposition to his ministery and labors in this place; and that their advisors have been wanting in that uniting and concilitory spirit which is required in the disciples of Christ, and especially in them who are set for the preaching and the defences of the Gospel of Peace."

H. Packard, Moderator
D. F. Harding, Scribe

Henceforth he continued to reside in the town and to administer at funerals and on other ocasions when called upon. He derived some support from the cultivation of a small farm and the assistance of the economical management of a companion every way worthy to be the help mate of "a poor minister" Cheering him in the adversities and trials incident to such a life and partaking of his comforts and his joys. They rest quitely side by side on a portion of the village cemetary once belonging to their farm.

He was generally, until the advance of age rendered him unable to attend to the duties, once of the School Committee of the Town and was frequently elected to some of the minor offices. His death was as sudden as that of his sister, Sarah, with no preminition, as he was sitting at the breakfast table, his head suddenly declined and he "fell asleep." His wife died of pneumonia.

234 Rev Jabez True 5 B 23 Jan 1764 D 2 May 1835 M 9 Nov 1786 Ruth Brown dau[1] of Ruben and Deborah of Salisbury Plains. resided on the old site of Henry True[4]

The father of Jabez True 5 was a dea of the Congregational Church and naturally educated his children in the principles of that denomination. It is right perhaps to explain the causes of its decline in Salisbury. The Rev Caleb Cushing died in 1752 and as Nr 78 Rev Henry True had just completed his studies he 'supplied the pulpit for a time in his native parish and the people were well pleased with him." But his cousin Henry Eaton had conceived an animosity against him and the True Family and made so much noise and disturbance in the community that Rev Henry True 4 would not consent to remain with them. After that Rev Edward Noyes was duly called and settled over the parish. He was from Newbury. It does not appear that his piety was of an order which impresses a conviction upon the hearer. It was even asserted that he was guilt of intoxication and exhibited manifest tokens of it while in the pulpit. He lost the confidence of his people and the Church and the Congregation declined.[4] Some removed from the town and some went to other denominations. Jabez True brother of Rev Henry True and Dea Samuel, moved out of Salisbury and went first to Newbury and worked in the shipyard and afterward to New Gloucester ME. He sold his land which was on the opposite side of the road, with a house and about 5 acres to his brother Samuel. He was a drummer boy in the Revolutionary War. When the War broke out CPT John Merrill was ordered to draft men in Salisbury and to call out the militia. Jabez True 5 then 11 years old went with him to beat the drum at the corner of the road in town. At the meeting, CPT Merrill and the drummer marched round the Company several times and requested volunteers to fall in. The required number was raised and no draft was required.

It was during this state of things when he had reached mature years and the people one by one were seeking other places of worship that the younger Jabez frequently left his father's church and attended meetings of other denominations. He was a teacher of music and was employed at one time at Mill's Village. Here he providently listened to the teachings of Elder Moses Chase. He had been in the habit of perusing the Bible with care and it was said to have read the Scriptures 13 times in course before arriving at the early age of twenty years. But he heard the great truths presented in a new light from which he had been accustomed which arrested his attention. The impressions followed him home and resulted in his conversion to God. Immediately he conferred not with the flesh and blood but joined his religious interest for life with his newly formed friends. His father was warmly attached to his Church and none of his children could have been guilty of an act more repugment to his feelings than uniting with the Baptist Church. The first act of his father who was a large land owner in the town was to disinherit his son. The next year however his feelings and spirit happily changed; he was led to hear the Baptist preach and became convinced that he had been wrongfully prejudiced against them. He received his son back again to his favor and allowed him afterwards to remain unmolested in his religious opinions.

On 16 May 1794 Jabez True[5] was elected Deacon of the Baptist Church and as he was well versed in the Scriptures and had received a good common education, on the death of Elder Chase in 1797 he was invited to improve his gifts in preaching. In the year 1801 he appears to have been first recognized as a licensed preacher. In the years 1801 and 1802 $30.00 per annum was voted as compensattion for his services. In 1803 eighty dollars were promised and 1804 all the money raised. The estimation of the Church was manifested by the following: "Voted that Deacon True continue with us and improve his gift in the Church and society according to his ability and we wish him to examine his own feelings as respect to his duties to God and the Church of Christ in reference to his being ordained." After a suitable time for prayer and deliberation had elapsed, he declined to be a candidate shrinking doubtless from the responsibilities of the position from his humble sense of his own inadequacy to assume pastoral work.

In 1812 the First Baptist Society of Salisbury was organized and incorporated August 26th. Deacon True had now been preaching 11 years and on the 2d day of October the society expressed a desire that he receive ordination and become their pastor. A committee of four was appointed for a conference with him and to visit the Church of Brentford for mutual consultation. The result was the call for an eccleiastical council and he was ordained pastor of the Church 5 Nov 1812. This relation continued until 1822. After this period he preached for the Church occasionally, for that at the Village Mills and for others in adjoining towns. At the same time he was engaged during the week in labor on his farm. He was loved and respected in all the region where he was known and the affectionate regard for him was continued.

An instance of his firmness of character is given: He was requested to attend the funeral of Mr. Lane in the town of Hampton. This service was opposed by the "Parish People," who considered his presence an intrusion. The tithing man met him and at first endevored to disuade him from his purpose, then to bribe him to return and finally to exercise his authority and compel him. All was without avail; he replied he was about his Masters business and should go forward. Notwithstanding the threatening attitude of the officer with his pole he gave the word to his horse and pressed on. Ariving at Hampton, he found the house crowded and two clergymen posted directly before him to observe his words and to embarass him if possible in the performance of the duty. These circumstances produced no effect upon him; he performed the duty of the hour with his accustomed vigor and complacency.

His 2 sons, Reuben and Abraham were both married and had their wives with them. The story was that Abram was engaged to a young lady who withdrew her promise when she learned that the family was going west. "Another was found nothing loth." 309 Jacob True 6 B 27 Nov 1754 Bpt Dec 1764 " " He was a soldier of CPT Ward's Co. in Arnold's Expedition to Quebec in 1775. There is a journal of the march from Cambridge to that city in the history Gen Regr Vol 6 p 136: "The winter encampment at Valley Forge and the expedition under Arnold through the trackless wilderness of Maine will long attest the indominatiable spirie and great privations of the American Revolutionist. More intense sufferings have seldom been endured than this patriotic band of wariors. Jacob True was among the prisoners taken 31 Dec 1775.

About the middle of August 1775 it was resolved by the Commander in Chief and a Committee of Congress to send a force by the way of the Kennebec River to cooperate with Gen Schulyer who was preparing an advance to the northern lakes by way of the Hudson River. 1,100 hardy men were detached for this service and placed under the command of Benedict Arnold. There were ten companies of musketeers from N England and 3 companies of riflemen from Virginia and PA. Those afterwards most prominent in the war were CPt later GEN Daniel Morgan, Christopher Greene, Dearborn, Meigs, and Burr. The troops marched to Newburyport, where they embarked on 11 transports for the mouth of the Kennebec. They reached Gardner in safety and rendevoused at Ft Western, opposite of the present town of Augusta. Here they were on the verge of an almost unexplored wilderness. They were furnished with 200 bateaus to convey their supplies upon the river.

Thenceforward their march was attended with terrible sufferings and privations, detailed in Lossings' Field Book of the Revolution, page 193 and seq. Emerging in the French settlements 30 Oct. On the 9th of Nov the Command reached Pt. Levi, oposite Quebec, reduced in numbers by sickness and return of a part of the troops to about 800 men. When Montgomery took command of the combined troops they amounted to no more than 900 on the first of December. The result of his operations is well known. In the assualt upon the city the General was killed and Arnold was severally wounded. Those who were surrounded were obliged to surrender and consisted of 400 men and officers. The prisoners were treated kindly.

These prisoners must have been exchanged in the process of time as we find Jacob True in 1778 on board of Paul Jones' vessel in the Navy.

John Paul was born in Scotland 6 Jul 1747. He early went to sea and in 1773 settled in Virginia where he added Jones to his name. He was commissioned CPt in the Navy 11 Oct 1775 and in the following year was active as commander under Com Essek Hopkins whose sphere of operations was on the American Coast and West Indies. In May of 1778 the Cheveliar, John Paul Jones appeared first in European waters. In command of the Ranger his exploits arrested the attention of the whole British Nation. With it he landed in several places in Scotland and England and destroyed public property. After a conflict of about an hour he captured the Drake, and English vessel of War which was dreadfully shattered and lost 40 men.

In 1779 a squadron of five vessels was fitted out in France by the connivance of the King and the approval of the American Commissioners, and placed under the command of CPT Jones. One of these had its name changed and as a compliment to Dr. Ben Franklin it was called the Bon Homme Richard from his famous 'Poor Richard's Almanac,' which became the flagship.

The crews were made up of all nationalities with almost all nations represented, even Malays. On the Richard, Jacob True was second gunner. The cruises of this little fleet were unusually successful and many prizes were taken. By the middle of September the Commander had captured 13 vessels. It was on the 23 of this month that Jones perceived a fleet of about 40 merchantmen, convoyed by the Serapis 44 guns and the Countess of Scarbourough 22 guns.

He immediately gave chase and about 7 O'Clock in the evening, the Richard and the Serapis came within musket shot. Then ensued one of the most desperate sea fights ever recorded. Jones ran his vessel into the Serapis and the wind soon brought them side by side, when he lashed them together. So close were they that the muzzles of the respective guns touched each other. In this position, the action continued from 8:30 to 10:30, each party fighting with utmost desperation. They fought hand to hand with Pike, Pistol and Cutlas and blood flowed freely. The Richard was pierced with several 18 pound balls between wind and water and her 12 pounders were completely silenced. Only three nine-pounders kept up the cannonade, but the mariners in the Round-top did great execution. At 9:30, just as the moon arose on a cloudless sky, some packages ignited and all the officers and men of the Serapis aloft the mainmast were blown up; three times the ships were on fire and their destruction seemed inevitable. The scene was of appaling granduer, while it exhibited men in the character of Darkest Furies. During the height of the conflict the Alliance, one of Jones vessels under the command of Sandis, yet refusing to obey his orders, sailed around the Combatants and delivered a broadside which injured each about equally, the Richard lost 12 men by this discharge. However, the Serapis at last surrendered and the Countess of Scraborough, shortly after to the Pallas. Jones' vessel was at this moment a mere wreck and fast sinking. Her sick and wounded were conveyed to the Searpis and a few hours afterwards she went down. Jones' with the remains of his squardron and his prizes, sailed for Holland and anchored of the Texel on the 3d of October. He estimated the value of his prizes made during this cruise at $200,000." (Lossing's Field Book, Vol II. PP 641-642.

After the war Jacob True returned home and died at the home of his step father Merrill in Salisbury, unmarried.

Some of the vessels captured by Jones were taken to Denmark, and on the demand of the British, delivered up to England. In subsequent years the grandson of Jones induced our government to make a demand to Denmark for this act, contrary to the laws of war. The justice of the claim was recognized and the amount demanded was paid. In the distribution, privates received one share and gunners,two. In January 1851 William Webster, Grandson of Jacob True 5 6 took measures to recover from the government, the share of Nr 309 Jacob True and with the aid of Caleb Cushing, succeeded and made distribution to the heirs. The amount recovered was $948.17 of which the claim agent retained $316.05 and the rest was distributed to the nephews and nieces, being $27.95 a share.

310 Abel True[6] B 8 Apr 1756 went to Europe, married and settled on the Isle of Guernsey. After visiting friends in America, he died on his return passage leaving his wife and children at Guernsey as understood from a letter from his wife after his death.

228 REVERND HENRY TRUE[5] M MARRY BARRETT ISSUE
585 DR HENRY AYER TRUE 6 B 10 Aug 1812 Graduated Boston College 1832 A.M. Boston College 1835 M.D. Married 2 Nov 1841 Elizabeth Pierce Reed B 7 Jan 1821 Deerfield MA res Marion Ohio.

"His medical education was with Joseph H. Esterabrook, M.D. of Camden ME and at the Boston Medical School and at the Medical School of Maine. During his preparatory medical studies he also spent some time as 'apothecary' in the McLean Asylum for the Insane at Sommerville, then Sechmere's Point near Boston, where he enjoyed the instruction of Rufus Wyman, M.D. and through him the opportunity of attending the surgical operations of Dr. James Walker of Charlston, which were considerable, owing in part to the numerous accidents which occured on the Lowell Railroad, which at that time (1833) was in the process of construction.

Born in Union ME and educated in New England, he removed to Marion, Ohio, in 1839 for the purpose of pursuing the practice of his profession. The country practice, the necessity of riding at all hours especially at night, through areas imperfectly drained and cultivated and the consequent damp fogs, impaired his health and brought on severe attacks of asthma, which compelled him to engage in other pursuits. During this last period he had more or less cultivated general literature and had given instruction to young men in the Latin and Greek languages.

Dr. Henry A. True engaged in many things also of a public nature such as laying out an extensive cemetery and the engineering connected with the grading of the streets of the town in which he resided. These have been attended with vexations and sometimes censure, rather than with profit. In the same category may be included his share of the present work of preparing a genealogy of the FAMILY OF TRUE. He has met with many encouragements and good wishes as well as substantial assistance, but there have not been wanting those who have imagined that some sinister motive or unworthy purpose was concealed somewhere. In some senses such labor never 'pay.'

Dr. True, although born in the Congregational Church, when he came west became connected with the Presbyterian Church which in that part of the Country in a large measure takes the place of the former, differing chiefly in the form of government. He was elected an Elder of the Presbyterian Church of Marion and ordained 2 Jul 1843. In 1853 he was elected State Clerk of the Presbytery of Marion and was re-elected every 2 years for at least 20 years. He was frequently elected the Clerk of the Synod to which his Presbytery belongs and was at least three times a member of the General Assembly of the Church. In 1870 the Presbytery recommended that he be licensed to preach the Gospel with a view only to occasional labor and accordingly appointed the usual parts of trial which was consumated the next year and he was duly licensed 28 Sep 1871. He was president of the Marion County Bible Society from ten to fifteen years. (Mrs. H. A. True descends from William Reed and Lucy Renage who sailed from Gravesend, Kent County, England in 1635 and settled in Weymouth Massachusetts. Their son William Reed born in England married Sarah Ives. From the record, it appears that William's parents did not sail from England and that William Reed probably did not marry until after they arrived in New England. Their genealogy follows with the line-of-descent underlined.)

585b FAMILY OF REED

William Reed[2] sailed from Gravesend; Kent County, England in 1635, and settled in Weymouth MA. He was Representative in 1636 and 1638. He married Sarah Ives and they were parents of 7 children and the 3d child, James 3, is in the family tree (the genealogy of this Reed family may be covered in the book, Reed Family of Weymouth 1901. 785 pps., with a description which may be found in the "American Genealogist" by Joel Munsell's Sons.)

"He was born in Goshen and worked on a farm until 16 years of age when he 'struch out for himself' and went to Albany NY for the purpose of learning the trade of a gunsmith. In 1830 he turned his attention to the business of engraving and die sinking, which he followed with sundry mission until 1860. In 1846 he removed to Cincinatti OH where he resided for the most part ever after. In the fall of 1860 he was elected one of the magistrates of the City and was elected for three terms after the first. This led to considerable study and careful attention to the law, and he was in 1868 admitted to practice at the Bar of the State Courts. IN 1871 he was admitted to practice in the U S Courts.

In 1837 he became connected to the I. O. O. F. and being zealous in the cultivation of its principles in due time past the several chairs. He was elected Grand Representative of the Jurisdiction of NY for two terms, by the Grand Lodge of that state to the Grand Lodge of the U S and afterward from the Grand Encampment of Ohio. Continuing to be an active member of the order, he has contributed much to its literature through its periodicals, and held from time to time many important offices in its different branches.

During this time also, although not a professed polygamists, will have to plead guilty of having paid court to 'the Nine' in leisure moments, and many of the fugitive offspring of these secret cummunings have wandered from their paternal home, from one periodical or another. We give an example of her verification.

A Brother Stricken Low Now Claims the Mourner's Tear.
Air: Oft on the Stilly Night:
By B. C. True, P.G.

Our God: We humbly bow our heads in sorrow here, A brother stricken low, now claims the mourner's tear. The friendship felt, we have knlet,
Together at its shrine, We bring today around the clay, -- The Spirit now is thine. Ours is the form of dust, the Soul is God's who gaveit,
O, God: in Thee we Trust, Thou wilt in Glory save it.

In Love we often met to share his friendly greeting: Now sadness here, does sit to gloom our solem meèting. The Love that burned the Truth we learned,
At the alters where we gather, We bring today around this clay, Whose Spirit's with the Father, Our's is the form of dust,etc."

He had 4 children by the first wife and 5 by the 2d.

John True spent his minority with his father on the farm or in cutting spars for the West Indies trade or making card boards for which there was great demand at the time. On becomming of age he hired out with GEN Edward Russell of N Yarmouth, At the end of four years and with four hundred dollars he bought a forest lot near his father's and began clearing for himself a home. He resided in the town 76 years. He was a farmer most of his life but for a few years and bought property in the center of the town and entered into trade with one of sons but in later life he returned to the farms.

He shunned public life and declined to spend time in political discussions. He was a good neighbor and an industrious farmer. Rising early he had dinner precisely at 12 O'Clock and tea at 4 p.m. rarely performing a stroke of work after that time. Prompt in all his dealings he was never sued for debt during a long life nor did he ever sue anyone, nor lost anything of consequence. It was said of him, "Uncle John always pays his minister's tax promptly."

He studied economy but was always liberal in necessary improvements and kept up with advancing knowledge in agriculture as rotation of crops, drainage, and compost fertilizers.

John True "had his peculiarities." But what man of sense does not enough to distinguish himself from others? During the year of 1812 he had corn to sell while many around were destitute. He refused to sell any however to those who had money to pay for it, supplying those who were willing but had not the means and waiting for the pay until they were able. In 1814 he was drafted as a soldier at Portland. Seven years later he received a land warrant for this service which he sold for $100.00 giving one half for a charitable purpose and buying a sofa with the other, saying that he had slept on a hard plank as a soldier, he would now take compensation by procuring something for his comfort.

He was faithful in the regulation of his family in the exercise of necessary authority, in counseling and warning. Yet he was almost always cheerful, quick at repartee and full of social equality in the family and among the neighbors. He united with the Congregational Church in Pownal 16 Mar 1817 over which Rev Perez Chapin was Pastor and was ever after ready and efficient as a member in the performance of Christian duties.

Near the close of life he was obliged to give close attention to his wife, who was suddenly stricked down to a state of helplesness. He did what he could but the effort was too great for his advanced age. After a sickness of five weeks he died in a sitting posture and without a struggle. He was six feet in height and had strong muscular development, His hair was fine, glossy and jet black, only sparsely intermixed with grey at the time of his death. He was dressed according to his request in the same habiliment which he was want to wear to Church and seemed to friends, like one enjoying a calm sleep. One of nature's noblemen.

He then removed to the state of NY and lived with his son in W NY and NYC where he D of pneumonia. He was a man of strong feelings and entered upon his work with all the zeal and energy he was posessed of. "He was a rousing preacher. His labors were signalized by revivals. Many are the souls that can testify that his preaching was not in word only but in the demonstration of the spirit. He sought above all things to live faithfully his gospel message." Said one who many of the ministers that traveded over the hills of Maine. "Among those who came I never heard one who who gave the gospel truth at the same time a clearer, sweeter, and stronger sound, than Mr. True. He spent his last years in such labors as the Church called him to and during the last ones he was very active in the cause of his Master, especially in meetings held for the seeking of the blessing of perfect love. In short he was a good man, humble, praying always and giving much alms to the people. The part which these and others of the class bore in "The great struggle" has never been properly appreciated, how many lives were saved through their instrumentality, how many aches and pains and pressing wants were soothed and relieved, will never be known here, but the record of self sacrifice and kindly devotion is in Heaven. They will be rewarded who seek no reward. In the same spirit of independence, Mrs. True while deprived of the aid and comfort of her husband and sons, has carefully endeavored not to be a burden to any one of her friends and therefore has sought employment on her own account. He was born in North Yarmouth of very humble parentage. His father died when he was but 2½ years old and his mother married Deacon Cobb of New Gloùscester, when he was four years old. With him he lived until he was 15 and his brother Moses until he was 17. Then he went to Portland as an apprentice to a blacksmith business. On arriving at age he built a shop and commenced work on his own account. He married and moved to Cumberland Center in 1826. He had no one to assist him to the amount of a dollar, but was obliged to make his own way in the world. For 53 years he had labored (1873) hard at shoeing horses and oxen and ironing carriages after serving his apprenticeship. He at one time taught singing schools for ten years in evenings, working hard in the shop all day and going five or six miles six times a week to teach his schools, sometimes having four on hand at one time. He has set at the head of the base in the choir of the Congregational Church for 47 years hardly missing a Sabbath where he was a member for 42 years.

He was town clerk from 1853 to 1857, town collector of taxes nine years in succession and parish collector ten years. He was always fond of military affairs, and commenced his career in this line as Sergeant in Portland. The first year after going to Cumberland he was elected CPT of a company, the 2d year MAJ, the third year LTCOL and the fourth year COL Commanding the Reg four years before resigning. The next year he was elected Captain of a rifle company and rose through the ranks to Colonel in succession and commanded the Regiment for four years a second time and until the militia was abolished in the state having held 10 commissions. During this time he was a candidate in the Legislature for Major General but not belonging in politics to the dominant party of the time he was not elected.

He had been Secretary, Treasurer and Collector of the Town Fire Insurance Company for 18 years. He held a Commission of Justice of the Peace for 32 years finishing terms of seven years each as this was written. He was appointed P M of Cumberland Centre by General Taylor 21 May 1849 and in all the mutations of politics he held it again until this was written. To fill these stations has required attention, activity and incessant labor. It might well satisfy the laudable ambition of a plain American citizen, intent on doing his duty, while obeying the unsolicted call of his fellow man. This is an example of the working of a pure democracy.

During 4 days stay at Fuhchal, I had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of the most excellent man, in whom were to be combined so many good qualities an Christian virtures, and the Country which he represented has lost a faithful servant and true patriot. THE BIRDS OF SPRING
By Giles Lee True

The south wind comes from the far away hills, And these to the winter-good bye;
And it wakes the flowers and kisses the rills, And whispers "the summer is nigh"
I hear the songs of the caroling birds, Made glad by the comming of spring
Let none but the fairies may know the word That these beautiful warbellers sing.
The violets chant 'the winter is past' The crocus look modest and green.
And daffodils join the chorus at last We too would have spring for our Queen.
But though all the flowers from east to the west With their still small voices may sing, I cannot but love them ever the best The carolling birds of spring.
The clovers will bloom with their leafy stems, Will wave in the freshing breeze,
And dew drops will sparkel like crystal gems Fresh set in the blossoming trees.
The sephers will float on their dainty quest And each new born fragrance will bloom. But nothing can charm the weary worn breast Like the beautiful birds of Spring. The Chautauqua Farmer

BETSEY JANE

I can't forget the little cot, just out beyond the hills, The meadows and the pasture lot, And little mummering rill; The old brown tree with apples red Anear the narrow lane; With Aunt Sophy and Uncle Fred And little Betsey Jane. Six summers long I labored there. How short they seemed to be. With Betsey tripping everwhere And singing songs to me. In harvest time right merrily She rode the creeking rain. While Uncle pitched the golden sheaves, To me a Betsey Jane.

The years passed pleasantly away Till at the cottage gate, I saw a City gent one day, He'd come to rusticate. With little dainty soft gloved hands, He twirled a dandy cane. The biggest strut in all the land He smiled on Betsey Jane. His long mustache, Was black as jet, His teeth were snowy white, His striped pants were long and yet, They fitted rather tight. No wonder Uncle thought it droll, While she was dressed so plain, This 'exquisite'should take a strol, Along with Betsey Jane.

They wandered down the willowed brook, Bright shown the cresent moon.
But Uncle learned which route they took, And overhauled them soon.
Our dandy saw his visage grim And mercy plead in vain For Uncle caught and walloped him, and scolded Betsey Jane. Here Betsey's heart received a wound, She loved 'the silly thing,' But Uncle would not have him 'round, He said, were he a king. And so our dandy traveled thence, And ne'er came back again,
Which put an end to City Gents, A sparking Betsey Jane.

THREE LITTLE GRAVES

Three little hillocks thrown up side by side Tenderly whispers three loved ones have died. Three young immortals of prisons of clay Have cast off their moorings and flitted away, To that happy land where no storm ever raves Nor hoarse winds go sobbing past three little graves.

Three slabs of marble all sit in a row, Speak to the passer in tones soft and low, Of dear ones now gone to the ever green shore To be with the angels and rest evermore. Close by the river that limpid and wide Murmers along in a beautiful tide. Three little stockings the mother will prize, Though tears will bring, sad tears to her eyes. And oft as she searches their wardrobe through, She never forgets the tiniest shoe. But fold up each garmet and lay it away,
The angels are clothing your darlings today.

Three weeping willows bend low where they rest, Sweet flowers are blooming o'er each little breast. The birds sing as gayly their carrols today As ever they sang in sunniest May: But sadly I know where the willow branch waves
Two mourners will linger by three little graves.

A friend lost three children (all that he had) within a few months, which furnished the occasion for the above effusion.

2788 Samuel Fessenden True 8 B 2 Nov 1838 D 26 Feb 1867.

In the War of the Rebellion, Samuel F True was commissioned Quarter Master of the 68th IL Volunteer Cavalry and was in the Army of the Potomic. This service was for three months. He returned to Springfield where he was again commissioned Quarter Master of the 14th IL Cavalry for the war and went with the regiment to Kentucky, where he saw some action. He remained with his unit but a short time when he was put on detached duty and sent to east Tenn. where much hard work was done and many privations endured, especially in the constant movements to which the troops were subjected. At times he was with Grant and he was with Hooker in his battle above the clouds. He never returned to his regiment again until he went to be mustered out of service after the war closed. He sometimes acted as brigade quarter master, assistant Corps quarter master, post quarter master and closed many of them by selling stores, horses, wagons, etc. In all these various services he was efficient and courageous; sometimes in perilous transportation he lost some of his teams as well as men and made many hair breadth escapes but never lost his courage or the confidence of his superior officers. He however lost his health and eventually his life. His mother had not seen him for five years after he parted with her at New York to go west. The final meeting was at Portland ME where his remains were taken to be deposited by the side of his father and two other brothers who lost their lives in the war. Among his papers were found many commendations from officers of high rank testifying to his ability and usefulness.

2789 Joseph Merrill True 8 B 26 Feb 1840 D 13 Aug 1865

He was a machinist and had just completed his apprenticeship when the war began. He entered the service as First SGT in the regular Army. His first engagement was at Harper's Ferry where he commanded the company as Orderly SGT, there being no other officers of higher comand present, all of them being disabled or absent. The order was given to move forward and they immediately obeyed and the opposing forces were put to flight. He wrote to his mother that he had never felt so much like a man as he did at this time. He saw much hard fighting after this and met with defeat at times and suffering without measure. His last hard fought battle was a Gettysburg where, when the fighting ceased and they began to collect the Company to follow Lee's Army, only nine could be mustered and Joseph was one of the nine. They pushed on however in the pursuit and shared the fortunes of the army. Late in the summer of this year (1863) he became disabled by the occurance of a varicose affection of one limb and the loss of an eye and was sent to the first hospital in Washington and afterwards to Fort Hamilton in New York Harbor where he could receive attention of friends. He recovered sufficiently to attend to many of the usual dutied of the position at the fort, until the term of service expired and the war closed, when he returned to Portland to live but a few weeks. When dying, he said to his mother, "Mother, I am sorry for you, I had hoped to bring you a more brilliant record of my services than this; but if it was all to do over again, and I knew what I know now, I would do the same again Don't be troubled. I only did my duty and I feel confident I did it well."

Here was the true nobility of nature which if it had been exhibited in a higher sphere of service would have attracted higher notice. He laid down his life for his country.

Cornelia presented her two sons as her jewels in a degenerate age of the Roman Republic but here are three noble young men that this mother may still proudly recall in memory as precious ornaments sacrificed upon the alter of their countries welfare.

Charles H True formerly of the Portland Evening Star and well known in Maine has lately been a resident of Sioux City DA. In a recent prarie fire there he lost considerable property and the Sioux City Journal of the 25th Dec 1873 says very little was known of the ravages of the fire away from the immediate vicinity of Vermillion, and along the tracks of the rail road. One report was that Charles N., Editor of the Rep had not been seen in town during the afternoon and as the fire swept over his farm, it is surmised that he might have perished in endeavoring to save his property. Further particulars are expected from the burnt districts and are awaited with great anxiety.

* B 30 Oct 1839 D 18 Oct 1871 M 16 May 1865 Maria Pitcher, He was from Oswego NY, graduated at Williams College in 1862 and at Auburn Theo Seminary 1865 and immediately after, he took charge of the Church in Cedar Falls, IA., where he labored successfully for about two years when he was compelled to return on account of the state of his health. On May 1st 1866 he commenced ministeral labors in Elbridge NY and was installed pastor. His ministery there was greatly blest. Unusual harmony prevailed and many were added to the Church. During the first part of 1871 he labored so unceasingly that early in April he sank down from exhaustion. He lingered during the summer and fell asleep in Jesus at Saratoga Springs. "Tell our people," said he, "I have laid down my life, to set Christ before them that they might be reconciled to God." At a very early age he gave evidence of dedicating himself to the service of Christ and at once devoted himself to the preaching the Gospel. This purpose he persued with rare fidelity. The Synod of Utica passed resolutions testifying to his character as a zealous and faithful mimister, and sympathizing with his family and the Church of Elbridge in their great loss.

4005 Salem True B 10 Aug 1837 M 5 Sep 1865 in Monroe Co NY Mattie Garber B 7 Oct 1843 in M?lmor?, Seneca Co OH res Isadora ME 1873, a carpenter and joiner. Salem True engaged when a young man in teaching winters, and at his trade in Summers until July 1862 when he joined the 4th MI Cavalry in the war. He was discharged for disability 24 Aug 1863 but recovered his health and he again entered the army enlisting in the 13th Michigan Infantry. Followed Sherman from Lookout Mountainin his march to the sea, to Washington and on, during the march he did as well as any veteran and was discharged July 1865.

The war experience of the Regt to which he belonged, consisted mostly of skirmishes until it reached Bentonville, NC on Sunday 19 Mar 1865. The enemy took a stand in a wood near a village and a small brigade, which was the vanguard of a supply train was sent to dislodge them not knowing that Johnston with 4000 men lay between the breastworks. When within 50 yards of the front line of works, the retreat sounded. At this time the subject of the notice was ahead of his company and regt behind a small tree loading and firing as fast as he could, in a stooping posture, while the balls of the enemy went pit a pat on the tree and whined about in a manner not delightful to realize. Not hearing the warning nor thinking of retreat, he was left alone at the tree, a target for the sharp-shooters. As soon as he discovered his situation he started to run and the balls flew pretty thick until he was struck on the left shoulder blade by a ball. He threw himself on the ground and they ceased firing. He threw off his knapsack which was pretty full, filled with about 15 pounds of pork and started again to find his company. The enemy opened fire again but he was soon far enough away he was enabled to reduce his pace to a walk. He felt his shoulder and discovered that it was all right. The ball had spent itself in the knap sack. He relates a dream which he had five or six years before he thought of the rebellion. It pictured in his imagination his subsequent army experience. He saw the contest between his countrymen - the father pitted against his son, the cavalry skirmish, the gray suits of the opposing force and felt a bullet strike his shoulder as it precisely did. in 1858 he connected himself with the Methodist Church, and has striven for the Kingdom, calling other to go with him.

PREFACE TO A TRUE FAMILY COMPENDIUM
BY MARK TRUE

THE CITY OF SALEM was founded as a fishing stage in 1625 by Roger Conant and a group of immigrants from Cape Ann to provide a secure and safe harbor for their fishing operations and they named their settlement Salem. Roger Conant and his group of leaders were in turn supplanted by John Endecott who came as manager of the 5,200 acre plantation of Salem in 1628. Endecott may have reorganized the residential section in conformance with a patent conforming to a proverti for the Charter of the Company of the Massachusetts Bay of New England which was granted in 1629. John Winthrop took over in 1630 for the Massachusetts Bay Co.

The city of Salem progressed through and with the fishing and ship building industries and it was a Port-of-Call and Port-of-Entry of ships from Europe and the West Indies. In as much as Henry True had lot number 93 which appears to have been a very desirable location for a mariner in a 'safe' harbor it is conceivable that he or a member of his family could have been there early with a fishing fleet and had prior knowledge of the good lots with ease of access in all kinds of weather as well as security considerations.

In a chart prepared by Dr. Henry A. True, M.D. entitled, "Genealogy of the Family of True in America" we find these statements 1. Deed or Bill of Sale, "I, Edward Gibens doe acknowledge to have received of Henry True of Salem, which was Mr. Stratten's; and by this payment doe give him fulle perseson of the said house; to him and his forever." the 16 of August 1644 by me Edward Gibens. Also, 2. On 10 Oct 1660, Major Gibbens "did appraise ye said house at four pounds together with the ground adjoining thereto, said house is siteat in Salem by the South riverside and adjoining to the house and land of ye Thomas Browning.." 3. "Henry Trew was granted land 1649" according to Felt's Annals of Salem. 4. "He is supposed to have emigrated from the neighborhood of Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England. Probably he came with Sir Richard Saltonstall with emigrants from Halifax, 1630-35, who settled in Salem, Salisbury, &c. The name of True exists near Huddersfield." 5. "Israel" was daughter of John Pike and sister of Major Robert Pike. They came to Newbury in 1635.

1 Henry[1] True (emigrant) M (married) Israel[1] Pike (emigrant)

Henry[1] True probably came to America from England between 1630 and 1643 as his first child was born 8 March 1645. He may have been a fisherman, mariner (sailor), worker for a transportation company and had no real need to own a house before August 1644. His last official business seems to be as an employee of the English Government. Two notes have been found in Hoyt's Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury as follows: 1 "a Mr. Henry True was master of the ketch Returne of New England at Barbadoes, Sep 1656." and 2 "Perhaps Henry 1 died at sea." A ketch was a small English ship, probably useful as a freighter. Some conjecture has it that he died at sea on a mission toward eastern Canada and left enough evidence to have his will probated early in 1659. It is believed he earlier made his living as a sea captain with a freighter ship hauling molases, rum and other items to and from Barbados with intermediate stops along the coast. According to "Directory of Ancestral Heads of New England." Holmes. 1980. Henry[1] came to Salem in 1630.

Israel[1] Pike (emigrant) M Henry[1] True

Israel[1] Pike, daughter of John Pike and Dorothy Day and sister of Major Robert Pike, came to America in 1635 in the ship James with her family to settle in Newbury, Massachusetts, after a brief stop in Ipswich. How they met Henry True has not been determined; they may have met in Yorkshire, England, on the high sea, as he the mariner and she the inquisitive young lassie and they probably married shortly before or after he acquired a house and lot in 1644. Reportedly, in according with Salem, Essex County, Massachusetts, records Henry True was present 13 Jul 1645 for the Christening of his son, John; he was present 4 Feb 1648 when Lyddea was Christened; he was present 3 Feb 1651 when Joseph was Christened; he was there when Benjamin was Christened on 19 Feb 1653; and he was there 26 Apr 1657 when (according to the recorder) Jemminah Trew was Christened. Now according to this, where does Henry 2 fit in? Church records for Salisbury prior to 4 May 1687 are presumed lost. Perhaps the records of Henry 2 were lost too.

The young family fitted right in with some of the leaders of the area: Robert Pike was generally regarded as Salisbury's most distinguished citizen in the early days and perhaps the most able defender at the Salem witch trials. The Dudleys were active in the development of the area: Tom Dudley was Deputy Governor, Governor, Major General of the state militia (a kind of grass-roots voluntary or on the spot home guard) and one of the founders of Harvard College, etc., and his son, Reverend Samuel Dudley was one of twelve who obtained the original grant of land for Salisbury city and he lived there before being Called to minister the flock at Exter, New Hampshire. And then there was Thomas Bradbury who served as school master, town clerk, justice of the peace, county recorder, representative in the general court, associate judge, etc.

The town must have had good directions since then as the True Family is still there and in the general area. Following the birth of Sammie Joe True 8 Dec 1926 in Alice, Texas, it was reported that eight Samuel Trues could be counted as living in Salisbury; along with this news came a gift from one of the older Sams.

Pike

Sunday, Dec. 13, 1970

Many people have heard of the Doomesday Book but few know why it was given this depressing name. It had to do with taxation at the period immediately following the Norman invasion of England. "Domes daey" (doomsday) in medieval times indicated any dreaded day of judgment or reckoning and the book, being the first record of general survey for taxation purposes, was given its name because of the natural tendency to object to taxation when it was already difficult to make ends meet. Pike families presently paying taxes will be interested to know that a remote namesake was entered in the Doomesday Book of Somerset for purposes of taxation.

A Pike can be many things. A pike is a freshwater game and food fish, a tollgate on a turnpike, a hill with a pointed summit, a spear used by the infantry or the sharp point of a battleaxe. It is from the latter that the Pike surname originated The Old English work "pik" was used to describe the man who forged this part of the battleaxe. Before surnames evolved he would have been known as "John the pik" or "John the piker." When it became necessary for the adoption of surnames John would have used "pik" as his family name. In time this mutated to the Pike spelling and through its centuries of use the original meaning forgotten.

Perhaps the greatest monument to the Pike name can be found in central Colorado. The most conspicuous peak in the Rockies, soaring to a height of 14,110 feet, is Pike's Peak. This was discovered in 1806 by Zebulon Montgomery Pike, the American explorer and army officer who led an expedition through the Southwest into Colorado.

As England emerged from the Middle Ages and became a world center for trade and learning, cities and towns created their own local governments. This led to a class of people known as "landed gentry." The heraldic records show that four families of Pike were "landed gentry" and were located in Devon, Essex, London and Kent.

The coat of arms shows three green trefoils (three-leaved grass) with a silver escallop and is one of seven granted to the name.

735 MARK TRUE[7]

Mark True 7 B 1 Nov 1815 in Francestown, was studious and wanted to obtain an education. Although he started teaching school at age 16 he had to gain higher learning as he was able and obtained his degree at age 30 from Dartmouth College. He devoted himself to teaching and kept with his profession for 25 years and resided at Antrim, New Hampton, New London, Brewster and Winchester, always able to see the virtures of others as well as himself. He was a Deacon in the Baptist Church and as a Christian he had great convictions mixed with great humility. Reportedly, he was devoted, fearless, manly, honest, full of work and influenced others in like manner. He kept up with the times and was superintendent of the school committee at the time of his passing. He was Representative in 1864 and 1867 and in all ways an enthusiastic educator. He died of Apolexy 13 Feb 1875. From others we were furnished the following quotation:

"He had a quick, neverous spirit, which could not brook inactivity. He kept abreast of the times. I do not know that he ever shrank from any task on account of its difficulty, or because it was unpleasant. Indeed, I am assured that he was accustomed to pursue, with the same industry and patience and perseverance, whatever devolved upon him, whether disagreeable in itself, or more to his taste. He loved work, and he worked fast. His life was comparatively short - at least not long; but if we take into account what he accomplished, we shall feel that he lived much longer than thousands of men whose years have greatly outnumbered his.

"His spiritual perception was quick and discriminating, and he had a sound judgement. Error did not easily escape his detection, though dressed in a semblance of something better. A half truth in his view, was no better, and if anything, a little less respectable, than a straightforward, ungarnished lie. Strict with himself, of simple, unpretending life, he made no attempt to conceal his dislike for everything bordering upon the artificial, the physical, the extravagant. He loved justice. Indeed, I have met very few men who had such a keen sense of right, and who so despised everything that was low and mean and false andunfair among his fellows. Having a somewhat extensive knowledgeof men and things, his opinions, ripe with experience and observation, were just and accurate. Nothing could induce him to violate his sense of right and his love for the truth. It was on this account that his councel was often esteemed of the greatest value.

"He was a man of very strong convictions. His ideas did not suffer change with ever wind and tide. Naturally cautious and somewhat conservative, yet his judgement was formed and the path of duty lay open before him, he acted with great warmth and energy. In a cause of righteousness he was fearless of consequences and careless of popular opinion. He was decisive in the principles which he embraced. He knew what he believed, and held nothing with a loose hand. At the same time he would not measure other men by his standard. Though firm, he yet knew how to be charitable. He judged no man harshly for not accepting his opinions. When he differed from you, it was always with a kind and Christian spirit."

A biography of Josiah True was found in a publication entitled 'History of Athens County, Ohio' by Walker in the Los Angeles City Public Library, re: R977.11 A86 Wa. (1899). He came to Marietta in 1793 and to Dover in 1800 and "Mr True, at a very early day, bought some choice apples at Marietta and sowed some seed from them, from which he established the first nursery attempted in the county. Most of the old orchards on Sunday and Monday creeks were planted from this nursery." JOSIAH TRUE - PIONEER

Josiah True was born in New England on 25 Oct 1776. He went to Marietta, Ohio, in 1798 and to Dover, Athens County, Ohio the next year, and three or four years later he married Almira Tuttle who was born in Vermont in 1788 and moved to Trimble, Ohio, with her parents, Cpt Solomon and Deborah Tuttle. He established and helped fund the "Coon-skin Library in Amesville in 1804 and before that he was elected a lieutenant of militia. He was elected "Overseer of the poor" in 1802, township trustee in 1805, 1827, 1828 to 1850, a director Western Library Association from 1816 to 1820, and was one of the incorporators of the Dover Library Association incorporated by the Ohio State Legislature in 1830. The Family of True identification number is 456 Josiah True.

Josiah True served on many juries from 1810 until his death, he listed taxes in 1805, served as postmaster of Millfield in 1836 and 1837, and he was a justice of the peace from 1815 to 1851. He was an original landholder of 137 acres of land in range 14 in the Dover township of Athena County, two quarter sections of range 14 in the Dover township was also owned by him as was 100 acres in the Donation Tract of Washington County.

Josiah True was reputed to be a great hunter having taken an accumulation of deer and bear skins on his back and afoot to Zanesville, sold them and purchased a spinning wheel and returned with it on his back traveling an estimated 80 miles in two days. He and his wife's brother Cyrus chased a bear into a cave, shot it, and in the process of removing it Josiah was trampled by another bear while leaving the noisy scene of the hunt.

Josiah True was credited as having established the first apple orchard in the county on his property and for furnishing plant materials for many other new orchards. In addition to his local militia service, he served in the war of 1812 in Cpt George Ewings Company, 2d regiment, 1st brigaden 3d division.

Josiah True died 16 Sep 1855 and was buried in True Cemetery. His will was recorded in book 7, p 109 of Athens County records and is as follows:

I, Josiah True of Dover Township in the County of Athens and State of Ohio, do make and publish this my last will and testament:

First: it is my Will that my just debts and all charges be paid out of my personal property.

Second: I give and bequeath to my beloved wife the use of one quarter of all my estatereal and personal during her natural life.

Third: To my son Mason I give the southwest quarter of section 24 in township 10 of range 14. To my son Austin True I give the southeast quarter section 24 township 10 range 14.

Fourth: I also give to my son Austin the home place being 137 acres of land in section 18 township 10 range 14 upon condition that he shall pay therefore twelve hundred dollars to my children: Lydia Porter, Almira Woodworth, Mary Jane True, Lucy W. Fulton, Mason True and my granddaughter Sally True in such porportions that said children shall have equal shares and my said granddaughter Sally shall have one third as much as either of my said children.

Fifth: I give and bequeath to my children Lydia Porter, Almira Woodworth, Marh Jane True, Lucy W. Fulton, Mason True, Austin True and my granddaughter Sally True in equal porportions the northwest quarter of section 24 township 10 of range 14.

Sixth: In case of the death of my son Austin True previous to my decease I give and bequeath to his heirs-at-law the house recently built by him west of my house together with a half acre of groung about said house in such form as may be convenient for the use of the house.

Seventh: I hereby name and appoint my son Austin executor of this my last Will and Testament with full authority to compromise, adjust, release and discharge in such manner as may seem best the debts and claims due to me, also if necessary to pay my debts, to sell by private sale or in such manner as may think proper all or any part of my real estate and deeds to purchasers to execute, acknowledge and deliver in fee simple and I revoke all former wills made by me. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 8th day of Sept. A.D. 1851. Josiah True Witness, Henry T Brown Filed 29 S 1855

445 Josiah True 6 is generally considered to be the second of 3 or 4 sons of Ephraim True 5 and Martha Eaton. A letter dated 9 Jun 1873 to Dr Henry A True may show which is correct as he referred to it when he assigned serial numbers to each of the children. (The letter may be in the basement of the museum - Evelyn True Button home).

The Washington County, Ohio, to 1980. Published by the Washington County Historical Society, Inc. 1980. LC 8053192. (Collection of Topical & Family Sketches), has Ephraim True and Martha Eaton as parents of Abner, Josiah, John and Charles. From others, we find that Ephraim and Martha married when they were young as Abner was born before his father was ae 17. Since Abner, Josiah and John were apprenticed out as young boys, Charles may have stayed with his mother and with her folks after her untimely death. The following is offered as a recapitulation.

Athens County Pioneer

Josiah Was Wilderness Kiwanian

164

By SALLY WALTERS
Messenger Staff Writer

This week, I continue my glimpse into the early days of Athens County and Ohio University via the stories of a few of its early residents.

Josiah True really wasn't all that remarkable back in the pioneer days of Athens County. After all, much was expected of each person. There was a wilderness to be cleared, a future to be shaped.

But, it seems to me that Josiah exemplifies the spirit that did, in fact, tame the wilderness lands for the generations to follow. I'm taking a closer look at him to show just how much was demanded of each person in those early, difficult days of settlment.

Back in the early 1800's, Josiah's chief claim to fame was probably the fact that he was an extraordinary hunter. Today, it is his record of public service that endures.

If Josiah were with us today, I think he'd belong to the Kiwanis and be a township trustee. I'll bet he'd write letters to the editor of the newspaper occasionally too, expressing his opinions.

In their early 20s, Joslah and Daniel Weethee came from New England to the Ohio Company wilderness in 1799. One legend claims that the two walked all the way here. Another, more logical, says he and Weethee came to Marietta via the Ohio River and from there to what is today Dover Twp. around the Redtown and Millfield area. They settled on the banks of Sunday Creek which, at that time, was a means of travel for small boats.

The first landholder of his property, Josiah cleared 137 acres and is credited with planting the county's first apple orchard.

One who believed in progress, Joslah decided the area needed a spinning wheel. With a load of bear and deer skins culled by his hunting prowess, he walked to Zanesville in one day — a distance of over 40 miles — traded the skins for the spinning wheel, turned around and walked back home the very next day.

Another example of his forward looking attitude is the fact that he was one of the founders of the famous Coonskin Library in Amesville. He joined with others to contribute animal skins, this time mostly racoon skins, to be sold for the purchase of 51 books for the pioneer library in the year 1804.

Later, when Dover Twp. was carved from Ames Twp., True helped found the Dover Library Association, served as its director and used his share of the Coonskin Library to help begin the new one.

As was the case of many of the hardworking settlers, True answered the call to serve the public. He was, for example, postmaster of Millfield, an "Overseer of the Poor" for the original Ames Twp., a township trustee and a justice of the peace.

One of the favorite stories told about Joslah — to point up his fearless hunter reputation — was of the time he and his brother-in-law chased a bear into a cave and shot it.

Once they were certain it was dead, they bodily began dragging the carcass outside. Unknown to them, another huge bear was quietly hiding in the cave.

Upon seeing the two brave hunters, the bear rushed from the cave, knocking over and trampling on Josiah in the bear's eagerness to escape!

One of Josiah's sons, Austin, took over the family farm and enlarged it to holdings of over 1,000 acres. He profited by shipping cattle to the east. And Austin's daughter Sarah married Levi Sprague, and their three sons all became physicians and surgeons, a dynasty of doctors that continues to serve Athens County today.

William True in France, early 1945

The following is taken from Los Angeles City Public Library reference R977.11 A86 Wa. 1869. History of Athens County, Ohio. Walker. P 469. Found by Wm True.

"445 Josia True, the companion and friend of Daniel Weethee, was born in New Hampshire, 25 Oct 1776, came to Marietta in 1793 and to Dover township in 1800. He held the office of justice of the peace in Dover from 1815 til 1851 and was repected and popular. He died 16 September 1855. Mr. True was one of the founders of the 'Coonskin Library' of Ames, and always a leader in pioneer improvements. One of the first spinning wheels was bought by him in 1803. Having accumulated a few bear and deer skins he carried them on his back to Zanesville, forty miles distant, and purchases the wheel with the proceeds of the skins, brought it home on his back (walking all the way). and made the round trip of 80 miles in two days.

"Most of the early settlers engaged more or less in hunting, depending mainly on the forest for meat. On one occasion Josiah True and Cyrus Tuttle, his brother-in-law, drove a bear into a cave on the farm now owned by Mr. Austin True, in Dover. They succeeding in shooting the animal in a narrow passage of the cave, and, having fastened a hickory withe to his nose, were about to drag it to the open air. Mr. True entered the cave, and got behind the dead bear to assist Mr. Tuttle in shoving it out, when another bear, hitherto unobserved, camee rushing rushing from the rear end of the cave, directly on and over True's back, crushing him him down on his face, and so made its escape from the cave.

"Mr. True, at a very early day, bought some choice apples at Marietta, and sowed the seed from them, from which he established the first nursery attempted in the county. Most of the old orchards on Sunday and Monday creeks were planted from this nursery, and some of the trees are still bearing."

The following was taken from a bible that belonged to 445 Josiah True (some of the entries presumably made by him) in the posession of 3477 Evelyn True Button, 142 East Main Street, McConnelsville, Ohio. Data copied from the bible by 9767 William True, 13537 Voss Street, Van Nuys, CA 16 Nov 1968, while on a trip to visit relatives in Ohio

"From a loose note in the front of the bible written by Augusta True, sister of Evelyn True Button, reading as follows:

"This book is precious. It was the bible of great Grandpa True. That is 445 Josiah True, Grandfather of Dr. H. L. True. It has the births, deaths, and marriages recorded in it. Aunt Sarah kept Grandpa True's bible. That is Austin True's. AT

"The brown ink was Josiah's writing. I retraced the faded portions."

The following entries had been made in the front of the bible:

445 "Josiah True was born in Seabrook NH October 25, year 1776
Almira True was born Brandon, Vt. Oct. 24, 1778
1280 John True was born year 1805 August the 24

1288 Lucia (Linde?) True born November 21 1824 (probably Lucy W. see below)
1289 Mary Jane born July 18, 1827."

The following entries had been made on the back page of the bible:

1280 "John True married 1828
1282 Lydia True married Dec 9, 1831
1285 Austin True married Feb 11 1844
1286 Mason True married Mar 15, 1842
1288 Lucy W True married Dec 24, 1846

1289 Mary J True married Nov 12, 1855
1287 Almira True married at (?) 10, 1841."

It will be noted that although Augusta True's note refers to births, deaths, and marriages, no death records were found in the bible. Since death records would normally be part of such a bible recording, it is probable that the page or pages with such entries was lost. WT 11/30/68

Material below secured by 9767 William True 3 Nov 1968.

Photostatic copy of the original handwritten record below was sent to 9767 William True from Mabel Florence True (Walbaum) in Oct 1968. A note at the end of the record reads: "My Grandfather 1286 Mason True made out this record" signed Lucy Ross Conrad. There is a notation of a city on the record which might be where the family lived when 1286 Mason started the record. It seems to read: Avon, P O Rock Co Iowa

Paratroopers Train for D-Day Jump in Normandy

By TERRY McGARRY, Times Staff Writer

Paul Vercammen, then 15, was buying flowers from a vendor in his native Holland 39 years ago Saturday "when the flower girl pointed up in the sky."

"Over the horizon, just above the trees, came a black stripe of airplanes that seemed 10 miles wide and just kept coming and coming," he recalled. "The German flak was shooting at them and some were coming down, crashing. One was on fire."

When the planes were about 15 miles past him, the sky filled with thousands of parachutes.

Because their battle plan took the paratroopers away from his home town, Vercammen never got to meet the Americans who dropped from those planes.

Not until Saturday, when three of the same men came floating down in parachutes outside near Otay Lake, to be greeted by Vercammen and a handful of elderly Dutch-born Californians who shared the emotional memories of that long-ago day in Holland.

Three veterans of the 101st Airborne Division, graying and balding and pushing 60 or more, parachuted onto a dusty airfield beside Otay Lake, in part to commemorate the 39th anniversary of the launching of "Operation Market Garden," the Allied drive into Holland they spearheaded.

But their primary goal was to get in shape to invade Normandy.

Again.

Thirty-nine years after their last parachute jumps, the three men went back into training, hoping to join a commemorative jump over Normandy next June on the 40th anniversary of the D-Day invasion of France.

For Bill True, 59, of Van Nuys, it was his third practice jump since training began in August. It was the second jump for Kelly Stumpus, 59, of Los Angeles and Dick Mandich, 62, of San Diego,

Small-Scale Drop

True brought along his grandchildren, Colin, 8, and Kelly Jane, 5, to show them the answer to the traditional question, "What did you do in the war, (Grand) Daddy?"

Also on hand were True's wife, Jane, 59, and his father, Leslie A. True of Lakeside.

"I wasn't very keen on this at all," Jane True admitted with a grimace. "But he wants to do this so badly, because he wants to make that Normandy jump so much. And we have an agreement that now he has to let me do something he doesn't like."

"He always was a little wacko," commented the senior True, 80, as his son waited to take off.

The three veterans were drawn into plans by a group of World War II history buffs in their 20s and early 30s who formed the Return to Normandy Assn., which hopes to restage—on a smaller scale—next year in France the paratroop drop that began the D-Day invasion on June 6, 1944.

Several groups, including veterans, are considering plans for the 40th anniversary, but the final decision on the jump rests with the French government.

After reading news stories about the Return to Normandy group's plans, True asked whether they would like to have some of the men who made the original jump. He spread the word through veterans groups that volunteers were welcome.

True and Mandich jumped with the 101st Division over Normandy. They are looking for volunteers from the other major American paratroop unit that made the Normandy and Holland jumps, the 82nd Division.

The local group has been training in sport-parachuting techniques from small planes at the San Diego Air Sports Center, located on a small dirt airstrip southeast of downtown San Diego. They hope to switch later to military-style jumping, which requires large, troop-transport planes. True, executive director of San Gabriel Community Hospital, was a 20-year-old rifleman when he leaped into Holland. Stumpus, a certified public accountant with a Wilshire Boulevard office, was a young second lieutenant. Mandich was a corporal.

Same Order of Jump

They joked as they sat waiting to jump Saturday that, by coincidence, instructors at the center had lined up their jump order just as they went out the door in 1944—with Stumpus, the ex-officer, in the lead, Pvt. True in the middle and Mandich, the non-commissioned officer, bringing up the rear.

As the three veterans were boarding a small plane to make their jump, one of the younger members of the group crashed into a rough landing and appeared to be injured, although it turned out that he was not seriously hurt.

As the men crammed themselves into the little plane, strapped tightly between main and reserve chutes, somebody muttered the old slogan: "Airborne—all the way."

Younger members of the Return to Normandy Group wear World War II uniforms for rehearsals, down to the regulation olive drab underwear.

"The underwear is much harder to get than the uniforms," said Nick Nichols of Ontario.

Re-Creation of Feeling

Nichols, 30, an editor of Guns and Ammo magazine and Army Special Forces reservist, organized the "return" group with Bob Thomas of Santa Ana. A number of recruits come from the California Historical Group, a band of World War II buffs —men and women—who try to re-create the feeling of the wartime era by dressing in authentic uniforms and holding military "maneuvers" and parties.

Although True brought his Eisenhower jacket—pointing out that it fits as trimly as when he was 19 —the veterans did not wear their old uniforms, with one exception.

"Look at this," said Stumpus, pointing to his feet. There, scuffed but sturdy, were his original high-laced brown jump boots, the kind that World War II paratroops wore as a badge of superiority to "legs," as they called non-paratroops.

Pushed by a strong wind, the veterans came thumping down to hard landings, but all walked away grinning.

"I'm never going to get used to the sensation, but one thing stays the same," grinned Stumpus. "It still feels great when it's over."

True broke open a bottle of champagne.

"To our departed comrades," he offered in a toast.

They raised their glasses.

"To our American liberators," replied Paul Vercammen, who finally had met those men he saw spilling from the C-47s 39 years ago.

"I went down in the basement to look for a cooler last night and just happened across them. I thought I lost them 30 years ago," he said.

They differed over whether it was easier or harder to jump at their age than it was in World War II training.

The equipment is better—they jump now with 35-foot canopies that bring them down more softly than the 28-foot chutes they used.

But "this sport parachuting is much more traumatic," True said. "You have to jump alone. You get out there on the strut outside the plane all by yourself. It was easier back then, when we all just lined up and ran through the door in a group —a sort of mass psychology took over."

Mandich said he "is far less apprehensive now than I was then. My family is grown and I've seen the world. Back then, I kept thinking, 'I'm so young, there's so much more of the world I want to see.' Well, now I've seen it, so I'm not going to worry."

TO ALL THE DESCENDANTS of Pioneer Trues who are Interested Enough to Read it - 1973

One of the compensations for getting old enough to be classed as a senior cetizen is that I now have more time to do interesting things that I enjoy. That's why it has been so easy for me to get involved with Steve and Lois True of California in their project of writing a history of the True family in America. It will be several years before they can possibly publish their book. I have gotten so much interesting information from them on our branch of the family that I feel an urge to pass it on to others who might also be interested.

My wife, Gertrude, and I spent about four weeks in the summer of 1972 in New England on what we call the trail of the Trues. We visited local libraries, historical associations and cemeteries. We haunted local, county, and state offices where records are kept. Wherever we could find it, we picked up information about our True family to confirm and add to that received from others. a short report like this can do no more than hit the high spots about our line of the True family.

I have tried to make this an informative, readable account of their lives and times through ten generations.

The story started about 1644 when Henry True, a sea captain born in England, exchanged his job of hauling molases and rum from the Barbados in the West Indies in a sailing vessel, for the life of a landlubber in Salem, Massachusetts.. For four generations the Trues lived in nearby Salisbury, then my connections followed four more generations in New Hampshire before the long move to Minnesota. Fron there they scattered into the many states where they now live. Who were they? What were they like? What did they do?

INFORMATION ABOUT THE TRUE FAMILY can be found in many books and printed records. FOR EXAMPLE: a book entitled "Five Hundred First Families in America." 3d Edition. Edited by Du Bin, contains references to the history of the name True, which was known at various times and places in England as TREW, TROW OR TRUE, Old English as TREOWE, Middle English, TREW, "Faithful, loyal and trustworthy." And from the "Record of the Templars." London. The family traces back to Ralph Truwe, Kent, England. In her book, "Founders of the Massachusetts Bay Colony," Sarah Saunders Smith describes the True family as being outstanding, in holding positions of trust in the town, being pronounced and independent in religious declarations, carrying religion to many settlements they helped found, supporting staunchly the national cause, producing men of letters and science, and exhibiting their conviction that mankind needed help and comfort in its social, as well as religious life. Men in our immediate line made creditable showings in many of these qualities. For example, some facts stand out when we summerize the limited information available.

In New England, six of the eight descendants were elected to positions of trust in their towns. Several were selectmen, somewhat like midwest town board members, but carrying complete authority. Other town positions to which they were elected were surveyor of roads, fence viewer, assessor, surveyor of lands, constable and and tithe collector. At least one represented his town in the Massachusetts General Court, as the state legislative body of the Revolution was called.

By denominations our ancestors are identified as Congregationalist, Free Will Baptists and Methodists. Almost all the ancestors are mentioned as church members and many as deacons and elders. Occupationally the Trues have been representative of the times in which they lived. First came a sea captain, then a house carpenter with militia responsibilities, followed by a weaver. For the next several generations no occupation but farmer is mentioned, although all were land owners and part time farmers. One operated a grist mill, and following the pattern of the day one worked in spinning mills before joining the western migration.

Military activities of the men in our line closely paralleled our countrie's war involvment. Henry 2 organized and commanded the first company of militia to defend Salisbury against Indian attacks. William 3 carried on in the same capacity. Joseph 5 was a captain of the militia at Chester, New Hampshire during Revolutionary times. Charles 9 together with three of his brothers, served durin the war of rebellion.

Generally, our strain of the True family married during their early twenties. Men of the first ten generations typically had but one wife each, and these wives outlived their husbands in as many cases as the men outlived their wives. Three of the surviving men remarried and two of the surviving wives; three of the men and five of the first wives lived to be 80 or more.

Size of families for the Trues ranged from 6 to 10 and averaged 7.8 for the first five generations. The number of children who died in infancy are not always reported so the actual number may have been somewhat larger. Out of a known total of 69 children, 54 married and almost all of these raised families. It seems significant that the life span of True wives was noticeably longer, and the infant and child deaths lower than usually considered to have been the case for most colonial and early American families.

Education is one aspect of the lives of the True generations for which little information was found. It should be recalled that even high school education was uncommon before the tenth generation. Fred 10 was the first known in our line to have attended and graduated from Normal School and Business College.

By the time the Revolutionary War was over, the western movement had begun. Since then much of our population has been continually on the move. For example, Charles 10 and his two brothers, Lewis and Hosea, who took up farming in Minnesota by 1869, now have known descendants in Minnesota, Missouri, Massachusetts, Montana, Maryland, Oregon, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Virginia, Louisiana, Florida, California, Nevada, and Colorada.

Thanks to the systematic procedure and persistance of Steven and Lois True, family records of the True descendants of the family of Henry True are quite complete through about the sixth generation. They have about 4,000 Trues connected by families and perhaps an equal number not yet matched up. As with other Americans, they are also on the move so if you can't find your connections in this book, nor in others including Isbell, Odessa Morrow. TRUE AND BEVERS. Pilot Point Texas. 1983 then develop as much stistical informatin as you can and send it to the Essex Institute, Salem, MA 01970 and ask that it be held or released to others working on Henry True, resident, pre 1650. If you get to visit Salem, the town has an "old town" and you may be able to find the lot, No. 93 or 94 that Henry 1 owned. His home in Salisbury was located on what became known as "Fletcher Farm," a mile north of Salisbury.

We learned also that Henry 1 owned a part of Salisbury Beach; that Henry 2 held the office of Representative in General Court, and Deacon of the Church among many others; William 3 was selectman, weaver and farmer, lived in the Rocky Hill section of Salisbury, owned 100 acres and was a church member; Henry 4 married twice as his first wife died rather young after having all six of his children. His second marriage was to Mary Morrill whom he married 5 Apr 1757. Henry 4 died in May 1778.

Hosea Sturtevant True 9 was the first of the True brothers to become a Minnesota Pioneer. Records are lacking as to where he went first. In company with a surveying party, he spent some time around Dubuque, Iowa, before his first trip to southern Minnesota in 1854. In 1856, he settled near Vernon Center in Blue Earth County, MN with his wife Mary Murphy. In 1863, they sold out and moved to Martin County. He practiced his profession as a surveyor and made original surveys for the government throughout southern Minnesota. Although farming was his chief activity, he occupied many positions of public trust including treasurer of his school district, township assessor, township supervisor and county sheriff. For over 50 years, until his death in 1915 Hosea Sturtevant True 9 was a community leader, farmer and builder as he built many houses still in use. He and Mary Murphy raised five children.

6713 LEWIS FELCH TRUE[9] M CLARA GOULD TRUE * ISSUE

Lewis Felch True 9 was the second son of Simeon Smith True 8 and Lucy Sturtevant to migrate to Minnesota. After leaving home at age 18 he spent two years in Manchester where he learned the machinist trade. There he married Clara Heath Gould. They were pioneers at Vernon Center, Blue Earth County MN in 1856. Hosea was a cooper and probably made the barrels used for shipping the first flour exported from Blue Earth County. After a few years there they moved to Westford Township, Martin Co., where Lewis was postmaster. After moving to another farm and building a small house, 12 x 16 feet, he enlisted in Co H 11th MN Inf and saw heavy military action in the south until the close of the Civil War. In addition to building up and operating his 320 acre farm Lewis served as assessor, justice of the peace, and clerk of the school board.

Charles Otis True 9 was not yet seven years of age when his father Simeon Smith True 8 died in 1845. Some of the older brothers may have already left home, as it was then customery for boys to do so at about 18 years of age. Soon after the marriage of his brother John Nelson True 9 he went to live with him. Evidently this was not a happy arrangement for Charles Otis as Fred Otis heard him say that he could not wait until he was big enough to whip his older brother. It is unknown whether he ever had the satisfaction of doing so. He studied for a time at the Kendall Academy in Manchester. At the age of 18 he started to learn the machinest trade at the Amoskeag Machine Shops of that city. He was rejected for service during the early years of the Civil War. He then engaged in the butchering business in Lowell MA, where he married Sarah Anna Page. His third effort at enlistment landed him in the 26th New York Cav which headquartered in Ogdensburg NY and had the duty of guarding the Canadian border. In 1869 Charles Otis True 9 followed his brothers, Hosea and Lewis, to Minnesota where he purchased a farm in section 36 of Westford Township from Lewis True. There he served as postmaster for 19 years. He was chairman of the board of supervisors and assessor for his township. He was a longtime member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Grand Army of the Republic (G A R). In politics he was a democrat. His farm was described in local history in 1895 as one of the best developed and maintained of any of the livestock farms in the county. In the late part of his life he and Sarah moved to Mankato. In partnership with his son Fred, Charles Otis True 9 operated a general store before he died 22 May 1900.

Jacob Filmore True 8 son of Luther True 7 and his cousin Lydia True 7 was born 23 Oct 1828 in Franklin, Merrimack Co New Hampshire. He died 11 Sep 1913 in a soldier's "Home" in Los Angeles Co CA (in Sawtell, CA), and he was burried near by. He married Josephine Briggs in October 1855 in LaCrosse WI. She died 15 Jul 1864 in Brownsville, Houston Co MN. He was a farmer, soldier and held public office as Township Supervisor in Roseville, Ramsey Co MN and at Raymond, Cass Co ND. Jacob Filmore True volunteered for duty as a soldier in the Army of the United States of America for the period of three years on the 27th day of February 1864 in St Paul MN and was mustered into the services of the United States, in Company K, 2d REG of Minnesota Volunteers the 3d day of March 1864 at St Paul by Geo H Keith, CPT and Provost Marshal of the 2d Dist. of MN Cavalry. At the time he was 5 ft 8½ inches tall, with brown hair and hazel eyes. He was enrolled at Ft Snelling MN and was discharged at Ft Snelling 4 May 1866. His invalid pension, No. 1289008 for $12.00 a month 100% inability due to right inguinal hernia, senile disability and injury of right hand with a $10.00 fee due his attorney, and his place of residence was Eugene, Lane Co., OR. He died in a National Home for Disabled Volunteer soldiers in Sawtell, CA 11 Sep 1913 and his death was reported to the Commission-of Pension, Washington, DC with Pension Certificate No. 1052235. The officers of the military unit included COL Robert N McLaren, LTC William Pfaender, MAJ E A Rice, MAJ J M Thompson, MAJ Robert H Rose, ADJ John T Morrison, Surgeon Jared W Daniels and Quartermaster Martin Williams. Instead of being sent south with others, Company K remained to garrison posts on the frontier where settlers were exposed to threatening Indians. In fact, it seems that Company K commanded by CPT Henry S Howe may have been split up at times as Jacob F True, PVT, was known as the "acting chief of police" for two months, probably at some isolated area near LeSueur MN where the Company was detailed. An item of interest on several monthly Muster and Descriptive Rolls for Jacob F True has an item "Bounty paid $60; due $240" indicates item credited at Hokah, Houston Co. MN (where his wife died).

A BACKWARD GLANCE

3545 Jacob Filmore True 8 was born in Franklin NH, married Josephine Briggs in LaCrosse WI and they had four children born in Hannibal or St Joseph MO, moved to Houston County MN where he was a farmer until he enlisted at Fort Snelling.

The following information was sent by letter form by GEORGE IVER TRUE to James H Taylor, #11 Dennison Ave, Binghamton, NY, 12 Nov 1917 signed Your Cousin

THE TRUE ANCESTRY (ALLIED FAMILIES) LUNT, TAYLOR, CATLIN, GOODRICH

Abner True[6] son of Abner True[5] and Mary Thresher were born at North Yarmouth, ME 30 Sep 1773 and died at Tioga NY 11 July 1825. The records at North Yarmouth show that he had two sisters, Rhoda and Miriam.

Abner True and Dorothy Lunt married about 1795 when he was twentytwo years old. His oldest child was born in the closing month of 1797. Two or three children died young. Six daughters and two sons lived and married and the 16 persons which this would represent, none are living, the last to depart being the wife of Jarius and mother of George Iver True of Madison, NY, on 27 Feb 1901.

It is very probable that Dorothy Lunt was born in Falmouth and that Abner married her there, as the birth records show that this was their home from 1797 to 1803. Locating them later by the birth place of Rhoda, Abner and Jarius, they lived from 1809 to 1813 at Sidney, ME. Whether the youngest child was born there cannot be stated with certainty but it is presumed that they left the state of Maine about 1818, setting their faces toward what was then known as the far west. Traveling by conveyances of those days they came to what was known as Van Buren's ferry on the Hudson. Here they stopped for a time until the Indians made it necessary to move on. At Easton, now in Washington Co. the wife and mother sickened and died, and after they burried her from their sight, the father with his eight children, the youngest not yet four at the most, took his journey toward the central and then bearing toward the southern part of the state of New York he came to the town of Owego in the county of Tioga. Here he stopped for a week at the Manning House, where the stately Awaga House now stands, which was kept by the Manning brothers. The Owego Creek divides the town of Owego from the town of Tioga, and in what is now known as the Goodrich settlement, Abner True started again under new conditions and with sad heart as was ever forced upon him, the rememberance of the husband without the wife and the children without the mother.

In the first month of 1822 the third daughter Eliza married Norman Goodrich. Her home from that time was in this settlement and was always open to her younger sisters and brothers, and some of them were married there.

About the year 1824, the father pushed some two miles farther into the forest, made a clearing and put up the first frame house on what is now known as Catlin Hill. Here he lived only a short time, for he died in 1825, killed by accident by a stick of timber.

This brought increased resporsibility to the two older sisters, for be it remembered the oldest son was not yet fourteen years old. They seemed, however, equal to the task for by the proceeds of their labor from the spinning wheel and needle they not only provided for the family, but purchased and paid for a considerable amount of land, which in later years proved of value by reason of the timber on it.

About the year 1830 Hannah B Married Elijah Allen and to them was born one daughter, Sarah. A deed which bears the date of 14 Aug 1834 shows that Elijah Allen and Jarius True purchased one hundred and twentyfive acres of land in the town of Oxford, Ohio, and Mr. Allen with his wife and child, Jarius and Abner True[7] and possibly one of the other sisters, went to establish a home there. It Proved a fatal venture for in less than sixty days Mr. Allen, his wife and daughter died. To the others came sickness, discouragement and a resolve to retrace their steps. Coming again to the town of Owego, the brothers engaged together in mercantile pursuits, and Jarius especially was interested in lumber, and was known as one of the safe pilots who ran the Susquehanna River.

As early as the year 1845 the brothers and sisters were comfortably situated on their farms near Owego. Here they lived lives which were useful in their day, helping build abiding faith which did not fail them. Their relatives were Neally, Perry, Goodrich, Allen, Taylor, Shepardson, Kimball, Catlin, Doty, Brown, Ross, Schoonover, Wheaton, English and other pioneer families of the area."

Mrs. Ellen Wheaton English furnished the following sketches:

"Jonathan and Nathaniel Catlin came from near Port Jervis, NY, in the early 1800's. Port Jervis near the spot where the borders of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania converge. They probably saw the Indian border skirmishes of that time and of the Revolutionary War.

Jonathan, the elder, was born in 1753. At age 22 he enlisted in the war and served with the Jersey Blues of the second Bn, First Reg of the West New Jersey Line. In 1776 he had to march to Quebec, an activity that led to severe foot problems and so he was discharged because he had fallen arches.

In 1820 he purchased $5\frac{1}{2}$ acres of land near Owego and sold it to his son, Nathaniel. Jonathan lived in back of the Tioga Cemetery and his home, still standing, is considered the most quaint antique frame house in the area.

Jonathan raised nine children. Five of his sons settled on the hill behind their father's house and is aptly named Catlin Hill."

"Nathaniel Catlin was born in 1760. When he was 21, he enlisted in the Revolution and served with the New York Levics.

in 1810 he brought his family here and purchased 100 acres from William and Catherine Taylor, near the Tioga Cemetery. Nathaniel's wife was Eleanor Decker and they reared five children, the most notable probably being the daughter of Nathaniel, Jr., Delinda, who lost her life and that of her daughter in a tragic fire at their Washington home, where her husband was serving as Secretary of the Navy, under President Harrison. Also her brother, BG Isaac Swartwood Catlin, who was buried at Arlington; his wife descends from Louis Philippe le Grasse."

Mrs. Mina E. Ross, '89er, Who Made Run of '89 on Horseback, Dies Monday

A pioneer settler of the state who made the 1889 run into Oklahoma on horseback, died Monday afternoon at her farm home southwest of El Reno. She was Mrs. Mina E. Ross, who was 88 years old Aug. 7 of this year. She had suffered a slight stroke in 1949 but up until June of this year, had been in fairly good health.

A pioneer settler of Canadian county, she had watched El Reno's growth from the time the town boasted of only one house west of the railroad tracks. In spite of the fact that she had lost touch with them in later years, she had a large number of Indian friends, especially among the Cheyennes whose language she could speak.

She was born Aug. 7, 1866, in Bradford county, Pennsylvania, the daughter of Frances Taylor and Martin Van Buren Schoonover. At the age of four, her father moved the family from Pennsylvania where he had operated two saw mills, to a farm near Owego, N. Y.

Move to Kansas in 1876

In the summer of 1876, along with her father and an older brother and sister, she left for Kansas. This long trip west was made in a specially rebuilt, remodeled hack, driven by a span of Arabian horses. It took seven weeks. Glass doors of the hack were used later as windows in a sod house built by the family in Sumner county, Kans.

After five years of drouth and grasshoppers on a farm 12 miles northwest of Caldwell, the Schoonover family pushed on into Barber county, near Kiowa, Kans. Here between farming and freighting from Wichita and Caldwell to Darlington and Fort Sill in the Territory, the Schoonovers fared better. The prospect of free land in 1889 though, brought them south.

Made Mistake in Filing

In making the 1889 run into Oklahoma with her father, Mrs. Ross filed on a quarter section of land immediately adjoining her father's quarter section along the South Canadian. A mistake in filing lost her her homestead stake.

For a while however she stayed on with her father and family, helping cut cedar posts which they later sold in El Reno. Afterward she worked at various jobs in Watonga, around Geary, along the Washita near Chickasha, in El Reno and at Caddo Springs, now Concho.

In 1896 she married William Carter Ross, another pioneer of the state, active in the growth of El Reno until his death in 1915. They were married on the old home place where both died, 32 years apart.

Married Three Times

Prior to this marriage, she had married Sid Barat in Kiowa, Kans. when she was 17 years old. Barat was killed two years afterward leaving her with a daughter who died at the age of five. When she was 22 she married George Ashford by whom she had two children. Ashford died in 1894. Both children died the same year.

She is survived by four sons, two daughters and a step-daughter: Charles Joseph Ross, Thomas Martin Francis Ross, north of El Reno; Geneva Ross Relph, Fredonia, Kans.; Richard Mina Ross, Oklahoma City; William McKinley and Lucie Isabona of the home; Margaret Ross Corwin of El Reno.

She is also survived by 15 grandchildren; three step-grandchildren 16 great grandchildren; five step great grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. L. C. Eytchison of Boise, Idaho and a brother, C. M. Schoonover of Philomath, Ore.

Funeral services were held in the Benson Funeral home Wednesday morning at 10:00.

El Reno Great To Be Honored For Coaching

WEATHERFORD — (Special) — Homecoming at Southwestern State college will begin a day early this year, on Thursday, Oct. 14, and continue through Saturday night, Oct. 16, according to Robert Maynard, chairman of the steering committee for the alumni reunion.

The added event that will kick off the big celebration on the Thursday night will be a Sports Hall of Fame banquet honoring J. P. Jackson, Houston, Tex.; Joe Ross, Thomas; Ralph Teague, Manchester, Mo., and Arnold A. Shockley, Mountain View.

The great record of Ross as coach of seven state football championships and with a record of placing Thomas highschool teams in 18 playoffs since 1946 has grown to overshadow the fact that he was one of Southwestern's finest all-around athletes in the 1929-1933 era and one of the school's all-time greats.

Here is a fitting tribute to Mina Schoonover Ross by her granddaughter in law, Rita Margaret Relph

BREAKING CAMP

Across the plains the game and grass are gone... I must move on;
Catch up my pony in the rosy light of dawn... I'm moving on.
I leave this land of fenced-in places, my passing marked by the travois traces.
Where I find the buffalo and never failing grass
I will pitch my tent among the tepees of the past.

Who Are Who's-Whoers' Wives!

Approximately three in 10,000 in the United States are named to Who's Who in America, each chosen for outstanding work in some field. But what of their wives. Are they also leaders? This week, the Pictorial Star is initiating a series of sketches of these women, whose forbearance and assistance have often been the inspiration for their husbands' successes. Stillwater, of course, has many more than it pro rata share of these couples.

Prof. A. Naeter, 419 Stanley St., head of the Electrical Engineering department at Oklahoma A&M since 1929, gained this coveted rank only last month. His wife was simultaneously making news in her own right as, for the sixth time, she reviewed "September Monkey," autobiography of a Korean woman, Induk Pahk, internationally known leader in Korean independence, women's rights, and Christianity. The book has been praised as factual by Gen. Oliver Edge, as entertaining by Emily Kimbrough, and as inspiring by Norman Vincent Peale. Now a naturalized American citizen, the author uses the proceeds of her lectures and books to establish a little Berea in Korea," a self-help college patterned after Berea College in Kentucky.

Mrs. Naeter has many other interests besides book-reviews. One is the teaching of swimming to those who are so afraid of the water that they can not learn in ordinary classes. In the privacy of her home, she gives land drill preliminary to appearance at the pool. The novice knows how to regain his footing from either the face-down or face-up floating position, how to turn over and to turn around, how to relax enough to make it possible to float on his back, and how to make the arm and leg motions for the elementary back stroke, the one swimming stroke which allows the maximum of safety with the minimum of effort. Since breathing problems are also minimum, it is much easier for a timid person to master than the more natural dog-paddle or crawl. Mrs. Naeter sold Parents' Magazine an article covering her unusual approach to the problem. She never discontinues supporting the beginner without first warning him, and the confidence in the teacher is soon converted to self-confidence in the pupil, so the fear can be conquered. Two fifteen-minute periods in the water on successive days, when the water is warm, will be enough for the terrified would-be-swimmer to conquer his fear and go the 75 ft. across the Crystal Plunge entirely unassisted. A part of the secret is that it is possible to go a long way without getting out of one's depth, something that is not possible in many pools. When the beginner learns he can go that far, he is ready to tackle other strokes, in full confidence that, if he gets into trouble, he can always resort to the safety stroke.

Mrs. Naeter sold Ann Batchelder of the Ladies' Home Journal, her idea for mints which look like tiny bridesmaids' wide-brimmed hats, just one of the features of her brides' consulting service which she still maintains.

She also designed her own home and won first prize in a Good Housekeeping contest based on the plans. She manages to win smaller prizes in other contests often enough to make it interesting.

A teacher by training, she continues to tutor, especially in mathematics, and bridge. Last week she just completed a year as director of the Stillwater Duplicate Bridge Club which meets twice a week at the Union. She is not a bridge "shark," but she did collect a few points at the recent regional tournament in Wichita at which Goren himself and some fifty life masters were present.

Mrs. Naeter dabbles a bit in creative writing, collecting scattered checks, and frequently serving as publicity chairman for various clubs.

Valedictorian of her high school class, she won three scholarships to Cornell, one paying all her tuition, another for $200 a year and the third for $100 yearly. She made Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi in her junior year, and taught before her marriage.

The Naeters have two daughters. Carol, Mrs. Edwin Estrem, 181 Front Ave., St. Paul, Minn. and Audrey, Mrs. B. A. Stunkard Jr., Cortez, Colo., have also won numerous contests, and has displayed ability in the creative writing field. The two grand-children, Phil and Roxy Estrem, are still nursery stage, but have their grand-mother's interest in new things. During the war, Mrs. Naeter, faced with the gasoline shortage, learned to ride a bicycle well enough to bring huge basketloads of groceries up hill and down dale.

Truly, there is seldom a dull moment in this household. The Naeters keep young, in contact with the young and the new. Is this a typical Who's Who family.

Ephraim True was born in Salisbury MA the birthplace of his father, grand father and near the birth place of his great grandfather, Salem MA. As a pioneer on the frontier, he moved to Saybrook NH and in 1798 he moved to Ohio. He was a veteran of the American Revolution.

Josiah True was born 25 Oct 1776 in New Hampshire. At the age of twentyone in the year of 1798 he moved from Milford NH to Marietta on the Ohio river. In 1799 by use of a compass he and Daniel Weethee traveled in a northerly direction to a location on Sunday creek where they built a cabin and lived three years in what later became Dover Township in Athens County. He married Sarah Tuttle in 1803/4 of the first settlers of the Trimble township.

Josiah was public-spirited and including in his public service was the founding of the "Coon-skin Library" established at Amesville in 1804 as the "Western Library Association" and of which he served as director fron 1816-1820. He was elected lieutenant of the Milita in 1803, served on many county juries, elected overseer of the poor in 1802, a tax lister in 1805, township trustee in 1805, 1827 to 1850, justice of the peace from 1815-1851, Millfield postmaster in 1836 and 1837, served in the war of 1812 in CPT George Ewing's Co, 2d Reg, 1st Bde, 3d Division and he was one of the original incorporators of the Dover Library Assn. incorporated by the Ohio State Legislature in 1830. He planted the first apple tree nursery from which many area apple orchards were established including his own and he was an original landholder of one hundred and thirty-seven acres land in what became Dover township in Athens Co., as well as an original landholder in the "Donation Tract" of one hundred acres in Washington Co.

He was credited as being a great hunter of bear and deer as well as coons and it is told that once he and Cyrus Tuttle chased a bear into a cave and shot it. After assuring that it was dead, they entered and attempted to remove the carcass but another bear hidden from view rushed from the cave knocking Josiah to the ground as it escaped. On another occasion, he carried a pack of deer and bear pelts on his back to the Zanesville market rested one night, bought a spinning wheel which he back packed home covering the forty miles each way in two days. It was reported to have been the first spinning wheen to be brought into the area. He was accorded the courtesy of the title Esquire as an award for public service. Josiah True and his family were pioneers and they were selected for a three page biographical report in the publication, "Pioneer Families in the Midwest." 1941. Walden. Athens, Ohio. pp 146-148. Josiah True was also published 20 Jul 1978 in the Athens, Ohio, Messenger, Sally Walters, Staff Writer.

Josiah[6] True died 16 Sep 1855 and his wife Almira Tuttle preceded him 22 Oct 1853 and as several children died young they established a True Cemetery. His will was recorded in Book 7 Page 109 of Athens County records and is as follows:

"I, Josiah True of Dover township in the County of Athens and State of Ohio, do make and publish this my last Will and Testament:

A TRIBUTE TO MRS. EVELYN TRUE BUTTON

1875 — 1975

On January 26, 1875, 100 years ago today, a baby girl was born in the red brick house on Center Street, McConnelsville, a few houses east of the Public Square, now recognized as 142 East Main Street. They named that little girl "Evelyn".

Today, January 26, 1975, we are greeting her as Mrs. Evelyn True Button. Her father, Hiram L. True, M. D., had come here from near Millfield, Athens County, and established himself in his profession. He married Helen Moore of this vicinity, a grand-daughter of Gen. Robert McConnel, a veteran of the War of 1812 and founder of the village of McConnelsville.

Evelyn had a younger sister, Augusta, a charming girl who later became a Shakespearean actress with the Ben Greet Players. She was also an accredited genealogist, but is now deceased.

Evelyn was vivacious, precocious and attractive. When she graduated from McConnelsville High School the subject of her valedictory address was "Woman Suffrage". In the fall of 1893 she entered Ohio Wesleyan University and was an unusually active student. She was a speaker at the Freshman banquet, president of the Sophomore class and served on the staffs of the student newspaper and the college yearbook. She was instrumental in the organization of May Day at Monnett Hall in 1898 and, 50 years later, was the speaker at the Mother and Daughter banquet of their May Day celebration.

After securing her bachelor degree at Ohio Wesleyan University in 1898, Evelyn took up teaching and joined the Malta High School faculty. She later taught at Roseville High School and Le Roy High School.

She had a deep urge to help train the Filipino teachers and Americanize them. Against her father's wishes, Evelyn secured a position in the Normal College in Manila and sailed for the Philippines in 1902. The trip was made on a U. S. Naval vessel and required six weeks. She sailed from New York City across the Atlantic Ocean, through the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean. She made several trips around the world in the next five years. While teaching in the Philippines she met and married Frank Rodman Button, a native of Kentucky. Two daughters were born to this union. The elder girl became Dr. Augusta Jameson (wife of Alfred Storm Jameson) now deceased. The younger daughter, Mrs. Helen O'Neill Sanford, of Chicago is present here today and is a retired Home Economics teacher.

A descendant from royalty, Mrs. Button has been a member of some 25 hereditary and patriotic organizations in which she has held many State and National offices. She has been the recipient of many honors, awards and citations. Several citations presented by the U. S. government honored her for service in World War I and World War II. In the first World War, Mrs Button was chairman of the Morgan County Women's Liberty Bond Drive and speaker for the Council of National Defense. For many years Mrs. Button worked tirelessly for the cause of Woman's Suffrage. In World War II, she was instructor in Civilian Defense, county president of the First Aid Instructors, member of the county Red Cross executive committee and county chairman of the Ohio War History Commission. She organized the county grease salvage campaign.

The Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority, a women's honorary teacher's society, presented a figurine 14 inches high, replica of Mrs. Button, to the Ohioana Library Association. This replica is housed in a glass case which was made by traveling glass blowers who worked temporarily at the McElhiney farm at Rokeby Lock. It was presented to the replica committee by Mrs. W. L. McElhiney in memory of her sister-in-law, Miss Rachel McElhiney, noted as a local historian.

While in the Philippines, Mrs. Button was a friend of the William Howard Taft family, residents of Manila, as Mr. Taft was governor general of those islands.

Returning from her sojurn in the Philippines, Mrs. Button studied in the University of Chicago, Ohio University, and Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research.

After teaching for 43 years, the last 17 as principal of the Malta-McConnelsville High School, Mrs. Button retired in 1941. A born traveler, she has been in 48 of our 50 states and has visited more than 40 foreign countries.

In 1966 Mrs. Button exhibited considerable literary ability when she authored a novel, "Out of the Pit". The novel is historical as it presents a broader perspective of United States involvement abroad during the early part of this century.

Another special honor was accorded to Mrs. Button when on April 4, 1973 the National Monnett Club presented her a silver tea pot engraved with her name and date of graduation from Ohio Wesleyan University because she was the oldest living alumna.

This charming lady lives among us in the very house in which she was born 100 years ago today and which she has willed to the Morgan County Historical Society for a future museum. We sincerely congratulate her on reaching the century mark.

"HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU,
HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU,
HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MRS. BUTTON,
HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU."

Lower Salem, Ohio
August 13th, 1875
Mr. H. L. True, Dr.

Yours of August 9th is received.
Ephraim True, my father was born in Salisbury, Massachusetts in December 21st, 1756, and Mary Hoit an old lady here was born in the same place, was at my house yesterday and she says he was married before he was 17. Married to Marthy Eaton and she died when she was a very small girl. Her father and my father were very grate friends they came to Ohio in 1816 and were at our house very often after they came to this state.

I or Melvin made a mistake once as to father's Birthday. We said it was the 25th of December insted of the 21st. Grandfather Amlin's birthday was the 25th instead of fathers. I examined the gravestones and found the mistake and told M. C. True to correct it.

I have heard father say that he was married very young. Don't know as I ever heard him---. Miss Hoit said his wife was several years the older.

The Tomb stone says Ephraim True Born
December 21st, 1756
Died August 17th, 1835

You must excuse my bad writing.

Yours in grate haste
S/ Moses True

P S If this is not satisfactory please write and I will try again
we have been washed nearly all away by the late rains
our loss is between ten and twelve hundred dollars
S/ M. True

OF THE FAMILY OF TRUE

FROM
KERMIT R TRUE

"I felt it would be appropriate that an Essay of our ancesters be prepared for our records. Let us consider it as a form of Dedication to our faithful, loyal and devoted relatives who served as our Secretaries to the True Family Association for many years. They were in many ways responsible for the continued success of our Annual Reunion. They Are:
1 Elenora True Adams, daughter of Jacob K True
2 Cora True Cram, daughter of Orrin A True
3 Evelyn Small Jones, daughter of Mary True Small"

The first known settler in New England by the name of TREW or TRUE was Henry Trew 1. He came from Yorkshire, England and settled in Salem MA between 1630-1635 as one of the founders of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. A few years later he moved to Salisbury where he purchased a home and land in 1657. He died in 1659 or early in the following year. The inventory of his estate was filed 10 Apr 1660.

Sometime prior to 1644 Henry True 1 Married Israel Pike. She was a daughter of John Pike of Newbury and Salisbury, and died 12 March 1699. The Pike family came from Langford in the ship 'James' to Newbury in 1635.

Henry True 1 and Israel Pike had six children: Henry, Mary, Lydia, Joseph, Benjamin and Jemima. (For purpose of clarity, our line of descent is underlined.)

From the second generation the records show our family name spelled as TRUE. Henry True 2, the oldest child of Henry 1 and Israel Trew was born 8 March 1644/5 in Salem. He moved to Salisbury as a boy with his parents. In Salisbury, he became an active citizen in public affairs serving as town clerk, representative and Captain in the militia for local defense. As a tradesman, he was listed as house carpenter. Henry True 2 married Jane Bradbury 15 Mar 1668. She was a daughter of CPT Thomas Bradbury and Mary Perkins of Salisbury. Jane died 24 Jan 1729. They were active members of the Salisbury Church where he was elected Deacon 25 Jul 1700 and died 8 Sep 1735. Henry True 2 and Jane Bradbury had eight children: Mary, William, Henry, Jane, John, Jemima, Jabez and Jabez. (It was common practice in those days to continue a family name when an infant died).

From the available records, it appears that the Trues in the Litchfield area of Maine are descendants of a John True born 23 Feb 1678/9. John True 3 was a son of Henry True 2. He married Martha Merrill 16 Jun 1702 and they were admitted to Salisbury Church 23 Jul 1710 and on the same day their first five children were baptized. John died 19 Nov 1754. Their ten children were: Jemima, John Jr, Jacob, Ezekiel, Daniel, Ruth, Ann, Moses, Thomas and Mary.

51 John True Jr 4 was born in Salisbury 12 Jan 1703/4. He married Mary Brown 4 Sep 1730, a daughter of Abner Brown and Mary Morse. It has been reported that she along with Jane Bradbury figured in the Salem Witchcraft trials. Mrs. Mary Pennington of Marysville, Ohio, a descendant of John True Jr 4 and Mary Brown stated in her letter of 18 Feb 1975 that she found the tombstone of John True jr 4 as follows: "Three years ago I made a trip to Salisbury and Seabrook, there in a cemetery just off Route 1 I found his tombstone, It was such a thrill and one I won't forget soon. It read, 'Here lies interred John True, Jun. who departed this life Dec. 31st 1769 aged 65 yr 11 mo 19 da.'" John True Jr 4 and Dorothy Adams had 12 children: Thomas, Mary, John, Susanna, Abner, Daniel, Ruth, Mitiam, Moses and Ephraim.

169 John True 5 a son of John True Jr 4 and Mary Brown was born in Salisbury on 14 Oct 1737. It is believed he lived in Seabrook NH and later settled in North Yarmouth ME. He married Dorothy Adams of Falmouth. One historian lists Dorothy Adams as Polly Adams of Portland ME. The actual date of their marriage is not known but they were published in N Yarmouth and Falmouth 4 Jun 1760. In 1780 he was a selectman in Yarmouth. No dates of death were found for John True 5 or his wife, Dorothy. Their twelve children are: Ruth, Molly, Betty, John, Daniel, Joshua M., Jane, Mirriam, Dolly, Sally, Adams and Moses.

415 Daniel True 6 a son of John True and Dorothy Adams was born in N Yarmouth on 18 Jul 1768. He lived for a while in N Yarmouth and later in Litchfield where he died 10 Mar 1830. Daniel True 6 was married twice: first to Rebecca Graves in Topsham ME on 24 Nov 1794 and then to Mrs. Sally West True, a widow of John True and a cousin of Daniel True. Her parents were William Blay West and Patein Harmon and she was born 27 Jan 1773 and died 4 Jan 1851. Rebecca was born 2 Sep 1769 and died in N Yarmouth 2 May 1808. Children of Daniel True 6 and Rebecca Graves were Joseph Graves, John A., Lucinda M., and Richard Loring. Children of Daniel True 6 and Sally West were Rebecca, Lewis P., Melvin Harrison and George W. True.

1202 Joseph Graves True 7 a son of Daniel True 6 and Rebecca Graves was born on 13 Feb 1798. It is believed that he was born in N Yarmouth as his mother died there when he was ten years of age. He married Abigail Knowlton 13 Dec 1827. They lived for a time in Livermore ME and later moved to a farm south of the Bachelder Tavern near Litchfield. He and Abigail were parents of nine children: Elias Frank, Mary K., Jacob K., Lewis P., Abbie J., Joseph E., Orrin A., Anice H., and Daniel G.

3202 Jacob K True a son of Joseph True and Abigail was born 11 Sep 1831 died 2 Feb 1881 ae 50 married Hannah M Stantial 27 Jan 1860; she died 11 Feb 1881 ae 45. After his father died they moved from his farm to a farm north of Bachelders. Their nine children were 7250 Walter S True 9, Roland T., Mary Abigail, Elenora Jane, John Beedle, Clinton Grant, Joseph Knowlton, Edward DeAlva and Lewis Page True 9.

3207 Orrin A. True 8 was a brother of Jacob K True 8. He was born in Livermore 15 Dec 1839. During the civil war he served with Co B 15 Maine Vol from 1861to 1866 when he returned to live in Livermore. He married in 1871 Susan B Stantial, Hallowell and they had Cora E True Nr 7272 who married Ervin D Cram. Cora was our second secretary, lived in Litchfield where she was a school teacher many years.

Nr 7253 Elenora Jane True 9 Adams was our first secretary, was born 16 Nov 1867 and married Frank N Adams 27 Jun 1888 and she was Litchfield post-Mistress for many years.

7252-1 Evelyn Small Jones, our third secretary was born 13 May 1904 in Litchfield, the daughter of Nr 7252 Mary Abigail True 9 and Edwin W Small. She married Verne Jones of Winsor, Maine, where she lived after her marriage. She died suddenly 10 Mar 1975 and is sadly missed as she was very devoted to her family and friends.

1 HENRY TRUE[1] OF SALEM M ISRAEL PIKE[1]

2 Henry True 2 of Salisbury M Jane Bradbury

10 William True 3 M Eleanor Stevens

William True B Salisbury 1670 and apparently grew up having been apprenticed to a weaver, which is the trade he practiced. He bought some land in and around Salisbury but was not as large a landholder as his father, who lived until William was 64 years old. To date I have done no other research on William, so can give few details about him. He was a church member but by now that was less important than before since the English government had ruled that non-church membership could no longer have the effect it used to have. William married Eleanor Stevens, the daughter of Benjamin Stevens and Hannah Barnard. William died the same year as his father, but his wife outlived him by 34 years, dying in 1768 at the age of 94.

25 Benjamin True 4 M Judith Morrill

I know virtually nothing of Benjamin True other than he was born in 1694, died in 1779 and married Judith Morrill, who outlived him by three years. Among their children, they had a son Reuben who was born in 1732, the same year as George Washington.

126 Reuben True 5 B 1732 D 1799 M Hannah Osgood

Reuben True 5 made the first substantial move in the True family of which we are a part in more than 100 years when, in 1765, he moved from Salisbury to the town of Hawke, now Danville, NH. There most of his children were born (he had eleven, nine sons and two daughters, eight of whom survived him). Reuben was a selectman of Hawke during the Revolution and provided materials for the Revolutionary cause. He is mentioned in the public "Claims" but did not otherwise serve in the War. Danville, NH is now a little town about four miles from our summer cottage at Country Pond. Here the Trues intermarried with numerous other and different families, among them the Fifields. Joseph Fifield was born in Kingston NH (the town where the bulk of Country Pond is located) about 1740 and married Anna Badger, who had moved there only three years before. Anna's father was an innkeeper in Kingston for a while and was the fifth generation of Badgers in America.

Joseph Fifield and Anna Badger were also indescrete and had their first child somewhat earlier than might have been expected, but they were not fined. New Hampshire was more liberal than Massachusetts apparently. In any event their second daughter, Dorothy, married Moses True, one of Reuben's sons, possibly when Reuben moved his family north to Salisbury NH thense to Plainfield NH where he lost land for non-payment of taxes. Reuben died in Plainfield in 1799, the same year as George Washington, and is burried there, where his gravestone may still be seen near True Road in that town.

MEMORIAL GIFT—A display cabinet has been presented to the Phillips Congregational church by Mr. and Mrs. Warren MacQuoid of Phillips in memory of Elizabeth True Butler. Mr. and Mrs. MacQuoid are pictured above examining the True family Bible used at the 1822 founding of the church. The cabinet was constructed by Medlon Gilmore of Kingfield, who this past summer reconstructed and erected the beautiful copper roofed belfry atop the church.

Display cabinet gift to church in Phillips

Members of the Phillips Congregational Church and all who are interested in the history of this 158 year old organization, are enthusiastic about a recent gift received by the church. The gift is an artistically designed display cabinet constructed to hold, on shelves, behind glass doors, some of the most interesting of the memorabilia connected with the early days of the old church. The display cabinet is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Warren MacQuoid, given in memory of Mrs. MacQuoid's mother, the late Elizabeth True Butler.

The builder who designed and constructed the cabinet, following the MacQuoid's specifications, keeping the construction entirely in line with the colonial style architecture of the church was Meldon Gilmore of Kingfield, who also was the builder of the new bell steeple for the church dedicated in August. Another memorial fund in honor of Elizabeth True Butler was included in the steeple fund.

The cabinet was placed in the semi-circular alcove, at the rear of the sanctuary, beneath the old choir loft which was restored in a memorial project, several years ago.

Placed within the display area, for all to see and admire, is the priceless True Family Bible used at the founding of Phillips Congregational Church, on Oct. 9, 1822 and again, at the dedication of the present church, called, at the at time, 1835 "The Union Meeting House."

The first names listed in the big old Bible are James True and his wife, Abigail Carver True (whose ancestors were the Carvers of Mayflower fame). Mrs. Elizabeth True Butler was the great-granddaughter of James and Abigail True, two of the founders of Phillips Congregational Church, thereby making Mrs. MacQuoid, the owner of the Bible and donor of the cabinet, a great-great-granddaughter of the original owners of the historic volume.

The history of the True family is full of intriguing highlights - the father of James whose name heads the family list in the Bible on display was Jonathon True Jr., a Revolutionary War veteran for whom the Phillips DAR chapter (no longer functioning) was named.

Of the nine founders of the church in 1822, four were Trues - James Nathaniel, Abigail and Ruth, all of whom moved from Yarmouth, Maine to Phillips about 1820, to make their home in the Tory Hill area, where the original Congregational Church was located.

The story of the exodus from Yarmouth to Phillips (then only a wilderness) of this early group is a fascinating tale, as related by the historian the late Rev. M.S. Hutchins in his 1922 centennial address.

Another shelf of the cabinet is occupied by an antique silver communion tankard and two goblets, given to the church more than 75 years ago, by the Fall River, Mass. Congregational Church, through the efforts of the late Dr. Frederic A. Noble a one-time member of the local church, later a minister in New Haven, Conn., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Evanston, Ill. Dr. Noble was the brother of the late Newell P. Noble, for more than 30 years choir director in the Phillips Church.

The following Resolution was found in their bible in 1977 96 years after it was written in 1881 in behalf of Jacob K True and his wife by the Litchfield Main Grange Committee on Resolutions, Mr Dennis, Thomas McCausland and Emiline Lord (all written in script hard to read

* "Whereas The Angles of Death have again entered the portals of our Grange and Taken two of our most worthy members in the persons of our Brother Jacob K True and Hannah M True his wife. The wife and mother was Called to pass over the river Feb 2, 1881 and in nine days after the husband and father followed and inasmuch as Death has come very near to us and taken so suddenly, and while in the fullness of their lives our Brother and Sister therefore be it
Resolved That in the death of Brother and Sister True we lose two of our most worthy members, Society a worthy Citizen and neighbor, and the family a kind father and affectionate mother.
Resolved That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to her who now sustains the relation of Mother, hoping that she will receive grace sufficient for her day.
Resolved That with one accord we extend our most lasting sympathy to the Children of our deceased Brother and Sister hoping that opportunities may arise wherein we can lift in the slightest the dark cloud of sorrow that now overshadows almost every moment of their lives. And while the greatest grief fall upon the family who knew best how to love and appreciate them, we trust this dispensation of Providence may prepare the Children to meet father and mother in that better home where all tears shall be wiped away.
Resolved That these resolutions be entered on our records, a copy placed in the hands of the family and a copy sent to the Direго Rural for Publication.
Signed; Committee on Resolutions."

"TRUES"
A reunion speech by Kermit R True

We are all descendants of Henry True of Salem Massachusetts, he spelled the name 'Trew.' The first records about him find him settled in Salem in the year 1644. He married Israel Pike, daughter of John Pike, a lawyer and magistrate. Henry, the second of their seven children was born in Salem was a captain in the militia and spelled his name True on official documents. It is from him that our branch is descended.

I am telling you this because Evelyn suggested that I tell you about some of the Trues in this area of Maine, around the 'North' and around our meeting place, the Grange Hall.

South of this Grange Hall was the Jacob K True house. Evelyn and I were born there. Our family moved to Purgatory Mills in 1908, and the John B True family moved into this house. A few years later the house burned. The Smith Store, which was later a grange hall was acquired, moved onto the Jacob True property, and converted into a dwelling. This later burned also. Mabel Hatch True, widow of Jesse True, has built a new home on the foundation of the original Jacob True house.

Next south is the Orrin A True place now owned by John Bell. Orrin, a civil war vet, married Ervin Cram and they had two children, Doris and Kenneth.

Next south beyond the church is Bachelder's Tavern, bought in 1867 by Melvin Harrison True where he, his wife Betsey and daughter Annie True Starbird retired; they had resided in Litchfield and New Bedford MA; the property later sold to Jesse True and is now owned by the Carleton Snowes. My ggf Joseph Graves True settled on the farm just below the cemetery after living in Livermore. Beyond and across the road the Witon Black house was once occupied by Hiram True and his sister Nettie; another sister married Ernest M Lapham and they had two children, Ruth and Kenwood.

Elenora Jane True dau of Jacob K married Frank N Adams son of Dr Enoch Adams in 1888. Uncle Frank and Aunt No. owned the store now owned by Mrs Heller an Aunt No was postmater there until her death in 1931.

Taking the road 126 between the church and tavern we find a house, brick on one side and wood on the other; Emery True and Josephene lived on the brick side and Albert and Viola lived in the wood side.

Next, north of this Grange Hall is the house owned by Charles Metcalf who married Lucy A True; at the top of the hill Edward M True built a house after the house occupied by him and Everett Pinkham was hit by lighting, the house was later occupied by Merrill True, wife,children Sally and Stanley. Mrs Merrill and Stanley still live there. The next house and across the road was built by Jesse T True; his wife was Elizabeth Cushing and their children were Fanny W True, Edward M True and Nathan C True.

Now, who has the first question?

* Brother Jacob K Trew and Hannah M Trew his wife. The wife and Mother was called to pass over the river Feb 2°. 1881 and in mine 2469 4 2 Mary True Walker 10 was always proud of her True ancestry and would have loved reading all about her ancesters and their commings and goings, and their accomplishments. She was a Christian Scientist all of her life, a member of the Eastern Star, and during the last year of her life was Worthy Matron of Chapter 65, Joseph, Oregon. She loved scrapbooks, collected dolls, crocheted and was always giving people little gifts. She was so loved by all who knew her that at her funeral friends told her relatives "She was a VERY SPECIAL LADY." Her life history would make an interesting, tho' at times a sad story, yet, she was always smiling and put on a happy face for her friends. In her heart, she held sad memories, and she was an emotional person who could cry as easily over someone else's good fortune, or sorrow as for her own. Suffice it to say that after she and her husband separated, she joined with another couple near her own age and built an eleven room log home near the Wallowa mountains and spent the happiest 22 years of her life in an environment that she had dreamed of almost all of life.

* Teresa Ann Baker 12 changed her name legally to Teresa Ann O'Ryan and married in 1981 Robert M. Hunsperger.

My Dad is a wonderful guy
To me he is perfect-- as most dads are
And when he's called to the sky
I'll see him in every star

In a cabin in the mountains
Lives this wonderful man -
Where tall oaks and cedars grow
He clears and tills to grow whatever he can

His pleasures are found only
In that little nest
He's tucked away in the mountains
Where there is such quiet and sweet rest

He loves that old place that is home
Where he does his daily tasks
And rides for the cattle that roam.
Where he does whatever is asked
And is so content though he's tired to the bone

Sometimes he doesn't feel too well
But proud as he is, it's something he won't tell
His faith is there so strong
That he is sure nothing can be wrong

He goes about from dawn 'till dark
Then when all is done
He just finds a place to park
And starts some kind of fun

He's always been a jolly fellow
And taught his kids to laugh
Never to be yellow
When there's a bitter cup to quaff

Six children came to him
To make his life bright
And he succeeded in a wonderful way
To bring them up right

They are proud of him,too
Yes every one
But Dad, I'm your baby
And I'll always be one

you would bring to me
The first peach, tomato or pear
Because you liked to see
My face and the joy you put there

Then when I grew older
We roamed the hills together
Breaking rocks and most every boulder.
They were beautiful, Dad
The things that we found
Hidden there in the ground
The yellow the green and black.

I've always treasured you, Dad
But I'd never really known
Until I had my house
And a child of my own
And I'm wondering,now, Dad
How I'll ever do as you did to me.

MY SEVEN CHICKS

OUR MOTHER WAS SO WONDERFUL, SO VERY DEAR

WHY DID WE NOT REALIZE TO WHAT EXTENT WHILE SHE WAS HERE

THE PRAYERS THAT SHE OFFERED WERE HEARD AND ANSWERED

THE PATHWAY OF LIFE WAS MADE EASIER FOR HER SEVEN, THEN SIX LITTLE CHICKS

SHE GREW OLD, HER EYESIGHT DIMMED, HER SHOULDERS WERE BENT BUT THE SPIRIT OF LOVE WAS ALWAYS EVIDENT.

HER LIFE MEANT NOTHING BUT TO TOIL AND SACRIFICE FOR HER SIX LITTLE CHICKS.

SHE CREATED A HOME, GATHERING THE VERY BEST FOR THE NEST THAT SHE BUILT FOR HER SIX CHICKS

ONE NIGHT THE ANGEL CAME AND SWIFTLY CARRIED HER AWAY
A FAINT SOUND ECHOED FROM THE SKIES, WAS WAFTED BACK BY THE FLYING WINGS
"HOW I LOVE MY SIX LITTLE CHICKS"
HER LIFE SLOWLY EBBED AND THE NEST THAT SHE BUILT DIMINISHED AND SLOWLY FADED AWAY

A CRASH OF LIGHTNING, THE THUNDER ROLLED, BEHOLD A NEW STAR OUTSHINING ALL OTHER STARS IN THE SKIES, IN THE EYES OF THE

"TRUE BLUES"

INTO THIS WORLD THEY CAME, A FLASH LIKE A FLAME

AN ANGEL WHISPERED TO ME, THESE ARE THE TRUE BLUES, BRINGING A MESSAGE FOR THEE,

THE MESSAGE IS OF LOVE, HOPE AND FAITH, A VERY SPECIAL GIFT FOR THEE.

TWO BOLD LITTLE IMPS WITH LARGE LUMINOUS EYES.

A SMILE SPREAD ACROSS THE EARTH, THE EARTH BEGAN TO SHIMMER AND SHAKE WITH SO MUCH HAPPINESS IT MADE YOU ACHE.

THESE WERE THE "TRUE BLUES"

A SMILE SO SWEETLY GIVEN AND A WELCOMING "YOU HOO!"

IT MADE LIFE A WONDERLAND BECAUSE OF YOU TWO. IT MADE THINGS HAPPEN, IT GAVE US LIFE ANEW.

YOUR SMILES SO SWEETLY GIVEN, THE CLASP OF YOUR HANDS IN MINE, GAVE US STRENGTH. OUR HEARTS PUMPED FASTER TO CARRY THIS FLOW OF LOVE YOU BROUGHT WITH YOU.

THE LOVED ONES WITHIN THE SOUND OF YOUR VOICES HEARD NAUGHT BUT WORDS OF LOVE AND ENCOURAGEMENT, NEVER REFUSING A WELCOMING HAND AND A PAT ON YOUR SHOULDER MADE ONE FORGET THEIR TROUBLES AND WOES:

THE EARTH STOOD STILL APPALED AS GOLD AND SILVER DUST DRIFTED DOWN TO SURROUND US ALL.

A SPARKLING AND A SHINING U. OUR BEAUTIFUL AND PRECIOUS TWO: THEY HAVE EARNED THEIR NAME AND A PLACE WITH YOU, WE ARE HONORED TO HAVE THESE BEAUTIFUL TWO. TRUE BLUES IN OUR FAMILY TREE.

HISTORY OF SALISBURY CHURCHES

The Massachusetts Bay Colony embraced the belief of the 'Puritans' who were members of a 16th and 17th century religous group in England and New England opposing formal usages of the Church of England (and just about all others that did not agree with them, particularly the quite Quakers). Therefore no town or settlement was complete without an educated minister who often tried to run the business of the community as well as schools and churches. Their ministers were liberal with sounds of prayer and praise. It is of interest that F A Virkus, in his book 'Immigrant Ancesters' had the following: True, Henry, D ante 1659, from England to Salem, MA., Ca 1644; a founder of Salisbury, Mass.; M 1644, Israel D 1699 dau. John Pike, England to Newbury, 1635 and sister of "the worshipful Maj Robert Pike" distinguished in early colonial history.

The eighteenth church of the Massachuttes Bay Colony was the first church constructed in Salisbury; its first minister was Reverend William Worcester who emigrated from Salisbury, England and he served from 1639 until 1663. The second pastor was Reverend John Wheelright who decided that a new church should be built for the new people in the new part of town and then proceeded to be the pastor of both churches to the chagrin of some of the residents. The third pastor was twenty year old James Allen (or Aling) who was invited to be pastor, settle in the town, marry with the proviso that if he died while there leaving a widow, she would be given a grant of twenty acres of upland or the sum of 60 pounds. He lived there until his death on the 3d or 4th of March 1696. In another reference, he graduated Harvard College 1659, was called from Boston in 1682, ordained 4 May1687, married in Salisbury 1688 to Elizabeth Cotton (a daughter of Reverend John Cotton of Plymouth). They were parents of Joanna who married Elias Pike, Mary who married John Appleton and Elizabeth who married Joshua Moody. The headstone provided his grave had the following: "Hear lyes interred what was mortal of ye Revt. Mr. James Allen late teacher of ye gospel and pastor of ye church of Christ, in Salisbury who died March ye 3, 1696 in ye 37 year of his age." His widow married Rev. Caleb Cushing, fourth minister of the Salisbury church. The first church was rebuilt in 1723 and a 3d church was built in 1785, known as the Rocky Hill Meeting House or the Second Church (West) and Society. Rev Joseph Parsons was installed as the first minister 26 Nov 1718 and he was followed by Rev Samuel Webster, D.D. and he served from 1741 until 1796.

The first resident minister of Amesbury was Rev Thomas Wells in 1672 although services were held on call for 10 to 20 years prior to that date. Mr Wells was B in 1647, M 10 Jan 1669/70 Mary Perkins. He was the first person to rec an honorary degree from Harvard College (A.M) c1669. He served the church until c1728 and was followed by Rev Edmund March; Rev Elisha Odlin and Rev Thomas Hibbert were later ministers of the Rocky Hill Church. The Second (West) Church was organized19 May 1726 with Rev Pain Wingate pastor. The first Episcopal church occupied its first new meeting house in 1716 and Rev Matthias Plant was probably its first resident minister. The first Presbyterian Church was organized by by Rev Thomas Hibbert after his dismissal from the first Amesbury Church c1784.

The First Baptist Church was organized in 1780 with the folling ministers in succession: Moses Chase, Banard Currier, Thomas Flanders and Deacon Jabez True who was ordained in 1812, age 48. Friends (Quakers) begin meeting in 1702.

The first Methodist Church was organized in 1799 and Rev Williston of Lynn was called to become their minister with a membership of 36 (with 10 Pikes). Visiting ministers included Jessee Lee and Frances Amesbury. They built their first chapel in 1819 with Rev J Adams pastor and later united with the first Orthodox Church in the East Parish and it is now the only Methodist Parish Church in the United States. (Note: Merrill's History and Hoyt's Old Families of Salesbury and Amesbury are good historical sources for these churches.)

DAR PATRIOTIC INDEX

Mr and Mrs George W Parkman came to Emporia Kansas in 1881 from Maine where he was a telegrapher. They soon bought a farm northeast from Emporia where they established a dairy and a creamery. The five younger children were born in this farm home, as was the grandson, Virgil E Parkman. In 1900, George and Marilla True Parkman moved to Emporia where he established a creamery, which he operated until they moved to California hoping the climate of San Diego might improve Marilla's health. Earl Roy and Mina Moore Parkman operated the farm until it was sold in 1907. They bought a farm in the next section from G W Parkman, where they lived out their lives. Victor Parkman was a member of the sheriff's department of San Diego County CA. The women were all homeakers. The True Bible is in the posession of Katharine Marbourg Petty and is in a very fragile state. The other information is from family records. Issue of Nr 3367

Mr. Charles True

Dear Mr. True,

I have learned of your address through the F.G.S.E., from which I have just received ample information on our family, much of which coincides with my records.

I am enclosing my family tree and also those of my grandmother and of Jane Bradbury (1645-1729), Henry True, Jr.'s wife.

Capt. Henry True (? - 1659) was born in Filby Parish, Norfolk County, England, not Huddersfield. He was captain of his own ship, which sailed with Sir Richard Saltonstall's fleet, and apparently died at sea. Captain Henry True had a brother named Richard, of whom I know nothing else.

I am also enclosing the family coat-of-arms. There is a particularly curious side-story related with it. Apparently, near Bonn, Germany, there are ruins of a castle with the True coat-of-arms. Through pure coincidence, a Stephan True spent a holiday on the Island of La Gomera, where my father lived until last year. On one of my recent trips to Germany, I thought I'd check out the main German port cities, and bingo!, up turned about 20 Trues, in Bremen, Hamburg and Bremerhaven, many with the first name Heinrich (Henry). Unfortunately, I have received no answer to my letters to them. True is a very un-German surname, so I have the feeling that either Henry or his brother Richard could have left some descendancy there!

My great-great-grandfather, George True, was U.S. consul at Funchal, Madeira, under the Lincoln administration. One of my most cherished possessions is the original Letters of Appointment signed by Abraham Lincoln. George True is buried at Funchal, and next week my wife and I will be visiting the grave-site.

Some time I will have to get around to organizing our records. I would like to computerize them on a Commodore 64. Do you know of a specific program?

Looking forward to hearing from you,

Yours sincerely,

Barry Russel True

GENERATION I

1 Henry True came from England. According to Banks manuscripts of emmigrants, Henry came from Filby Parish, Norfolk County, England. There is no record of his date of arrival in this country, probably because he was a mariner. He sailed his own ship, and traveled the trade routes probably many times. When he changed his place of residence, it was probably due to his marriage. This is also probably why there is no death date recorded for him, and it can be surmised that he was probably lost at sea.

He married Israel Pike around 1644. She was also born in England, daughter of John and Dorothy (Daye) Pike. Her mother died in England and the rest of the family came to this country. Henry True died before 4 October 1659 when the letters of administration of his estate were filed. Israel married (2) Joseph Fletcher 18 June 1660. She died 12 March 1699/1700 and was survived only three days by her husband who died 15 March 1699/1700.

Spain.

Dear Mr. True,

I have now had an opportunity to go carefully through all the papers you have sent about your family. Your pedigree seems to be established in the United States back to Henry True of Salem, Massachusetts, who is believed to have emigrated to America in 1630 with the fleet of Sir Richard Saltonstall. He was a master mariner who is believed to have been lost at sea. Letters of Administration of his Estate were filed in America on the 4th October 1659.

In the information you have sent three possible birthplaces are suggested for Henry True, Huddersfield or "Huntsford", Yorkshire or Filby, Norfolk. The Yorkshire theory can be supported to some extent by the fact that Sir Richard Saltonstall came from Halifax which is near Huddersfield. Global Research Systems, the American firm of genealogists employed by your father in 1983, evidently made a search in two groups of records at Salt Lake City, the Yorkshire section of the IGI (the Mormon index) and the papers called Family Archives. This produced no reference to your ancestor Henry True. The genealogists refer to the "excellent collection of records from Huddersfield" at the LDS Library and mention, in particular, the records of the Anglican Church and early Wills. The registers of the Anglican Church of Huddersfield (St. Peter's) begin in 1562 and are covered by the IGI from 1566 which is probably when the baptisms begin. The Mormons did not index burials. Therefore, unless the IGI for Huddersfield contains omissions (which is possible) or your genealogists missed the entry, the position must be that Henry True was not baptised at Huddersfield. There is a copy of the parish registers of Huddersfield at the Library of the Society of Genealogists in London covering the years from 1562. We are making a search for the baptism in this copy.

We can find no record of the existence in England of a parish named Huntsford which is mentioned in your papers. Perhaps Hunslet, an old Yorkshire parish not far from Huddersfield, is meant.

With regard to the parish of Filby mentioned in the genealogists' report, we must explain that it does not appear to be covered by the IGI. However, the Filby registers are deposited in the Norfolk County Record Office and we are having a search made in them. I am particularly interested in families from Norfolk and have made a search in our copy of the standard work on this subject Norfolk Families by Walter Rye. In Part V of this work (Norwich 1913) there is a reference to the family of Trewe of Lynn (nowadays called Kings Lynn). Robert Trewe was Mayor of Lynn in 1497 and William Trewe in 1504. Walter Rye, a great authority in his day on Norfolk families, thought that Trewe might be a variant of Drewe.

In your letter of 6th August you enclosed a depiction of the coat of arms of the True family. I must explain that the granting of armorial bearings in this country is under the sole control of the College of Arms. Therefore, the only persons actually entitled to a coat of arms are those with direct male descent from someone to whom those arms have been granted. It is interesting that there are ruins of a castle near Bonn bearing the True coat of arms, It is quite possible that these could have passed into legend as the coat of arms of an English family but I am afraid that this would be no indication of any descent from Germans. In fact, if the name True is found in more than one part of England as appears probably to be the case, it is likely on balance that Henry True was of English descent. It is just possible that the True family in Germany could also be of English descent but careful and prolonged research in Germany would be needed to prove or disprovethat theory and this research, like much early genealogy, would probably be inconclusive.

I am sure you will appreciate from this letter that the research which you have instructed us to carry out into the origins of Henry True is likely to be extremely difficult. This is a feature of all research in this country into the ancestry of early English emigrants to America because one is dealing with a period less than a hundred years after the introduction of the system of parish registers which begin in 1538.

Yours sincerely,

INTRODUCING

ART & TRUDY TRUE

25 Dec 1982

Dear Family & Friends:

Celebrating the completion of fifty happy years together was the highlight of 1982. "What was your formula?" a neighbor asked. We had no answer. Perhaps we were especially fortunate. We didn't need a formula. The question, following the celebration of our Fiftieth Anniversary, moved us to recall and record the events of our life together.

Although Gertrude's background in the city and Art's on the farm were far different, early training and heredity supplied general similarities in standards and attitudes relative to work, education, morality, religion, responsibility and frugality.

When we married at relatively mature ages, we both had graduated from the University of Minnesota, had chosen our fields of vocation and had held self-supporting jobs with considerable responsibility. Through observation, we had learned that when one marries, he or she does not expect to find a perfect mate.

We were introduced by a mutual friend, who said that he felt that we would enjoy knowing one another. He was right! We did enjoy each other and had no doubt that we always would. From the start, happiness together was the major goal of our lives. Everything we did or considered doing had to fit that goal. Constant communication held us to it.

Though we were married during the depression, we never felt it keenly. Fortunately, Gertrude's salary from teaching nutrition at the University of Minnesota and Art's savings gave us a comfortable living while Art continued his graduate studies in Agricultural Economics at the same institution. Seven months after our wedding, Art went to work as an appraiser for the Federal Land Bank. For short periods during the summer, Gertrude joined him in living in moderately comfortable country hotels where the temperature was not always moderate.

In January of 1934, Art accepted a position with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington, D.C. Gertrude completed the quarter of teaching, then followed him to Washington. That decision required her to leave her chosen field of teaching nutrition. Her desire to be with her husband and establish a home prevailed, even though the future of Art's job was far from certain.

The forty-nine years of our married life spent in the Washington area have been eventful, in a modest way. After two rented houses, we built our own in 1937. Activity in our home was assured by the arrival of three active children within five years. They provided the family center until they went away to college. Years later one of them said that life had been so peaceful, and cooperation between parents seemed so natural that they had little basis of experience for things that came later.

With Art's family living in Minnesota and Gertrude's in California, our family had many interesting trips together. All three kids learned alot about the country and developed a fondness for travel.

Art's thirty-four years with the Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C. started with "action" programs in the Agriculture Adjustment Administration and the War Food Administration. Responsibilities moved into Administration of Post-war Programs in research and education. Increasingly, his final years brought involvement in storage and retrieval of information concerning Agricultural Economics Research Publications.

Gertrude used her knowledge of nutrition and her teaching ability in many volunteer activities that benefited people. These included classes in foods and nutrition during the depression and World War II School Lunch Program, Sunday School and Girl Scouts.

Her career in Girl Scouting started when she organized a Brownie Troop. Day Camp Management stretched over six years. As a member of the Board of Directors of the Girl Scout Council of the Nations Capital, she played a major part in combining the separate county and district councils into one strong National Capital Area. This gave a boost to participation of minority groups.

For eight years after Art's retirement in January 1968, we were quite free to travel. By the end of that period, we had visited every one of the "lower forty-eight" states and Hawaii. We also enjoyed five foreign trips. Our freedom from home and job responsibilities, good health, and adequate financial resources, smiled on us. Then came that event on January 15, 1976 that changed our lives. Gertrude had a serious stroke. Since then her rehabilitation and adjustments to her capabilities have occupied most of our time. In spite of changed conditions, we continue to enjoy life together.

A lot of things happened in fifty years together as life flows along from one stage to another. In all of them, for us satisfaction and happiness have far outweighed other experiences. Each of us can honestly credit the other that it has been so. Our lifelong faith in God and involvement in the organized church has guided us to an understanding of the deeper blessings, purposes and opportunities of life. Throughout our years, together you family members and friends have been an important part of our lives. Your interest and support have done much to enrich them. This we want you to know as we again approach the Holy and Happy Season that ends one year and starts another.

Affectionately,

Trudy and Art True

THE STORY OF

THREE TRUE PIONEER BROTHERS and their descendants

Foreword

The main purpose of this booklet is to supply a source of reliable information on WHO our True ancestors were and who our current relatives are. In order to accomplish this purpose as promptly as possible, it was found necessary to omit all records of when and where each individual was born, married, died and was buried. For many persons, such information was received and is being kept.

Details of WHAT each person did during their lifetime are not complete, although many interesting facts were accumulated. Since the purpose of this effort is not strict genealogy, it is hoped that it will fulfill the objective for which it is intended.

Many "True Cousins" throughout the U. S. have contributed to this effort. We appreciate all your interest and help. Most of the contents were "almost ready" to go to the printer in the fall of 1975. The serious illness of my good wife and helper, "Trudie," and of myself, forced a delay. When our health was much improved, we issued the original draft in the fall of 1977.

We realize that the passing of three years has brought many changes in addresses, as well as births, marriages, and deaths. Many of you have volunteered corrections or additions, or have supplied them on request. Those received, to date, are included in this issue.

The section on Current Addresses shows the latest addresses that we have for living descendants of Minnesota Pioneer Trues.

HOSEA-LEWIS FELCH-CHARLES OTIS

One hundred and twenty-four years ago two of these three pioneers moved to frontier Minnestoa. The third one followed in a few years. Who would have guessed that by 1980 their descendants would be living in at least thirty states? How can anyone picture adequately the growth and spread of the family that they established? The brothers married wives from New England who were pioneers as surely as were their husbands.

This booklet is an effort to bring together available records and information on five generations of the family. It tells about three brothers, their sixteen children and sixty-one grandchildren who lived to grow up. Also included, is what we could learn about great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. They have not been counted.

Many of you have helped me to compile needed information, by supplying records for your own branch of the family. Like a gigantic tree, the branches of any family divide and extend into more space each year. But unlike a tree, the physical growth of prior years does not remain to support the new growth. Rather the physical portion returns to the earth when its appointed time comes. The less tangible, mental, moral, and emotional characteristics of the people of earlier years live on. They continue to provide the base of support that shapes the identity of the newer branches of the family tree, as surely, as do the physical trunks of stalwart trees of the forest.

The lives and personalities of every one of us are affected by the experiences and characters of our pioneer ancestors. Hosea, Lewis, and Charles were the ninth generation of Trues in America. We honor them, for the part that they played in the pageant of life and development of our American heritage.

I am sometimes asked whether it wasn't a lot of work to assemble all the information about the True descendants. It was, if expending time, thought and effort constitutes work. However, pleasure and satisfaction provided rewards far outweighing the efforts expended. In our travels, we have visited True Descendants in fifteen states from coast to coast. Through correspondence, we have contacted others in eight more states. All have been gracious and cooperative. It has been an enriching experience to learn where and how True relatives live, and what they are like. We like all of you.

Interest in True history is strongest among the grandchildren of the Pioneers, many of whom have known the same relatives, or at one time knew each other. It is also strong among many of the great-grandchildren. Such interest is one of the things that makes it worthwhile to compile records of the family.

The book entitled "Five Hundred First Families in America," third edition by Du Bin reports the spelling of the name in England as Trew-Trow-Truewe or Truwe. The earliest record is of Ralph Truwe, Kent, England 1185, (Record of Templars, London). A common explanation gives the meaning of the name as "faithful, loyal and trustworthy."

Of the eight generations in America that preceded our Minnesota Pioneer ancestors, four lived out their lives along the seacoast of Massachusetts when it was the frontier of America. They played their full part in the hazardous life of their times.

The next four generations lived in New Hampshire starting when that was a frontier country. There the population grew beyond the land resources to support it; so the ninth generation moved west.

1 Henry Trew[1], the immigrant from England was captain of a small sailing ship that hauled molasses and rum from the West Indies to New England. He first owned property in Salem, Massachusetts in 16[illegible], but soon moved to nearby Salisbury. He and his wife, Israel Pike, had six children.

2 Henry[2], their second son, was a house carpenter, church deacon, and land speculator. He served in the General Court (legislative body of Massachusetts Colony) and was Captain of Militia. He changed the spelling of the family name from Trew to True. He and his wife, Jane Bradbury, had eight children.

The original leather bound eighty page notebook and diary kept by Captain Henry True from 1696 to 1713, was found in the Butler Library of Columbia University of New York. It contains many interesting entries about the drill days and expeditions of the Militia, and of purchases for the True family.

The descent of Jane Bradbury from English kings, King Henry I, 1070 - 1135 and King Edward I, 1239 - 1307, is well documented. That makes all True descendants (also descendants) of English royalty and of William the Conqueror who invaded Britain in 1066.

10 William[3], their first son, was a weaver and a farmer. He was a selectman (the New England name for a member of the local governing board). His farm consisted of one hundred acres and a large farmhouse in the section known as Rocky Hill. He and his wife, Eleanor Stevens, had ten children.

31 Henry[4], third son of William and Eleanor Stevens, married Ann Allin. Their family consisted of six children.

142 Joseph[5], their oldest son, married Abigail Page. They had but one son Enoch, through whom our line descends. Abigail evidently died young as Joseph married a second time to Sarah Prescott. They moved to Chester near Manchester, New Hampshire, where their seven children were born. At Chester, Joseph was elected as fence viewer, surveyor of lands, road surveyor, and examiner of selectmen's accounts. As constable, he was responsible for collecting taxes. He was chosen as Captain of Militia in 1775.

142 Joseph[5] was the first of our ancestors to leave Salisbury, Massachusetts. The town is known as "the home of the Trues." Many noted soldiers, ministers and statesmen of the True families grew up there. Interesting visits to the neat historic village in 1972 and 1975 disclosed the fact that the road where so many Trues lived is still called, "True Road." Headstones in the numerous local cemeteries mark the burial places of Trues of many generations.

Several families from the branches that stayed in the area still reside in Salisbury and nearby Amesbury. Since Joseph True moved away by 1756, our line and those remaining in the area parted in the fifth generation, two hundred and twenty years ago.

356 Enoch,[6] son of Joseph and Abigail Page, was the last of our line born in Salisbury. He moved with his parents to Chester, New Hampshire. When twenty years of age, he married Abigail Richardson and they moved to the Sandwich Community, close to Lake Winnepesaukee. There he was a leading farmer for thirty years and held many civic offices. In 1802, they moved to Sutton in northern Vermont, where he was a leading citizen until his death in 1816. During a visit to the Sutton community cemetery in 1972, we saw a substantial monument to Enoch & Abigail True. Their seven children divided between New Hampshire and Vermont.

990 John,[7] the first of the seven children, married Abigail Smith. They established, in 1792, a home on Squam Lake near Holderness, New Hampshire, where they lived for over sixty years. The substantial house which they are reported to have built after the farm was well established, has been restored as a show place known throughout the area, as the "True Farm." Later indications are that the restored house on the True farm is located on land which was originally part of the farm of Joseph True, brother of John. The current owner, George Butler, uses the house for a country residence. He is maintaining records of the True family there to the extent that time permits.

During our 1975 visit we were entertained at lunch by the present owners and fully enjoyed our tour of the elegantly restored house. Graves of John & Abigail True were found in a hidden graveyard near the farm. An interesting history of the John True farm and family was written in 1925 by Sarah D. West of Montevedio, Minnesota.

Her grandmother, Sarah True Downing, daughter of John True, moved to St. Charles, Minnesota in 1856.

died in 1845, Simeon owned two yoke of oxen besides other cattle. The family consisted of ten children ranging in age from four to twenty years. Besides the Minnesota Pioneers, they included:

6707 John Nelson[10] whose home in Meredith, N. H. is still standing.

6708 David Maro[10]

6711 Juliette who married Harrison Lord. They lived in Manchester N. H. and later on the Simeon True farm at Center Harbor where my parents, Mr. & Mrs. Fred True, and I visited them in 1929. Also in 1952 we saw Mrs. Lord and her daughter there.

The descendants of Harrison and Juliette Lord are scattered in several states. The widow of their son, Gerald, still lived in the Center Harbor community.

6712 Sarah Jane married Joseph Neal and after his death, Wm Carr. They lived in Meredith, N. H.

6715 Gilman died in infancy.

Sarah Saunders Smith p. 278 Massachusetts Bay Colony

Salisbury was the home of the Trues who occupied more positions of trust in the town, became more pronounced and independent in their religious declaration, produced more men for the staunch support of our national independence, more men of letters and science, and assisted more in the colonization of other sections of the wilderness than it has been my privilege to record for any other family. The Trues were of that staunch sympathetic religious nature, that they were not content altogether with the daily life of agricultural pursuits, but were rather inbued with the belief that mankind needed help and comfort in its social as well as religious life and many of the family were evangelists and preachers through the new settlements whenever the occasion required. They had little sympathy with the Puritanical church and its tyrannical doctrines but preached what was then a new religion in the colonies, "the Baptist faith", or submersion as it was then called. They were ardent christians of the New Faith, and carried their belief into the wilds of every new settlement, preaching, establishing new missions and contributing to their support.

great-granddaughters is included when readily available and the families are sufficiently interested to supply it.

A small number appears after each name. This is to identify the generations of Trues in America to which the person belongs. They are:

/ 6710 /6713 /6714
(9) Hosea, Lewis and Charles.9 (d)
(10) Their sons and daughters.
(11) Their grandsons and granddaughters.
(12) Their great-grandsons and great-granddaughters.

The small letter (d) following a name indicates that the person is known to be dead. Such information is not always available for all persons no longer living. Of course, the status of individuals is constantly changing.

The letter "M" following a person's name indicates that such persons were married. If a number follows the letter "M", it indicates the number of the marriage for the person who was married more than once.

The amount of information available on the different descendants and branches of the family varies considerably. Where little or no information is listed it is because no more was available from the sources that I found time to work with. All omissions and errors are regretted.

6710 HOSEA STURTEVANT[9] and MARY MURPHY TRUE (9) (d)

6710 Hosea[9] was the first of the True brothers to become a Minnesota Pioneer. Records are lacking as to where he went first. In company with a surveying party, he spent some time around Dubuque, Iowa, before his first trip to southern Minnesota in 1854. In 1856, he settled near Vernon Center in Blue Earth County, Minnesota with his wife, Mary Murphy. In 1863, they sold out and moved to Martin County. He practiced his profession as a surveyor and made original surveys for the government, throughout southern Minnesota. Although farming was his chief activity, he occupied many positions of public trust including treasurer of his school district, township assessor, township supervisor and county sheriff. For over half a century, until his death in 1915, Hosea True was a prominent farmer and leader in his community. He built many substantial houses that are still in use.

Summary and Conclusion

No record involving hundreds of living people stays current for long. As has been pointed out before, one of the purposes of this booklet is to supply a directory of Descendants of Minnesota Pioneer Trues. It is hoped that this will encourage you to get better acquainted and to keep in touch with each other. One way that you can help accomplish this purpose is to send me information on omissions, corrections and changes in Names and current addresses. If you will do that, I will endeavor to put out sheets of corrections from time to time. These can then be inserted in the booklet and thus keep it more nearly current.

A few observations about the fourteen generations of Trues covered all too briefly in this booklet interested me and might interest some of you. In their lives and activities we can read much about the development of our country. For four generations they lived on the New England seaboard, when that was one of the few frontiers occupied by English speaking people. After the successful conclusion of the French and Indian wars, they started to move in a westernly direction to new frontiers in New Hampshire. New settlements were delayed while the men joined the forces of the Revolution and the women carried on double duties at home.

It took the next four generations to develop home and farms and essential simple industries in New Hampshire. Then the crowding of people competing for limited resources and the opening of rich western lands sparked the next major move.

The Minnesota Pioneers and most of their sons and their daughter's husbands were farmers, as their ancestors had been. Within one generation, the Minnesota frontier was changed into communities of fine farms and farm homes. Soon the lure of promising opportunities, especially in the west and southwest, called many to new physical and economic frontiers. This involved especially the generation of the grandchildren of pioneers. Note, for example, how many current addresses of descendants are far afield from those of their grandparents. Many more are to the west and southwest of Minnesota than any other direction.

From a sociological approach, several interesting observations can be made. Women were as hardy as men. In almost all instances, they lived as long, or longer than their pioneer husbands, as did also wives of their sons. In spite of what we might now consider to have been primitive conditions surrounding childbirth and child care, the number of children and grandchildren who died in infancy or early childhood seems to have been rather small. We must realize, however, that some of such cases probably did not get into the records.

Names of spouses of descendants of pioneers are interesting. Through the son and daughter generation, most of the marriages were with persons having "American" or New England based names. The generation of the grandchildren include more names of German, Irish, Scandinavin or Slavic origin. That trend continued until the New England based names probably were in the minority.

Military responsibilities played an important role in the lives of several generations. It seems that a majority of New England men devoted considerable time to duties with the militia or other units of the Armed Forces until after the Revolutionary War. Again during the Civil War, military duties increased so that two of the three Minnesota Pioneers saw Army service. Then came a lull for a generation or more when the Nation had no major wars. Not more than two instances of descendants serving in the Army in the Spanish American War, have come to my attention.

Starting with World War I, the pattern has been quite different. In that conflict, as well as World War II, and also in Korea and Viet Nam, a large number of descendants were involved. Relatively few chose permanent military careers, however.

The three pioneer Trues had farming as their principal occupation. As most pioneers had to do, they also carried on other activities and skills. Among them were those of cooper, land surveyor and local postmaster. They also served as local officers in schools and town and county governments. They provide a good example of how people trained in New England, carried their know how to the frontier and helped to establish educational institutions, and a pattern of government for those who were to come later.

The sons of the pioneers were beginning to seek horizons broader than their local communities. At least four of them attended the State Normal School at Mankato about fifty miles away. They then became school teachers or entered occupations other than farming. Records are not complete on this subject and I must depend in part on memory. At least one third of the sons of pioneers followed occupations other than farming. The grandchildren of the pioneers, which is the generation of the writer, had improved opportunities to attend high school. Many also went on to colleges or universities. To an increasing extent, families were moving from their rural beginnings. Young people entered into all kinds of industrial and professional occupations. Unfortunately, records for many individuals are lacking, so that all we know is that True descendants were well represented in the varied activities of their time. By scanning the occupations mentioned for those for whom they are given, we can get a good idea of the pattern.

As Descendants of Pioneer Trues, we all have a heritage that we can be proud of. Those of us who know something of that heritage have a challenge to make knowledge of it available to younger generations. They, in turn, are challenged to benefit by that heritage and to build on it for the benefit of generations that will follow them.

No more records in the South Church of the True family for over 100 years. What became of Obadiah True baptized 1 May 1744? Did he die young and was a brother born later who received the name of Obadiah?
There was an Obadiah True said to have been born in Sanford ME in 1758. The names of his parents are not given. As Sanford ME is only a very few miles from Portsmouth NH, I surmise there is a close connection between these Obadiah Trues. Can any body help? A.E.E. 27 Jan 1940." MORE ON OBADIAH (from another contributor)
"Obadiah True, an old Revolutionary pensioner, moved his family into town in 1813-14; was born in Sanford in 1856; enlisted at the age of 19 immediately after the battle of Bunker Hill; served under "Mad Anthony Wayne" at the taking of Stony Point; fought under General Gates at the capture of Burgoyne's army. After 4 years service he came home on a three months' furlough. When his leave of absence had nearly expired he traveled on foot to Portsmouth, took passage on a sloop bound for Boston, was captured the first day out by an English cruiser, and was carried to Dartmoor prison where he was confined til the close of hostilities. When released he had his passage paid to France by our Minister to that country and from there he, with other prisoners, was sent home in a ship chartered for that purpose. May 19, 1981

Dear Sir:

I am sorry that I can't give you any information of any value of your branch of the family.

My father was born in Bremen, Germany, 1880, went to sea at age 17 aboard a Norwegian schooner, traveled the world in various ships and settled in New York. I have little information of my forebears, but the name is not a translation, and it is always pronounced in English. Evidently they migrated to Bremen during the 17th or 18th centuries for one reason or another.

I was told years ago that the first True on Long Island, (1640's) was named Henry True (no other details). However, there is a creek near Bayshore (on Long Island Map) oposite Fire Island Inlet that empties into the South Bay. It is still called "True's Creek." So, there is evidence that a True, possibly Henry, had either settled or had holdings on Long Island.

Some Trivia - A captain Barnaby True was commissioned by the British Crown (early 18 Century) to hunt down Pirates in the Carribian.

You may gain something, by researching early English, and American navel and military archives, if possible.

Best of luck.

Sincerely,

Henry True

NOTE: The editor deeply regrets that, in works of this type, sources are ealily overlooked that might have made this book more complete, although I am most grateful to other genealogists and providers of data found within the covers of this book.

The above letter writer indicates that his emigrant ancester to Bremen may have settled in Germany about the time the Huguenot dispersal was taking place. Our Henry Trew could have been caught up in the same dispersal.

The great majority of our emigrant ancesters came from England. The next largest group probably came from the Netherlands with a few from France, Germany, Ireland, Norway, Prussia, Scotland, Sweden and Wales. Huguenot families came from France by way of the Netherlands in the mid 1620s finally settling in New York City area, another came to New England in the 1630s, and still another large group from the Netherlands settled in New Jersey about 1640 and later.

We find on page 490 that Hermann True 1 was born in or about 1647; his father is unknown but he could been of a Huguenot family or a Puritan and that the same could be said for some of the other Trues on the move. CWT

NOTE 2: The editor received a telephone call 21 February 1989 for information relative to Mr. Henry True who had died and to his brother, Richard who had preceded him in death; the age of this Henry was determined to be 73. The caller, Shirley ? advised that she needed to contact the next of kin. The deaths occured in Ronkonkoma, New York on Long Island. CWT

Brigadier General James M True was born in Scott County Kentucky 14 Oct 1823. He moved with his family to Coles Co., IL in 1834 to farm. He went into the mercantile business in Charleston in 1852, but when war broke out he was elected CPT of Co E, 38th IL Infantry Volunteers and mustered into service at Springfield 2 Aug 1861. He was nominated for BG by the president 5 Mar 1865 when it was approved by the Senate on 18 Apr 1865 President Johnson sent it to him as he was in the extreme southern part of LA, with the western army. At the close of the war he returned to his business in Matton. Within a year he was elected to the legislature in a district composed of Coles, Douglas, Edgar and Vermilion Cos and served the first 3 sessions of the 25th general assembly of IL. General Grant appointed him US Counsul to Kingston Canada from 10 Feb 1874 to Apr 1878 when he moved to Seward Co. NB to become a cattleman in 1883. HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE TRUE FAMILY

No Author given. Furnished courtesy Hazel True
Marsh, Kankakee, MI

Origin: The distinguished name of True is an English name meaning 'Faithful or Loyal,' In Medieval the name was spelled 'Tre(o)we' and in old English it was spelled 'Treowe.'

From a careful search of the county and state records of Mass, records show that two persons by the name of Trew or True as now written: 1633, Antonio Trew was a passenger to St. Christoper embarked in the 'Ship Mathew' of London, (Richard Goodladd, Master). In 1636 John Trew was a passenger in the 'Ship Transport' of London (Edward Walker, master). The earliest ancester of the Trew line, of which we have authentic record is Henry Trew whom we find settled in Salem, Mass.. 1644 and who married Israel, daughter of John Pike.

On August 16, 1944 Henry Trew purchased a house in Salem, Mass. the deed of which was in possession of Mr. Jabez True of Salisbury, Mass.

1 HENRY (LEVI) TRUE[1] M ISRAEL PIKE[1] ISSUE

Henry True 1 emigrated from Huntsford, Yorkshire, England, settling in MA about 1635. He was a sea captain. He was captain of the "Returne" sailing from Barbados to Boston with molases as the cargo. Henry married Israel Pike about 1644. Henry was a church member which was important in that part of Massachusetts which was settled by Puritans. He moved his family from Salem to Salisbury about 1657 and died in 1659. His widow remarried Joseph Fletcher 18 Jun 1660. Henry and Israel had seven children: 1 John, 2 Henry, 3 Lydia, 4 Joseph, 5 Benjamin, 6 Jemima and 7 Mary.

1 Henry True (Trew in early records) 1 first generally recognized recorded action was the purchase of a home in Salem for 4 pounds. The date of his marriage is really not recorded but his church was very strict at the time and, therefore, it is conceeded that he was married before his children were baptized. The records of baptisms (First Church of Salem) are equally creditable but not so readily available so perhaps more positive statements should be made regarding births following and depth review of the First Church of Salem records. Papers of the Winthrop Fleet located in the Dallas Public Library were reviewed with this in mind but they were found wanting; an item of interest though was that one of the ships in the fleet was named 'Truelove' and this could possibly indicate a connection with the True family. Back to the record. Henry True 1 bought another house 5 years later and nearer the harbor. He was granted land (about 40 acres) in 1649 and and granted more land in 1653. Dr. Henry A True of Marion OH D ca 187? indicated that Henry True and/or 2 or 3 of his brothers were in Salem about 1633 and therefore could be associated with the Winthrop Fleet (see Some Henry True Descendants in Texas. 1981. TRUE BROTHER'S MILL

"The Oswego River Mills were originally built by John J Wolcott as a warehouse. About 1850, when the canal was enlarged, it was rebuilt and extended for forwarding purposes, and finally passed into the hands of H N Gilbert, N H Gilbert, A G Gilbert and Ransom Badger True, of whom Horace N Gilbert came to Fulton in 1855. They converted it into a small flouring mill, and in 1866 sold it to Ransom Badger True, George Emmons True and Charles Henry True, the present proprietors, the firm name being True Brothers. They enlarged the mill as it stands and fitted it throughout with the roller process. The capacity is 200 barrels of flour per day. This mill under R G True became the original patent roller buckwheat mill in the country."

"Death of Mrs. Susan A. True. The death of Mrs. Susan A. True is noted elsewhere. * The deceased was an old resident of the town of Fitchburg and was very much respected. Her husband died in California where the family lived for a year, in 1871, after which she removed back to Fitchburg. She left eleven children, Four of whom were under age. The funeral occurred at the family residence at one o'clock yesterday afternoon and was very largely attended, all the children being present except one son who is in California. The sermon was preached by Rev. Jas. ???wann, of Oregon, while music was rendered by a choir consisting of Mrs. T. H Brand, Mrs. E. C. De Moe, Mr. J. E. Pence, and Mr. C. E. Bross of Madison, who sung, among other beautiful airs, Abide with me, and There is a Land That is Fairer Than Day. The Pall-bearers were four sons and two sons-in-law of the deceased."

"In Binghampton, Solano Co, California, October 7th, William H. True aged 52 years. * It is seldom we are called upon to record the death of a more highly esteemed fellow citizen than Wm H True, late of Solano Co. Although a recent settler upon our shores, he was in every sense a true pioneer of the West. Having settled as early as 1842 in the then almost unknown region of Dane County, Wisconson, he reared, by unceasing industry and great ability,one of the finest farms now known in that state, and where today he leaves host of friends who will be pained to hear of his sudden decease. A change of climate being necessary for his declining health, he had sought our State to build for his family a new home, and contribute his great farming skill to our growing agricultural wealth. Unfortunately stricken with paralysis, he lingered but a few days when he peacefully passed away, surrounded by his sorrowing family. A sad loss to all. Rest in peace, kind and affectionate father. Good friend, for thy good works in the vineyard, great shall be thy reward."

589 Moses True 6 B22 Apr 1787 Salisbury Res Salisbury gave land for road and school south of Forest Road between Seabrook Rd and Rt 1 M Ruth Greeley 5 Jun 1813. Rt 1 was a major road through the True Property in the 1800s and was also named Lafayette Road from Newburyport to Portsmouth located a few hundred yards west of the Seabrook Road. A True Burying Ground is located in a fork of the road. Between this burying ground and the railroad, north of where it intersects Rt 1, a pest house was located where those who had small pox or other contagious diseases were compelled to go and live until they recovered or perished; those who recovered went home vertically, the others were taken out horizontally and buried without benefit of a usual funeral. A stone with the words "Moses True" was found in the area by an officer of the law in 1985 or 6; how it got there was still conjecture in 1986. Before Rt 1 was established, Seabrook Road and Forest Road provided the major north-south thorofare west of the marshes for stage coaches, etc. The pest house including the stones were later moved for use in another house. issue

1 CPT HENRY TREW[1] M ISRAEL PIKE[1] ISSUE

Cpt Henry True 1 B England, was a mariner and in the 1650's was captain of the ketch (a fairly small ship) "Returne." He settled in Massachusetts between 1630 and 1644. He was probably lost at sea during his last voyage. He probably married Israel Pike before 1644 when they began the process of raising a family in the Puritan community of Salem. Israel Pike was born in England and traveled to the new home of the Puritans with her family. She died 12 Mar 1699 in Salisbury, Massachusetts. issue

2 CPT Henry True was baptized or born 8:1m:1646 in Salem. He died in Salisbury 8 Sep 1735. He married Jane Bradbury 15 Mar 1667 in Hampton, NH. He took oath of freeman in 1675, was a member of the Salisbury church in 1677, bought the right to use the 'common land' of Francis Dove in 1677, he purchased other lands toward and including Salisbury Beach, entered into a lawsuit to secure a house his father had purchased in Salem, he was a clerk-of-the-court, a representative in the General Court, a deacon in his church from 1700, a house carpenter by trade, changed the spelling of his name from Trew to True which was accepted by most of his relatives, kept an Order Book and/or diary following his Commission of the rank of Captain 29 Oct 1696, he organized and commanded the first company of militia to defend Salisbury against attacks by Indians (Arthur Webster True located his diary in one of the universities and copied a few pages of it; also extracts from the Order Book are on pages 376 and 377 of 'Old families of Salisbury and Amesbury, Massachusetts by David W Hoyt, 1981. New England History Press, Somersworth, NH 03878.), and he probably was second son in the family as his brother, John was christened 13 Jul 1645.

3 John True 2 was christened 13 Jul 1645 in Salem. No other facts are known. Dr. Henry A True has his date of death as ae 19 Savage Dictionary

Rowland Stafford True 8 joined Chicago Colorado Colony established by Judge Seth Terry, 10 May 1871 after a planning party had selected a new town site 40 mi north of Denver in 1870. The Colony arrived in the fall and named their new town "Longmont." Rowland True 8 used his permit and, with $500.00, purchased 2 city lots and started a jewlery store. Rowland built homes on his lots and then sold them and moved with his wife, a native of Enfield, CT B there 2 Oct 1848 and his son Renzie Simpson True born 27 Feb 1873, the first child born in the new colony, to a farm near Highland Lake, about 10 miles NE of Longmont. Highland Lake was a new community, starting as a resort area with a post office, church and school. eventually, Rowland bought farming land adjacent to the new town and built a large home on Main Street known as East Lake.

2024 Rowland Stafford True 8 was asked to attend the 22d Nat'l Encampment of the GAR in 1888 in Columbus OH. The trip proved eventful in that 250 thousand attendees were there for the week-long event with daily parades of the different Army and Navy units plus a grand finale of (Japanese) fireworks, which few had seen. Rowland gave a 44 page speech before the assembly, covering many details of his expierences on the "Silver Lake" which was well received. After these activities, he visited visited friends and relatives in Meadville and Erie, PA and Aurora, IL.

Rowland and Renzie filed a claim on 240 acres in the Thompson Canyon 28 Jul 1904 which was being developed as a route to a new resort of Estes Park CO, promoted by Ed Stanley of Stanley Steamer fame. He must have new tourist developments as he traveled thru the Mid-South and on to the resort city of Tampa, Florida in 1918 for the purpose of investing in land.

AN ASIDE RE: T J TRUE OR ROBERT J TRUE IN THE WAR OF REBELLION found in the September 1894 issue of the Confederate Veteran, by Meek, p 281
A wounded Confederate soldier asked a passer-by for a drink of water. The water was given cheerfully, and the Confederate, discovering his benefactor to be an enemy, took a valuable relic from his pocket and gave it to him. The relic was a "Medal of Honor" given by Congress to members of the Tenth South Carolina Infantry. It bears the name of battle in which the regiment participated and the name of T J True. George M. Doyle, Santa Anna, CA was the federal soldier receiving the honorarium and he "was more than willing to return the relic to whom it belongs." A correction in a later issue pointed out that the name should have been Robert J True.

MORE ABOUT THE TRUE FAMILY

Coat of Arms and Crest: The coat of arms and crest of the English family of Trow, to which the American families of Trew and True are related, is described as follows in Burke, Encyclopedia of Heraldry, 1884;

Arms - Argent, between three bendlets gules, two greyhounds courant in bond sable.

Crest - A demi chevalier in armour, brandishing a sword proper.

The name of TRUE, meaning "faithful, loyal," was originally used as a nickname, and was first taken as a family name by those so called. In ancient English and early American records the name is found in the various forms of Trow, Treowe, Trewe, Trew, Treu and True.

English records of the name are fragmentary, and are found only in Yorkshire, Bedfordshire and London. The families bearing this name are thought to have been in the yeoman or merchant class.

As early as the year 1273, one Henry Trewe was recorded as living in the county of Bedford.

In London, John True was the father of, in 1595, a daughter named Elizabeth, who was baptized that year in Dionis Back Church, and an Elizabeth True, possibly the same person, was buried in London in 1596.

One writer states that Richard and Henry True came to America between 1635 and 1640, the former settling at Newport, RI and the latter in Massachusetts.

However, one Henry True (also recorded Trew) was living in Salem, MA, in 1644, and is believed to have come from the vicinity Yorkshire, England.

There is a deed dated 16 Aug 1644 signed by Edward Gibbons giving to Henry True of Salem, MA, for the sum of 4 pounds a house and land, which were formerly owned by a Mr. Strattens. This was situated in Salem, by the South River side and adjoining to the house and land of Thomas Browning.

Henry True married Israel Pike of Salisbury, MA, whose father, John Pike, came from Langford in the ship, James, to Newbury in 1635. In 1649, Henry True was granted land in Salisbury and moved there with his family

Henry True 2 was born in Salem, 8 Mar 1644 and married Jane Bradbury of Salisbury in 1668. Of interest to the Bradbury line is the following (from notes of J. Allen Jones of Fairfield Center, ME,); John Whitgrift of York, England, had a son Henry who married Anne Dynowell. They had sons, John who was the Archbury of Canterbury in the time of Queen Elizabeth, and William who married Margaret Bell. The latter couple had a daughter Elizabeth who married Wymond Bradbury. In turn their son Thomas, was of Salisbury, MA, and married Mary Perkins. Their daughter Jane, married Henry True 2. (The above synopsis was furnished for use in this book by Art True of Virginia.)

Israel Pike True, widow of Henry True 1, married 18 Jan 1660 in Salisbury and they had a daughter Mary Fletcher B 9 Apr 1662 in Salisbury and died 23 Jan 1683 in Salisbury. Israel married Joseph Fletcher, a younger man probably born about 1636. Joseph Fletcher probably was born in England and probably came to New England as a servant of Samuel Hall, Gentlemen, who made at least three trips but died in Langford, Essexshire in 1680. Mr Hall was childless, and Indian trader, explorer, farmer, representative to the General Court, treasurer of Old Norfolk County, and philanthropist as his will bequeathed 100 pounds sterling to Boston fire sufferers and the poor of Newbury, Hampton and Amesbury. Some of his goodness and management abilities must have rubbed off on Joseph Fletcher as his stepchildren seemed to have benefited greatly by his leadership and assistance. His wife died 12 Mar 1700 in Salisbury and he died 3 days later on 15 Mar. A will of Joseph Fletcher written in Feb 1679 gives property to wife Isreal and our "fower children, namely Henry Tru, Joseph True, Jimima Treu, and Mary Flecher." It is apparent that lawyers and clerks of courts couldn't spell much better then than now.

RECORD SYNOPSIS AS PROVIDED BY ABBIE MERRILL DEARBORN
2 Central Ave., Medford, Mass, 5 Apr 1933

We descend from a convicted witch, Mary Perkins Bradbury; a famous hunter, Richard Goodale; the following ministers, Revends John Cotton, Seaborn Cotton, William Worcester, James Allen and John Perkins; a revolutionary soldier, Samuel Greeley; and we all go back to the times of many Indians, bears and wolves to contend with. She has been a Regent of the DAR , the Sarah Bradlee Fulton Chapter of Medford which met in the slave quarters of an old estate which was upgraded in 1737 by Sir Isaac Royall, a wealthy planter from the West Indies; he had wood workers spend 5 years having the wood work redecorated with hand carving (it sounds like a building we should see when we visit Massachusetts).

Contemporary relatives of Abbie (she married Dr. Alvah Burton Dearborn) were Anna Merrill M Henry Lamb; Burton Merrill Dearborn; Elvira Merrill, a grad of Boston U and a school teacher; Lydia (called Lillie) M Obadiah E. Ring; Merrill Stone Ring, father of three boys and a girl (the girl and one of the boys were twins); Alvah Obadiah Ring, a teacher at Harvard and father of a daughter in 1933; Grand Father C S True's aunt Ruth, mother of Herbert Dow and grandmother of William H French and Ruth Dow and grandson's Wesley and Alden Moody of Salisbury; Mark True, daughters Mrs. Bell Poore and Annie Lydia and grand children Lawrence Poore, Authur, and Maude and grand daughter Annie with two children; Uncle John True has a son Andrew with children in Colorado and a grand daughter Lizzie Smith of Melrose, also a grand son in Newburyport and a granddaughter in Trenton, NH; Mrs. Nellie Greeley Golden.

The letter by Mrs. Abbie Dearborn was written in part as an invitation to take part in a Greeley Family Reunion which had as one of its goals the dedication of a marker in memory of Samuel Greeley, a soldier of the American Revolution.

THE JOHN PERKINS FAMILY

The source material for this summary includes: The Colonial Dames of the Seventeenth Century, Seventeenth Century Review. 1982. Vol 21, No. 2 article by Edith F. Stormont, Curator of Publications and Genealogy, Creswell Family, Inc.; American Families, Genealogical and Biographical Most Authenic Sources Including Much Valuable Material Drawn From Hitherto Unpublished Family Records With Accurate Reproduction and Description of Ancient Emblazenry, compiled by Masters of Genealogic and Heraldic Science, Publisher unknown; The Abridged Compendium of American Genealogy. Vol 1, Publisher unknown.

John Perkins was born at Newent, Gloucestershire, England ca 1590. He came to America with his wife and children reportedly in the ship 'Lion' landing in Boston in February 1631, with others under the leadership of Roger Williams. 27A46 1630 On 18 May 1631 he was made a freeman. John and his wife Judith joined the Church in Boston where his daughter, Lydia, was baptized 3 Jun 1632. In 1633, he moved to Ipswich and later owned 'Perkins Island' in the Ipswich river. He held some town offices and he was the representative to the General Assembly in 1636. His children included Judith, John, Thomas, Elizabeth, Mary, Jacob and Lydia. His wife was Judith Gator. He was a Sergeant in the war with the Tarrantines, 1631.

According to Stormont, the written record does not mention which Perkins came to New England February 5, 1630/31 on the ship 'Lyon.' (Whether a record search was made in England is not known as this is written). It is generally accepted that the Perkins lived in Boston for at least two years, but that the rank of sergeant in the militia may be a rather high rank for a newcommer with a fairly large family, before moving to Ipswich to settle. Stormont found a written record which shows that "John Perkins and Judith," his wife signed the covenant with the First Church in Boston, at Charlestown on 27 August 1630. Since they were established church members more than six months before the 'supposed' date of immigration of one person called Perkins, we should work to correct the date and praise Edith F. Stormont for her careful vigilance.

AN ALLIED FAMILY TREE * THE DUDLEY FAMILY

Probable ancestry of Governor Thomas Dudley, emigrant, and his descendants extracted in part from "The Dudley Genealogies and Family Records." By Dea Dudley. Boston. 1848. Published by the Author.

Dudo, an Anglo-Saxon, is said to have built Dudley Castle and bestowed his name upon it AD 700. From the name of its founder comes the present Appellation of Dudley. As a prized property it has been granted to one-then another-by English rulers, who also took it away. In accordance with the Doomsday Book it was once granted to William Fitz Ausculp, then descended to Ralph Paganel (Paynell), ancestors of Jane Bradbury who married Henry True 2.

During the reign of King Henry VI (1422 - ca 1461) Dudley Castle was taken from John Sutton and given to John Dudley and then sometime later it was returned to the Suttons. It is of interest that John Sutton's great granddaughter, Ann, married Humble Ward, Jeweller to the Queen of Charles I, who became Lord Ward of Birmingham in Warwickshire 23 Mar 1643. In 1644 the castle was under seige for three weeks and suffered extensive damage. A great fire destroyed much of the woodwork many years later.

EATON GENEALOGY

Two different trees, showing a double descent from the John Eaton who arrived in Salisbury in 1640

I John Eaton Sr. was born in England in 1595. He arrived at Salisbury in the winter of 1639-40 with his wife and six children, and was one of the forty original settlers. He received land in the first division, in a section described as a little way west of the present church which stands north of Salisbury Square. He was a cooper by trade. His first marriage was to Anne ----, his second to Mrs. Phoebe Dow. In 1646 he moved to Haverhill, where he served as a Selectman, at which time he left his Salisbury home to his son John.

II John Eaton, Jr. was one of the Commoners of Salisbury. Married Martha Rowlandson.

III Ephraim Eaton married Mary True. He was a farmer. The surroundings supplied clams, fish and game, but corn ground at Greeley's Tide Mill was a necessity for mush, bread and pudding. He had two sons, Jabez who moved to Hampton Falls N.H. and acquired a fortune in houses and lands, and Henry next mentioned.

IIII Capt. Henry Eaton was at the time of the Revoluntionary War too old to walk to the battlefields. He served the Town of Salisbury on a committee to restrict the importation of English goods. He married another Mary True.

V Lieut. Peter Eaton was a Minute Man at the Battle of Bunker Hill, as were many of the other 94 Salisbury men in this war. He married Abagail Greeley, and died in 1784.

SOMETIMES the Merrills and the Morrills are used interchangeably because it is assumed they have common ancestry but this may be a wrong assumption: Nathaniel Merrill settled in Newbury, married Susanna Jordan, perhaps in England, and died 16 Mar 1654 leaving 5 children, born probably between 1632 and 1644. Abraham Morrill on the other hand, probably came from England about 1632, moved to Salisbury early and recd land in the first division of 1640, on an industrial site in 1641 and more later. He married 18 Jun 1645 Sarah Clough and had nine children before dying in 1662. NOW, Judith Morrill M 26 Dec 1717 Benjamin True[4] B 10 Jan 1693; Mary Greely widow of Micajah Morrill M Henry True. Martha Merrill B 3 Sep 1683 Newbury M 16 Jun 1702 Deacon John True B 23 Feb 1678 Salisbury. Eleanor True B 4 Nov 1705 M ca Feb 1728 Abraham Morrill.

However Tappan from Salisbury and Toppan in Newbury seem to spring from the same ancester, Abraham who M Susanna Goodale and it is usually? spelled Tappan.

TRUE ANCESTRY, AN ALLIED LINE FOR MANY, BLAISDELL SUPPLEMENTAL

The name Blaesdale occurs as early as 1227 and it was taken from the combination of an area of forest and moor in the parish of Whalley in the northern part of Lancashire and a near-by area of Yorkshire. The name was applied to some of those folks who left the forested area. In the written records, it is first found as a distinct surname of one of the tenants of the forest of Bowland in the "Honour of Clitheroe," Yorkshire, in an inquisition in the Duchy of Lancaster records.

35 Richard Plesedale was, perhaps the progenitor of our allied family and a tenant of some of the king's land. As was customery at the time, the Escheator siezed his land in the name of the Crown and collected a special tax on the estate following the death of the tenant as appears from an inquisition of 25 May 1443. No other members of the family are listed.

36 Richard Blesedale's children's names are unknown.

37 William Blesedale born in 1463 was identified as a grandson of Richard Plesedale of the forest of Bowland at the age of 43 in 1506. He was one of three jurors in the Eccleastical Court of Whalley 2 Mar 1514; also a juryman on 21 Apr 1518.

38 Johannes Bleasdale, eldest son of Wilhelmus Bleasdale B ca 1490 was indicted 7 Mar 1526 and again in 1527 when he was fined 3d for a breach of the peace. Court records show that he and his wife Johanna (dau of Jacobus (James) Bonde and widow of Henrici Caton) paid fines after 1529; she died 18 Sep 1545. He was a juryman in 1527 and as late as 1535 at the court of Whalley. They reportedly were the parents of 6 children: a Henry; b Elizabeth B 1529 (she had a son, Thomas Brown); c John B 1530 tenant of Bowland Forest 28 Nov 1556 M Elizabeth Parker of Chipping as appears from inquisition of 15 Jul 1563, son Henry Bpt 15 Oct 1559 later had issue 1 Isabel Bpt 5 Apr 1601, 2 Julian Bpt 12 Jun 1603 M cousin William Bleasdale and had sons Richard and Henry, dau Jennet bpt 28 Jan 1561 M Richard Clarkson, son Alexander Bpt 9 Sep 1571 D 12 Mar 1651 with issue unknown, dau Margaret Bpt 4 Dec 1581 and perhaps others; d Alexander (perhaps son Inkling Green M Hannah, dau of Robert and Alice Swyndhurst) had son Thomas who M Sarah Tomlinson and grandson Lawncelot Bpt 18 Apr 158-; e Johanna B 1535 (probable daughter) M 14 Jun 1573 John Tomlinson and had following issue in London, parish of St Michael Cornhill - Armygill, Elizabeth, Parrys and Benedict Bleasdale.

(COPY OF A LETTER OF INQUIRY)

August 13th, 1875

Mr. H. L. True, Dr.

Yours of August 9th is received.

Ephraim True my father was born in Salisbury, Massachusetts in December 21st 1756. And Mary Hoit an old lady here was born in the same place, was at my house yesterday and she says he was married before he was 17. Married to Marthy Eaton and she died when she was a very small girl. Her father and my father were grate friends they came to Ohio in 1816 and were at our house very often after they came to this state.

I or Melvin made a mistake once as to father's Birthday. We said it was the 25th of December instead of the 21st. Grandfather Amlin's birthday was the 25th instead of fathers.

I examined the gravestones and found the mistake and told M. C. True to correct it.

I have heard father say that he was married very young, don't know as ever heard him. Miss Hoit said his wife was several years the older.

The tomb stone says Ephraim True
Born December 21st, 1756
Died August 17th, 1835

You must excuse my bad writing.

Yours in grate haste,

Moses True

PS If this is not satisfactory please write and I will try again.

We have been washed nearly all away by the late rains.

Our loss is between ten and twelve hundred dollars.

M. True

"A VOYAGE TO VIRGINIA"

The month of August, Anno, 1649, with companions MAJ Francis Morrison and MAJ Richard Fox seeking fortunes in Virginia in accordance with our agreement proposed a year earlier in Holland. We had been depressed and left the country following the assassination of King Charles I at his palace of Whitehall. Clergy and gentry in general also fled from England, and many wanted to flee to America as many of us had friends in Virginia. I was nearly related to the governor, Sir William Berkley, Major Morrison had a Kings Commission to be captain of the fort and MAJ Fox was to share in our success . I also had a letter from the king recommending me to the care of the governor's care.

We agreed with CAP John Locker, master of The Virginia Merchant which had a force of 30 guns or more to pay 6 pounds each for ourselves and servants to be transported to the James River. We sailed on 23 Sep 1649 and about 20 days later the captain decided to replenish our water supply at Frall island in the Azores; land was sighted at day break 14 October. CPT John Tatum master of the John saluted the castle and returned thanks following our actions to enter the port. The English merchants came aboard and gave us a very civil welcome. Mr. Andrews invited me and my friends to visit and eat fruit and meat locally grown including fruit of peach trees for desert. Later CPT Tatum hosted us with wine, fish and fowl.

We left about 22 Oct and had favorable trade winds until we neared the Bermudas, where we learned the distance to Cape Hatteras. We found out that the seas were generally rough and stormy but they cleared about 8 Nov, but then the water changed, we got out to sea, safely with all hands on deck, under the steering of Tom Reasin, before a fresh gale from the north grew into a violent storm. Eventually, the fore top mast and the foremast head were broken off and much other damage occured during the next several days. On Nov 13 some repairs could be made and finally Tom Reasin was able to make sail for our port; about 15 Nov we were within the capes but a fog and strong winds carried out to sea again. Diverse English ships saw and were seen by us but none would speak with us nor give us help. This brought great suffering which continued for about 40 days. We were in intolerable want for food and water by the middle of January and several had the happiness to die about this time and so the living fed upon the dead, even after we found an island. On 15 Jan Indians found our women and later many of them carried us to the mainland, fed and cared for us and delivered us and their chief called me brother. They were conspicuous in their generosity and charity to us poor starved weather beaten creatures; the chief's house was about 20' X 60' and made of reeds and mats.

The chief sent for a guide and found Jenkin Price who was under the Virginia Governor's order to look for us. Price brought and Indian who became attached to me and lived and died my servant. We learned we were about 50 miles from Virginia so we set out for Northampton County which was the only county on that side of bay belonging to the Colony of Virginia. As we advanced the plantations lay thicker together and we had a choice of hosts and entertainment without money or its value. When I came to the house of Stephen Carlton, he outdid the others and put on me a good farmer like suit in exchange for my dirty habit. On 13 Feb I had the opportunity to land in York River at Esquire Ludlow's plantation and met English friends T Lundsford, H Chickley, P Honeywood, and COL Hamond. CAP Wormsley mounted me for Jamestown where the Governor was pleased to receive me and take me to his house in Greenspring and there I passed hours at my own house until May following when I was placed in charge of the treasurer.

And thus I have given as faithful an account of this signal instance of God's goodness to the miserable objects of his mercy in this voyage as I have been able to call a clear remembrance.

OLD, NEW FRONTIERS

In the early 1890s, my parents went out to Greer County, Texas, which was later to become a part of Oklahoma Territory and then later a part of Oklahoma State. It was a new land to be settled by a pioneering people who were willing to live in a section where there were no towns, no schools, no churches, no doctors. My mother's father died there in the early part of the century with a ruptured appendix as there were no hospitals.

It was 40 miles to Quanah, Texas, the nearest railroad point where they could get most of the things they just had to have. This route was across Red River which had no bridge and was often up and was always dangerous because of the quick sand.

Word would go around the neighborhood that someone was going to Quanah, so neighbors would usually have a bill for them to get when there; and always check for the mail as there was no mail service in that part of the country. This usually meant a three day trip as it took a full day to make the 40 miles, a day to get everything bought and the mail checked and then a day for the return trip.

Most of the wagonyards had some bunk rooms. I would become all eyes and ears when my older brothers would tell of their experiences at the wagonyards and I longed for the time when I could go with Dad.

A railroad was built through our county in 1911 and there went my chances of ever getting to go on a long wagon trip and staying in a wagonyard.

It has been my joy and pleasure to meet and talk with old-timers or children of old-timers who had some interesting experiences in settling up Hamilton County. These hardships had a way of bringing out the very best in people and making them into hardy, resourceful citizens.

One might say that such days of hardship are gone from America, but may I tell you of extreme hardships a lady recently went through to become an American citizen. The story of this lady's hardships came to me in the magazine from Texas Tech, my alma mater.

Minh Hue Nguyen was well educated and became a teacher in Viet Nam. In the 1960s she became a translator for the U.S. Air Force. As things worsened, she began sending some of the children to America; a son coming in 1972, and enrolling in Texas Tech. Others coming later. On April 26, 1975, she and her husband hurried to the Da Nang airport just as bullets rang out and people panicked. She and her husband became separated; he was able to get on the plane but the door was closed in her face.

Minh Hue wandered around Da Nang two days in search of her husband or a way out, hopelessly, she returned to their home only to find it occupied by North Vietnamese troops. They accused her of treason, but after holding her a time, she was released. In a few days she learned that her husband and children had made it to America. She was repeatedly refused permission to go to Saigon, then she disguised as a peasant woman and made it to her parents' home in Saigon. Here she obtained four small bars of gold with which she bought the promise of a ticket to escape. Instead, she was betrayed to the government and had to spend 19 days in jail.

Six months later, she started to escape on one of those refugee boats, only to have the engine of the boat fail. The next year the government was expelling all foreigners, so she arranged a false marriage with a man from India and to escape with him. This failed as the day of their escape fell on the wrong astrological horoscope sign for him.

On December 1, 1976, the Da Nang officials found her and told her to report back in a week. She feared execution, so planned a desperate escape. Her family in Lubbock had saved money and through a wealthy Vietnamese family arranged for Minh Hue to get some gold bars to buy a ticket to escape. Again, she was betrayed; this time having to spend 21 months of hard labor in a Vietnamese prison.

She was near enough to her parents for them to supplement her meager rations. During this time her father passed away, so her mother doubled her efforts to get Minh Hue released. This was granted, but not to her home. It was to another prison where she remained for two years on a meager rice ration. After this term, she tried to escape on another refugee boat but was caught and had to spend another 30 days in jail.

The family in Lubbock had spent thousands of dollars trying to get Minh Hue out of Viet Nam, so for the next two years she did not try to escape. Then the unexpected happened. She and her mother were granted permission to go to France where another daughter had immigrated. She asked the officials why not let her go on to America, and it was granted.

Minh Hue arrived in Lubbock May 1, 1982, and four months later was enrolled as an accountant student in Texas Tech from which she will graduate in May. Today, her oldest son is an assistant professor of mathematics in Tech. Another son is a manager for Texas Instruments in Houston. Another is a mechanical engineer for Motorola in Austin. The youngest son is a senior in the University of Texas school of civil engineering. The young daughter has graduated as valedictorian of Lubbock's Monterey High School.

EARLY SLAVERY

This synoptic copy was taken from the El Paso Journal of 24 May 1980 by William C. McGaw and it portrays treatment of white slaves (thousands of our forebears) during the seventeenth century.

Hundreds of government agents were called to Florida about 1980 to investigate the backgrounds of thousands of Cubans and Haitians swarming into this country, specifically to determine how many of them had criminal records and to return those who had. It's a good thing they were not doing it about 300 years ago, because if they were, a lot of us wouldn't be here now, for the choice of going to prison or to America to become a slave was the way thousands and thousands of our forebears made it over here.

One of the great untold stories of this nation is that often white slaves and even fee paying passengers were treated even worse than the black ones because there was little if any, initial investment (or inspection) in them as compared to those from Africa. Equally true is that ship conditions was often worse for whites than for blacks. Sensational fiction and TV fare has not revealed the truth of historic transportation.

Black slaves were physically captured by other tribesmen or Arab traders and sold into slavery but the white slave was lied to, druged or kidnapped or threatened with prison if he didn't choose to go. According to A. E. Smith in hisbook, "Colonist in Bondage" 15% of all persons from Britain died before they arrived: they were sold for an average of $50 into indentured slavery and worked from sun up to sundown and more than 25% died the first year.

Merchantman Henry Laurens of South Carolina said of Irish slaves, "I never saw an instance of cruelty of the black slave trade equal to the cruelty exercised upon the poor Irish." What we forget is that back then slavery of all types of people was the rule, not the exception and they had to serve terms up to twenty years. British law required ships to provide each adult emigrant a horizontal space of 6' by 1 1/2feet. It is estimated that not less than 30,000 white slaves were shipped into the Chesapeake bay area alone before the "Boston Tea Party" period of time.

The reason for this commerce in humanity was it made a profit for ship owners by providing funds for return trips. The main use of the little ships was to carry sugar, molases and tobacco east bound. The colonist would pay up to 10 pounds sterling for slaves.

J. C. Furnas in his book "The Americans" pointed out that some women were recruited from work houses, jails and prisons such as Bridewell and Newgate and made historical mothers of many famous families, often in bondage for 4 years before escaping or being purchased for the purpose of becomming home-makers and ancesters. "Sometimes violence was used on the dejected and delinquent. A "Spirit," a "recruiter" for ship owners would cause persons to spirit away under suspicious circumstances. His methods were partly waterside crimp and partly recruiting sergeant. He would provide ballyhoo about sailing free of charge to the plantations where several years of light and diverting work with women of the same description was readily available. As to travelers he treated the tawdry town idlers and slack-jawed hobble de hoys from the country, harping on the joys ofemigration until half-befuddled and half dazeled they sign up; then they were locked up, lest they run away after a change of heart."

Life was extremely cruel in that time and it didn't matter what color you were. These are our root ancesters and it is time we faced history squarely; to whom do they, and their descendants owe anything. Some have prospered, many haven't, but so, what else is new? Most of us are the white middle and lower classes who have had it tough for 10 to 12 generations and many are sick of rich, liberal radical students from Yale, Harvard and Princeton who think they are above bigotry and yet call craftsmen rednecks or worse because they want to protect their right to live in America. Equal rights before the law but special priviledge for only those who earn it with their sweat: not students, words, color or ethnic background.

THOMAS BRADBURY'S WILL

In the name of God, amen. The fourteenth day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and ninety-four. I, Thomas Bradbury of the town of Salisbury in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, aged, weak in body, but of good and perfect memory, thanks be to God Almighty for the same, do make, ordain, constitute and declare this my last will and testament in manner and form following: revoking and annulling by these presents, all and every testament or testaments, will or wills heretofore by me made and declared either by word or by writing, and this to be taken only for my last will and testament and none other: And being penitent for my sins, I give and commit my soul unto Almighty God my Saviour and my redeemer in whom by the merits of Jesus Christ I trust and believe it assuredly to be saved; and my body to be buried in such place where it shall please my executors to appoint: And for the settling of my temporal estate, such goods, chattels and debts as it hath pleased God far above my deserts to bestow upon me, I do order, give and dispose the same in manner and form following, that is to say; first, I will that all those debts and duties that I owe in right and conscience to any manner of person or persons in favor, shall be well and truly contented and paid or ordained to be paid within convenient time after my decease. So by my executor or executrixes hereafter named, Item. I give and bequeath unto my grandchildren, Thomas Bradbury and Jacob Bradbury, all my housing and lands which I have now situate, lying and being within the bounds of Salisbury aforenamed and which arabel lands and meadow marsh, pasture and swamp lands, or of what sort soever they be. with all rights privileges and commonages thereunto belonging or any ways appertaining; unto them my said grandchildren and the heirs of their body lawfully begotten; the given and bequeathed and demised to be equally divided between my said grandchildren Thomas and Jacob, and not to be disposed by selling, letting or any other ways improved, but each to other, and my said grandchildren shall pay unto their Aunt True fourteen pounds, each of them in good pay within one year after they come to the age of one and twenty years. As also my said grandchildren shall acquit and discharge their brother, William Bradbury, from all orders of court concerning the division of their father's estate; also, my will is that my said grandchildren, Thomas and Jacob, shall pay unto their grandmother, twenty bushels of corn yearly, such as she shall have need of during her natural life and to find her sufficient wood, winter and summer cut and fit; as also winter and summer meat for two cows, all during her natural life or widowhood: and my will is that my wife what part of my house she thinks meet to require unto the half of it, shall have during her widowhood or natural life, unto her own particular use if she thinks good to require the same. Item. I give and bequeath unto my grandchild, Thomas Bradbury, all my implements of husbandry and also my young colt. Item. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Mary Stanyan, twenty shillings, she having had her portion upon her marriage. Item. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Jane True, ten pounds to be made in good pay within one year after my decease. Item. I give to my grandchild, Elizabeth Buss, five pounds in good pay. Also my will is that five pounds be delivered to the selectment in good pay, then in being of said town of Salisbury by them to be disposed to such of the poor as they judge to have most need of it. And lastly, I do ordain and appoint my dearly and well beloved wife, Mary Bradbury and my dearly and well beloved daughter, Judith Moody, my executors or executrixes to this my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above named.

TRUE ANCESTRY (ALLIED LINE) PIKE

The family of PIKE was very early established in Massachusetts and it had numerous representatives in that colony and in New Hampshire. Among the most noted early representatives probably, was the Reverend John Pike whose diary of events has afforded very much to the historian and the genealogist. (Nr 22, Rev).

John Pike, the emigrant ancester and father-in-law of 1 Henry True 1, came from Langford, England, in the ship, James, in the year of 1633 with his wife and their children, John, Robert, Dorothy, Israel and Ann (or Hannah). He probably resided for a time in Ipswich, settled in Newbury and subsequently Salisbury where he died 26 May 1654. His latest will was made two days before his death and it was proved 3 October the same year. References include The John Pike Family. Ann B Harding. July 1967. The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Boston. Also, The Register, Vol 66. p 260. July 1912. Also, Essex County Probate. Vol I p 194. Also, v r of Havernill, v r of Salisbury, MA H S P 1st series XIV, p 121, 150, NH H S C III pp 40-67, NH G R III pp 78-85, 97-104, 145-153, Journal of the Reverend John Pike all include reference to Israel Pike.

Robert Pike, son of John Pike and Dorothy Day was born about 1615, settled with his father in Salisbury and married 3 Apr 1641 to Sarah Sanders born about 1622 and died 11 Jan 1679; she probably was a daughter of John Sanders of Weeks, Downton Parish, England and sister of John Sanders of Salisbury and Newbury; Robert Pike M2 Martha Moyce, widow of George Goldwyer. A disposition on record shows that he visited England in 1650 or 1651. In 1650 his name succeeded the ministers at the head of the list of commoners. He paid the largest tax in town in 1652. His name and that of his wife appear first on the list of members of Salisbury Church; he may have been the most prominent citizen in his town in the last half of the 17th century. Robert Pike died 12 Dec 1706. In all the records he is styled Major Robert Pike. He took the oath of Freedom 5.17.1637, was representative in 1648 and several years following, a member of the Council for many years down to 1696 and he was assistant to the Governor from 1682 until 1692 and Justice of the Peace during most of his political life. He was liberal in thought for a Puritan and very decisive in his openion and naturally had difficulties with members of his church; he has been styled by writers as "the Morally Fearless Hero of New England. The first and strongest representative of the Rights of Petition" and the Power which squelched the Witchcraft Delusion." Because of the insistance on the Right of Petition, he was fined and disfranchised and many of his neighbors were called before the General Court for reprimand because they had petitioned for the remission of his fine. The fine was paid and the disfranchisement was removed in 1657; he was elected to the General Court the following year. His children were Sarah, Mary, Dorothy, Mary, Elizabeth, John, Robert and Moses.

Hendrick, Rutland, VT, 1923, in honor of the 350th Anniversary of the Founding of Salisbury, Massachusetts.

I "Sir Richard PYKE, of Pikes Ash, Moorlink Parish, West Bridgewater, Somersetshire , England, living in the eights year of King Richard, II, 1385;
II Thomas Pyke
III Hugh Pike, living in the 3d year of King Henry's reign, 1425, M Elizabeth ?

IV Thomas Pyke
V John Pyke
VI William Pyke M Alice, heir of Thomas Bowring of Bowring's Leigh in West Arlington, Devonshire;
VII Stephen Pyke M Dorothy Cuffe/Cutts, settled in Bridgwater Somersetshire; Stephen Pyke and Dorothy Cutts had two sons, John and Francis.
VIII John Pyke was baptised 1 Nov 1572 and it is supposed that this is the John Pike, the immigrant, sailing from Southampton, England, 6 Apr 1635, in the ship, James, CPT Cooper, master, arriving Boston in August 1635 with five children, his wife having died in England. His marriage was found recorded as follows: "John Pike of White Parish, Wiltshire, married January 17, 1612, Dorothy Day, of Langford, at White Parish." They probably lived at Langford as he was on the passenger list from Langford. On the list of passengers he is recorded as a "laborer," but he evidently was a man of some considerable education, for he was elected by the town of Newbury for several years to act as judge on small matters, which he did in a highly exemplary manner, as attested by the court record, and he wrote a fine hand. He settled at first in Ipswich, but soon removed to Newbury, and settled on the banks of the Parker River. He was made a freeman in 1642. Late in life he removed to Salisbury, where he died 26 May 1654, making his will only two days before he died."

His children in America were as shown on page 144 A, CAP John Pike, Major Robert Pike, Dorothy Pike, Anna (or Hannah) Pike, and Israel Pike. CAP John Pike was also accorded the title of President in 1671 as he was probably the administrative leader in the establishment of Woodbridge, NJ and he served as a magistrate in later years.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

Nr 1075 Winthrop True 7 was born 26 December 1802 and died 30 August 1835. He was a farmer and a resident of the Rocky Hill area in Salisbury. Winthrop married Sarah Sanborn on 24 February 1824. Sarah was born 25 February 1804 and resided at one time in Kingston, New Hampshire.

One hundred and sixty-three years later, Mrs. Alexander L. (Royona B.) Redon of Virginia Beach, Virginia purchased a very small 'Battersea' enamel box with the following quotation on the cover, "When this you take, keep for my sake." Inside the box was a tiny folded note written on a fragment of an Internal Revenue form 1000, revised January 1921 with the following quotation written on it, "This box was given to Grandmother True with her wedding ring, Sally Sanborn from Winthrop True."

"This ring was my mother's"

Mrs. Redon purchased the box from Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Getz, Antique Dealer, from Houston, Texas at an antique show in Virginia Beach on 31 July 1987.

GENEALOGY OF MARY BROWN

The following report on the Genealogy of Mary Brown, wife of # 51 John True was submitted by Jerry Smith, a descendant of Catherine True who died in Oregon in 1905, married John Carlisle in Tuscarawas County 22 Feb 1838 and resided in Iowa by 1950 and thence to Oregon and California; John died in Ohio ca 1891.

1 George Brown 1 M Christian Hibbert at the church of St Edmund, Salisbury, Wiltshite, England 30 Sep 1611; George Browne died in England 8 Nov 1633 leaving Christian a widow. Christian and three sons, Henry, William and George came to America and received a land grant in Salisbury in the "first division." Christian Brown died 28 Dec 1641 in Salisbury.
2 William Brown 2, Planter, Salisbury, MA. proprietor 1639, brother of George and Henry, B ca 1622, married 25 Jun 1645 Elizabeth Murford. He was a member of the church in Salisbury in 1677, in Salisbury in 1642 and taxed in 1652 and D 24 Aug 1706. The testimony of William Brown at the witchcraft trial in 1692 follows.

"and about 1660 Susanna Martin was accused of bewitching, Elizabeth, wife of William Brown. The church, appointed a day of prayer, to seek God in her behalf. Thereupon, her troubles ceased, for which the church gave thanks for her deliverance. She came to meeting and went about her house as before."

In about 1661 she and Goodwife Osgood were summoned to give their evidence before the grand jury about said Martin.

Elizabeth Brown told her husband that Susannah Martin said, "She would make her the most miserable creature in defaming her name at the court."

About two months after this, William Brown said his wife "Would not own him." Susanna Martin was convicted and executed as a witch.

THE WEBSTER FAMILY

Gilbert and Mary O. Webster moved to Mapleton in 1856 as members of the Minnesota Settlement Association. They were territorial settlers as Minnesota did not become a state until 1859. They had been married in Belchertown, MA on 31 May 1851. Gilbert was school master at the Turkey Run School at age 22 and he married one of his pupils, Mary O. Howard when she was just under 16 years of age. Two children, Willie age 4 and Della, age 2 were born in Massachusetts and accompanied them on the western trip.

The Association filled six railroad cars as they traveled by train to Dunlieth, IL (now East Dubuque). There, with an additional 6 freight car loads of equipment and household goods, they transferred to the City Bell on the Mississippi river, and at St. Paul to the Reveille. The party numbered over 300 people. A St. Paul newspaper reported that it included 350 adults and 90 children. The party was the largest immigrant group to arrive in Minnesota.

While the women and children and most of the men stayed in Mankoto, some of the men traveled to the promised land south of present Mapleton; the women stayed in a school house and in tents brought for the purpose. The land to be claimed and occupied was just outside an Indian Reservation.

The Websters lived in Sterilng township until 1865 or 1866. At that time the Indian land became available to settlers. All Indians were forceably removed after the massacre of 1862 in which at least 500 white settlers were killed. The patent for former Winnebago Indian land near Good Thunder was granted to Gilbert Webster on 14 Oct 1865. The tract containing the homesite was in Section 21 Township 107 Range 27. This 80 acres was mostly woods and ran down to the Maple river. The site supplied the water, wood and protection from the winds which this New England family had found lacking at their first Minnesota home. The additional quarter section lying to the west evidently was prairie. In later years most of it had to be tiled.

During the next sixteen or seventeen years, the Webster Family evidently prospered on their farm two miles south of Good Thunder. The principal crops were wheat and boys and girls. By 1873 ten children had been born to this couple: 1, William Francis Webster, 20 Jul 1852; 2, Emma Adella (Della) Webster, 3 Apr 1854; Mary J. (Jennie) Webster, 24 Feb 1857; George Edward (Ned or Ed) Webster, 15 Dec 1858; Nellie J. (Nel) 22 May 1863; Charles Frederick (Fred) Webster, 6 Jun 1865; Cora B Webster, 31 Dec 1866; Alice Eliza Webster, 31 Aug 1869; Fannie H Webster, 26 Jul 1871; Frank H Webster, 27 Feb 1873.

George Edward died while the family still lived on the farm. His death resulted from a back injury received at school from an accident on the ice. He was buried in the Sterling cemetery near where the family first lived south of Mapleton.

There was no church in Good Thunder in the early days. Visiting ministers came from time and conducted worship services and performed baptisms, marriages, etc. The older children were baptized by immersion in the Maple river. At least two of them, Jennie and Nellie were Baptist throughout their lives.

My mother, Alice, recalled how hungry they were for succulent foods before the winters were over. They stored potatoes and cabbages and (later when they were available) apples. Other foods were largely of a meat or cereal origin. When certain weeds started growing in the spring, they supplied welcome greens.

Gilbert Webster was very successful as a wheat farmer but had little time for garden production. When he was reminded how much more some neighbors had, he replied, "I could do that too if I had wanted to dance all my days in a half bushel."

As part of his duties as town clerk, Grandpa Webster helped neighbors to write letters and to fill out legal papers. Many neighbors were recent immigrants and as they knew but little English they badly needed such help.

The wheat had to be hauled to the mill in Mankoto. You readers who know the Hern bridge over the Le Seuer river south of Mankoto can visualize the problem of getting down the hill and onto the bridge before Stoand's Ravine road was built.

A picture of the Webster farmstead makes it clear that a fine set of buildings was completed while the family lived on the farm. As was true of many New Englanders, the Websters were much concerned about education. The father of the family had attended Wilbraham Academy in the Massachusetts town of his birth and had been a schoolmaster. He wanted a better education than they could get in a country school. This was the major reason the family left the farm and moved to West Mankoto in 1881 when the head of the family was but 50 years old. already several "children" were in their twenties and they went no farther than the country school. Nellie, Cora, Alice and Fannie and Frank attended Mankoto Normal and taught school at least for a few years.

The home in West Mankoto was a double house that handled the large family with comfort. The property contained several acres that provided garden space and pasture and some hay for a cow and a horse. The retired farmer rented his Good Thunder land on the shares and continued to have a lot of wheat to sell. His motto for handling money was to get it in the bank and to get it ticking.

He bought, leased and sold a number of commercial properties in Mankoto and apparently profited well by doing it. Another motto of his indicates that he was not a speculator. He is reported to have said, often, pay as you go or don't go.

Charles Frederick Webster was the first member of the family to did after they moved to Mankoto. He had never been strong and had had chronic kidney trouble which in later years probably could have been treated successfully. He died at at age 18 in 1884 and was the first to be buried in the family plot his father purchased in Glenwood cemetery. For his funeral the casket cost $20.00 and the entire cost was $46.00.

So unpredictable are the workings of fate that the Webster family of ten children was destined not to supply one person to carry the name into the next generation. William Francis Webster, the first born was next to die in 1887 at age 35. He had never married but had farmed for a while near Mapleton with a sister keeping house for him. Then, or possibly before, he was a peddler. I recall seeing a suit case filled with thread, needles, scissors and knick knacks that he had carried. It was kept by the family and wound up in the attic of the True house when the Webster house was emptied. After he moved to Jackson County, this son contracted typhoid fever from which he died. His body was brought back to Mankoto and laid beside that of his brother in beautiful Glenwood Cemetery.

For 15 years there were no further breaks in the large Webster family. Jennie, the first to be born in Minnesota was the next to go. She had not had the advantage of schooling beyond the country school level.

Very few single girls had opportunities for employment in the late 1800's unless they were educated as teachers and possibly as nurses or a few other vocations. Jennie lived at home and was a helper for her mother in the work of the household. Her church, First Baptist of Mankoto was her chief interest in life. She taught a class of older girls or young women. This activity led to a unique event that happened many years later. Soon after our son Fred introduced us to his bride to be, Karen Temple, her grandmother whose name had been Mae Able, produced a small card which had been given to her by her Sunday School teacher, Jennie Webster. She had kept it for over 50 years in memory of her cherished Sunday School teacher, Jennie Webster.

As Aunt Jennie died before I was born, I knew nothing about her except what mother and dad told us. She was a kind, lovable person and her death apparently was quite sudden. It occurred on May 19, 1899.

The next one to be claimed by the grim-reaper was Fannie, next to the youngest in the family. While teaching school in Odin in Watonwon County she had married Hans Hansen, a buttermaker. They had lived in Waseco and were living at the time of her death, at near by Palmer. Cause of death, as told in our household, was probably a ruptured appendix. Uncle Hans kept the boys, Berton and Henry with him. Alice, who was only 2+ years old came to Mankoto where Aunt Cora cared for her as though she was her own child. Between 1909 and 1913 when Aunt Cora died, was a period of only 4 years but they were important ones in the life of Alice.

For part of one year, Berton stayed with us on the farm. He performed many of the duties of a hired hand. After the writer started high school in the fall 1911, Henry stayed with his father and later took over the family farm at Odin.

Aunt Cora was the one of my mother's sisters that I knew the best. She often helped my mother with her work and family. At times she stayed overnight with us. Her regular occupation was helping her mother, especially after grandpa Webster died in 1906. She taught school at Jackson, Heron Lake and Tracy and possibly more places before she started staying home in the early 1900's. She was very helpful to us in our studies and read to us frequently. She was a regular active member of the Congregational church. For many years the Christian Endeavor was an important element in her life. I recall hearing that she served as a delagate to the national convention. Either on that trip or another one, she made a trip east and visited some of the family relatives. Years later they wrote about how they enjoyed her visit.

Aunt Cora's generosity was demonstrated when she took my sister, Edith on a Mississippi river boat trip to St Louis. I think that was in 1910. She also took Florence to Denver and to Estes Park to a religious encampment.

The crowning occasion of our Aunt's generosity was her taking of Alice Hanson into her home when her mother died when Alice was less than three years old. For four or five years she took care of her and served as a foster mother.

One of the saddest events of lives was when Edith and I were in high school, was when Aunt Cora died of cancer.

By Arthur Webster True

The grandfather of Gilbert Webster was Elija Webster who probably was born in Hebron CT and moved to Wilbraham MA about 1894; he married Sarah Jones. Elija Webster built a house on his land where the road to Hampaden leads off in a southwesterly direction. He built the home in 1817 and former owners include Ilija Webster, Miles Webster, Mrs. Lydia Webster Nelson, Betsey Webster and in 1913 it was owned by John Franconovitz, Jr.

The father of Gilgert Webster was Marcus Webster, born in Wilbraham 29 Jan 1801 and his father died about ten years later under circumstances that required Marcus to be bound out to another woman other than his mother, and later he attended Wilbraham Academy. Marcus Webster married 4 Apr 1826 Julia Ann Chapin born in Wilbraham 29 Jan 1801 daughter of Isaac Chapin and Nancy Sibley. Marcus and Julia Ann also had a son, Alfred Webster born 1835 and died 12 Feb 1870 in Rock Island.

Julia Ann Chapin's father was Isaac Chapin, son of Zebulon Chapin, son of Isaac Chapin, son of Deacon Benjamin Chapin, son of Henry Chapin, son of Deacon Samuel Chapin, one of the founders of Springfield, MA memorialized in a statue "The Puritan," by Augustus Saint-Guadens, in the heart of the city (pop 162,000 in 1950).

Gilbert Webster's wife, Mary Ocelia Howard, was born in Belchertown 7 Feb 1835 and died 1 Jan 1927 in Mankoto, MN, the daughter of Chauncey Howard born 17 Jun 1788 died 2 Feb 1877 and married 18 Feb 1813 Phoebe Hannum who was born 25 Nov 1789 and died 10 Mar 1860. They were married 47 years and had the following children: Austin Howard, born 26 Oct 1814 and died 18 Jun 1881; Leysander Howard, born 22 Sep 1816 and died 14 Oct 1889; Bensoni Howard, born 2 Aug 1820 and died 3 May 1904; Gilbert Howard, born 3 May 1825 and died 11 Jan 1869; Jane P Howard, born 28 May 1829 and died 25 Mar 1895 and Mary Orcelia Howard, born 7 Feb 1835 and died 10 Jan 1927 in Belchertown, MA. TREWE TREW TRUE ETC

Our emigrant ancester in our True line spelled his name Trew (if he could spell) and it was generally carried in the written records until Nr 2 Henry True 2 began to keep his diary and positively wrote the name True. There is some conjecture that it was always spelled True or Truee but that readers of the records did not know how to read handwriting as it was practiced at the time, and the same may apply to the spelling of the name Trow.

Much of the following material can be found in the LDS Library in Salt Lake City; the presenter and her address is given where known although some of the materials are from old collections and the addresses may no longer be valid. Historical items of interest

Archibald Trew B Mar 1805 probably went to Canada before the others; his oldest son was born in Canada, in 1832. David Trew went to Canada when he was ae 17 in 1837 and tradition has it that his mother and all sons except Archibald went to Canada at about the same time if not on the same boat. James Trew brought his wife and two children between 1844 and 1847 but it is not known if he was a brother or a cousin of Archibald. The record is not clear regarding Mary Jane but in the 1871 census the mother Elizabeth Trew was living with Ann Jane Boyd and her family in Nottawasaga Twsp Ontario.

John Trew left Oakhill between 1861 and 1871 and moved to Cremore; James left Oakhill between 1851 and 1861 presumably to Peterborough area and never was heard from again.

When the Trews went to Canada, they settled in a place called Oakhill, a small area in Hope Township, Durham County, northwest of Port Hope.

Five Trews wed in Oakhill and the brother William settled just across the Clark-Hope Township boundry in Clark Twsp. A David Trew, son of Archibald donated ½ acre of land for a school and William did the same for a church. All that remained in 1979 is a one room school house, closed and the cemetery. Although the farms were still there, there were no Trews living there. Submitted by Elizabeth Davis, wife of Robert G True, was a daughter of William and Elizabeth (Frances?) Davis. The congregation of the "Traveling Church" or the Great Crossing Baptist Church moved from upper Spotsylvania County VA to an area of Finecastle Co VA which was later to be a part of Woodford Co then Scott Co and later Owen Co in KY. In 1821 Robert G and Elizabeth inherited lot 5 of the Wm Davis estate.

Dr B H Webstern Nashville TN has a Martin True's old Prayer Book too old to copy and beyond Martin True a long line of Trues are from Spotsylvania Co VA. And the indication is that this line descends of Welsh parentage. See book, True-Beavers.

About 1872, John A. True was employed to sink test holes, prospecting for salt, coal and precious minerals, by COL E. S. Graham, near Graham, Texas and Newcastle, Texas. Coal was found in commercial quantities but the gold only returned $4.00 for each $16.00 investment.

True was born 2 Jan 1832 in Hamberg, Germany, a member of the Prussian Guard, he came to the USA in 1860 and settled in Red Wing, MN where he volunteered for the Civil War, served in Co H, 5th MN INF for entire war, later married Caroline Izen of Red Wing and moved to Graham for reasons of health in August 1876. He homesteaded 160 acres, built a log house and died there in 1894. He was a carpenter and crafted oak lumber, burned lime and mined coal.

"LINES ADDRESSED TO MY GRANDFATHER, Ebenezer Corliss, Yarmouth ME on his 87th birthday 9 Feb 1850, by Lucy, Taunton MA Feb 1850"

Eighty and seven long years have gone
Since thou the light first looked upon
And Time's rude hand has on thy face
Left many a deep and furrowed trace.

Yes, Grandsire, thou art wrinkled, old-
All but thy heart, that is not cold,-
For neither age, nor time can trace
Deep wrinkles there, as on thy face.

May God bless her, who by thy side
Has walked at noon, and eventide:
Whose faithfull love so many years
Has shared thy joys, thy hopes & fears.

Thy once firm step is tottering now
And white the locks upon thy brow:
Dimmed is the lustre of thine eyes
Thou'rt ripened for thy home on high.

How I in childhood lov'd to see
Thy face and climb upon thy knee:
Oft, while I set in gladness there
My hand played with thy hoary hair.

God of our Fathers: may thy care
Keep and sustain this aged pair:
Receive them when with life they're done
Their "battle fought," the "victory won."

856 John True 6 By 2391 Dr. N T True

Among the prominant settlers of Pownal, ME, was John True.

His ancester was Henry True, who emigrated from England in 1634-40 and settled in Salem MA. John was of the 6th generation. His grandfather, Jonathan True, was the first of the name in North Yarmouth Falls, and his son Jonathan was among the earliest pioneers of Pownal. John True was born in Pownal 7 Aug 1785. He was the 2d of nine children. Reared among the forests, and inured to labor, he acquired a remarkably strong physical constitution. As was the custom of the times, he spent his minority with his father on the farm, or cutting spars for the West India trade, or making boards, which were then in great demand.

On his majority he hired out with General Edward Russell, and after four years' of service, with four hundred dollars in silver he bought a forest lot adjoining the eastern border of his father's farmand cleared up for himsely a home. This was in 1809-10. He married, on 30 Nov 1810, Miss Mary Hatch, daughter of Abijah Hatch, of North Yarmouth, of whom the writer is the oldest son.

THE GAR - GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

From-Illinois Journal 13 Jul 1866, Springfield

Chaplain W J Rutledge, Methodist Minister, 14th Ill INF was tent mate of MAJ (MD) B F Stephenson, suggested that soldiers so closely allied in the fellowship of war, would desire a form of association that would preserve friendships and memories of the common trials and dangers, organized the first post of the GAR 6 Apr 1866.

"The proceedings of the convention of the Grand Army of the Republic, which met in this city yesterday will command general attention. The attendance was large and all arms of the military service were fully and ably represented.

From the resolution reported by Major General Hurlbut, it will be observed that the object of the organization is not political in a mere party sense, but is to render all material aid and assistance in supplying the wants of the widow and the fatherless, and in furnishing employment to the poor, and to those wounded in the service of our common country."

Major Stephenson called the meeting to order, appointed a committee on organization and reported the following as officers; Pres Col W B Scaste, VP MG B M Prentiss, VP BG James M True (see P 327), Sec MAJ RM Woods, Asst Sec CAP TM Thompson, and PVT Fred H Hall, Sentinel LT BF Hawkes. Membership was limited to veterans of US armed forces in the Civil War. The last meeting was held by Pres T A Penland in 1949 as the survivors in 1950 were only 9, down from 409,489 in 1890.

The Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War was organized in 1881 and chartered by an act of Congress in 1954; among the objectives ia one to perpetuate the memory of the GAR

D 4 Oct 1659 (March 1659 by most refs) Salisbury M ca 1644 in Salem or Newbury MA Israel Pike and Dorothy Daye, brother was Major Robert PiKe of Salisbury. Henry Trew emigrated from England in 1635 according to Landmarks of Monroe Co NY. 1895. He was one of the earliest sea captains who hauled molasses, from Barbados to Boston in the ketch Returne. He bought a home in Salem in 1644 for 4 pounds, five years later he bought a home near the harbor; he was granted land of about 40 acres in 1649 and again in 1653 near Salem. He moved to Salisbury after purchasing a home there in 1657 with his brother-in-law Robert Pike about a mile north of Salisbury and present Salisbury Beach was a part of his property. Israel True, Henry's widow , married Joseph Fletcher 18 Jun 1860, and the home, if still standing, may be called the Fletcher farm home. This sheet has the following data

Dear Mr. True:

Your query in the Spring 1982 SAR Magazine regarding ROBERT TRUE of Spotsylvania Co. VA has been brought to my attention.

I am trying to research and put the Spotsylvania County families together. I would be happy to exchange information on these Virginia True's with you. I descend through MARTIN TRUE born ca 1755 Spotsylvania Co. VA who married MARY HILL 1791 Halifax Co VA; went to Tennessee by 1817; died 1845 Maury Co. Tennessee. Martin True was in Pulaski Co. KY 1810. We don't know if this is our Martin or not. We are doing extensive research in Spotsylvania County and find as many as 8 Martin Trues, as well as several James and John True. If you could work with us we would be most grateful.

I have no ROBERT TRUE who married Elizabeth Davis in my files. I do have the following:

1849	Robert True married Mary Ann Beal who died 3 Nov 1852 Madison Co. AL
1850	Robert N. True (born ca 1815) married Lucy Minor

We have a deed record Lawrence Co., TN where R. N. True "sold land willed by my father, Martin True. We do not know how or IF this Robert ties to our Martin.

IF I could get all the KY families together, I feel it would help to settle who belonged to who in Spotsylvania Co.

James True went to Fayette Co. KY

John True, born Culpepper Co. VA lived Spots. Co. VA, Woodford Co., KY and was age 90 in 1832 when he lived in Oldham Co. KY. He died 1835 and left widow Margaret and a daughter Maria, who married a John True.

Also, a John True in Barren Co., Greene Co. and Fayette Co., KY. This one in Fayette lived near ROBERT TRUE.

Also John True was in Indiana then went to Arkansas. A John True was in N.C. also.

Larkin True went to Oldham and Fayette Co. KY (John and Larkin were sons of one of the Martin Trues.)

Issue of James True of Fayette Co. KY
Sophia Garrett, James, Lucy, Wm. E., Sydney S., Clairorne, and Nancy Karrick.

Possible children of John True, Sr. (not proven by me)
John, Jr. (proven), Thomas, Robert(proven), Simeon, male and female.

Proven children of Martin True who died by 1759 Spots. Co. VA:
Henry, female married Gholson, Nehemiah, female married Greenhorn, Martin, John, James and Thomas.

Children of one Martin True (proven): Others?
John and Larkin

There was a Robert True in the Revolution. See below.*

Robert True and Martin True witnessed the will of Henry Martin 1749. (Martin True married a daughter of Henry and Jane Martin.)

I hope that this might help you in some way, Mr. True and I surely HOPE that you can help us. I am publishing a book on Martin True for our family this year. We descend from his son David Hamilton True.

Robert True Pension W. 9526 I believe it is. My copy is so faded. Perhaps you have this pension. He was born 1758. His son Robert was born 1788. This is the Robert who died Clark Co., Indiana. A Mrs. Ralph Adamsby, General Delivery Cheyenne, WYO inquired about Robert True in 1939 to the Archives. The letter is included in the pension record.

Someone inquired about my Martin True in 1939 also, but I can't find her letter. She was from El Paso.

Yours truly,

Mrs. J. W. (Odessa) Isbell

TROW

Writers who have etymologized the name True include one or more who have reported that the name Trew, Trewe or True have had these and other spellings but about the time of the colonization of New England the name was spelled Trew and pronounced Trow. Now it is possible that a clerk of record wrote Trow when he heard Trew pronounced as Trow and from then on wrote it that way, so, some Trows may be de- sendants of 1 Henry Trew 1 or other Trues and, therefore, more Trows are included herin (more Trows are found on page .).

The credibility of the True-Trow connection will remain somewhat suspect until documentation can be found to improve the connection between Benjamin True to the Joseph True - Keziah Hubbard family. Perhaps better connections can be found by reviewing Hubbard, Whittier and other family genealogies.

True bad news

Father of family living in tent may have been wed to another woman

Saturday, July 2, 1977

Algonac, Mich. (UPI) — A widow whose family has been forced to live in a tent had some more bad news Friday for her six children: Their father may have been married to another woman.

Adelaida True, 36, threatened with eviction from the state park where the family has been camping out, was informed of a rival claim for the veterans' survivor benefits accrued by her late husband, income she needs to qualify for a home mortgage.

"I've always tried to make my children remember the best things about their father, but this is too much," True said.

The Philippines-born woman is now living on welfare, Social Security and a meager income from a part-time job. She said she and her husband, Frederick, an Air Force veteran, were separated at the time of his death in 1975, but not divorced.

True said she had no knowledge of any second marriage until informed of the rival claim by the Veterans Administration. She said it was the first time, after nearly a year of fruitless correspondence that the VA had explained why it had not provided survivor benefits for the family.

"I've tried to keep cool about this throughout all my trouble," True said, "but I couldn't help breaking down when I heard that."

True has been unable to rent a home since her family was evicted from its last apartment June 9. The action was taken when the landlord discovered she had three more children than indicated in her rental agreement.

Since then, she has been unable to find any other landlord willing to rent to such a large family and has been camping out in the Algonac State Park.

The family is living there on borrowed time, however, because of a state law which limits camping privileges during the peak summer season to 15 days. Rangers granted a one-week extension for the Trues Thursday.

"These children have to have a home," True said. "They need a roof over their heads."

The children, four boys and two girls, range in age from 5 to 16. The three oldest sons, like their mother, hold part-time jobs.

If all else fails, True plans to move the family tent to the backyard of a woman who has offered to provide a campsite. Another alternative is moving to a motel room as guests of the St. Clair County Social Services Department.

Lawyers sometime fail to complete divorce cases when enlisted military men transfer with their unit.

EARLY SCHOOLS OF SALISBURY, MA

In 1647 a stringent law was passed requiring every town of fifty families to maintain a school to counteract the influence of the "ould deluder."

The fatherinlaw of Henry True of Salisbury was the first schoolmaster in 1652 to teach children, only those children who do not have a knowledge of letters. There is no record of any early school buildings and therefore it was probable that the teacher went from neighborhood to neighborhood and taught in homes where he was invited to teach. The education of girls at the time was not considered to be very important so parents of girls probably made their homes available as schools so that their daughters could sit in on the classes. In effect, the teachers moved the schools to the children by carrying the meager supplies and books to the scholars instead of carying the children to school buildings as we did at Bishop and as we do now. There were no blackboards or chalk, not even slates for many years. Many books at the time consisted of only one or very few pages except where bibles were used. Small books contained only the alphabet, various rhymes, catechisms and bible verses and a few math problems. The churches at the time often took the lead in training teachers because they were often the only college educated leaders in the townships.

In the absence of lead pencils and slates and with paper at a premium, the writing was done in ink and pens were made of goosequills. naturally the writings were very small to conserve paper; spelling was studied and recited orally also to conserve paper. Lead pencils and slates were not in general use until after the war of the American Revolution. Math problems were usually done on white or light-colored birch bark and the studies of mathmatics was usually called ciphering (probably there was some science and nature studies taught as the students kept their supplies for writing and ciphering gathered up from the natural resources).

The salary of Thomas Bradbury was paid in the equivalent of 20 pounds sterling per annun and was taken out in the equivlent of the saw mill products and good quality corn, half and half. He established the pattern of teaching in Salisbury but he didn't teach for many years because he had too many other responsibilities assigned him by the various governing bodies. In fact there were times when no one did a very effective job of teaching as Salisbury was sometimes presented by the General Court as a poor example of teaching school children, not an enviable reputation.

Another line of Trues who have not connected to an emigrant ancester has been developed by Mrs Odessa Morrow Isbell and published by her titled True and Bevers 1983. 316 Morrow Road, Valley View TX 76272. The book has more than 400 given names with Martin True found on nearly 40 pages and Henry True and John True on more than 20 pages; it is well documented and illustrated with many historical items. Many "Dangling Trues" can be found, and like Henry True descendants they have pressed for the frontiers. The principle families descend from 1 Martin True B ca 1760 VA D 14 Mar 1845 M1 ? Rocky Hill meeting house

A symbol of Puritan ethic

By HARRY FARREN

AMESBURY — If ever there was a physical symbol of the Puritan ethic of our forefathers, the Rocky Hill Meeting House in this town exemplifies it.

An examination of its history verifies that it was a vital meeting place and a place of worship, and played host to some of the most important personages of that time.

On a vote taken at a town meeting in the year 1711, the original Rocky Hill Town Meeting House was built in 1716. It was located on the militia training field at the junction of Portsmouth Road and Monroe Street (then called Dark Lane).

The original location was one-half mile north of the present structure. After 69 years service, the old meeting house was in dire need of repairs. The town voted to take the building down, keeping all that was salvageable to re-erect the new meeting house at a more favorable location.

The parsonage was built a few years later across the road from the present building. It was moved to the rear of the meeting house in 1966 as it stood in the way of "progress" — the building of Interstate 495.

There was prolonged and bitter debate as to whether the new building should be constructed to the north, near the New Hampshire Province line, or to the south, where it would better serve the rapidly growing ship building community on the north bank of the Merrimack River.

After several town meetings, and over the bitter opposition of parishioners to the north, the present location was voted.

Parts transferred

All of the sound sills, timbers and beams from the old building were used to construct the new house. One of the sills, on which the foundation now rests, is about 266 years old.

While the meeting house was intended mainly for religious worship, the first event held was a town meeting on Dec. 7, 1785. It must be noted there were no heating facilities, stoves nor fireplaces in the meeting house, and if a speaker got a chilly reception — no wonder!

At this point in the historic research we run into a "mystery" which is not quaint when one delves into the historic archives of this age in our history.

The meeting house was "thought" to have been constructed by the Messrs. Palmer and Spofford of Newburyport.

The "mystery" as to whom actually did build the present meeting house has not been resolved to this date. There was, in 1785, a Timothy Palmer of Newburyport, who was an engineering genius.

In 1792 he built the first bridge across the Merrimack River at Deer Island. He was a well-known surveyor of highways and responsible in a large part in the planning of the roads and highways in Newburyport.

However, John J. Currier, Newburyport's distinguished historian, says that it was an Ambrose Palmer and Daniel Spofford who constructed the house. Currier, in his writings, feels that (maybe) Timothy Palmer was a son of Ambrose.

It must be remembered that at this point in our early history Salisbury was on the verge of a growing frontier. The Indians traded along the Merrimack and the Powow Rivers. Ferries from the south river bank in Newburyport landed travelers to New Hampshire at the foot of Main Street.

In 1789, three years before the first bridges were built across the mighty river, Gen. George Washington stopped at the Rocky Hill Meeting House to be greeted by parishioners on the rocky slopes. Washington was on his way to visit his former secretary, Tobias Lear, who had established residence in Portsmouth, N.H.

Harvard ministers

There is a fascinating bit of history here in that all of the able ministers who served the parish were Harvard graduates until the year 1835.

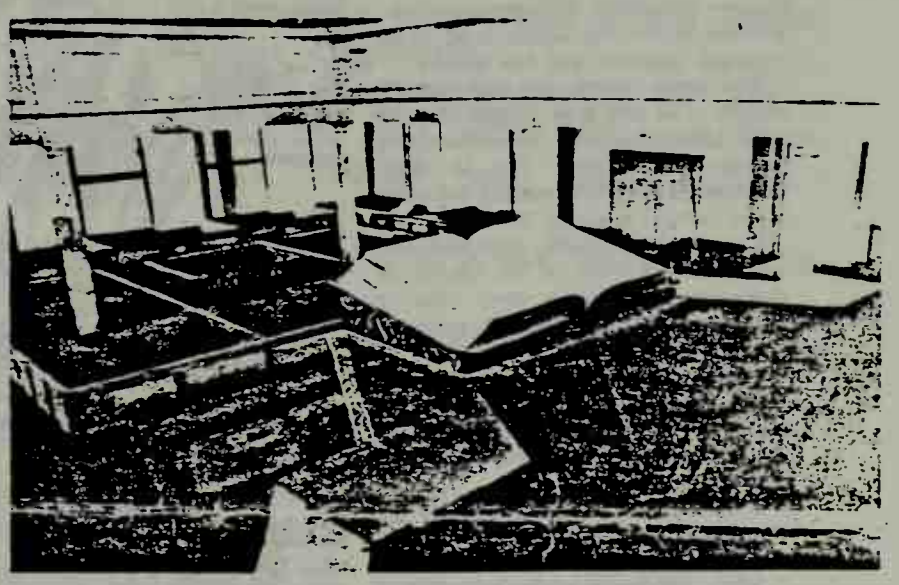
The most famous of those preachers was Dr. Samuel Webster, whom many of the parishioners felt was more interested in preaching patriotism and love of country and a unity of spirit than in the teachings of the Bible that rested on his pulpit.

Among those who attended the good doctor's services were the Eastmans from Salisbury with their daughter Abigail. Dr. Webster's influence on her as a young woman must have been intense.

Abigail Eastman was baptized in the church in 1739. She lived her whole life in that parish. In 1774 she was married in the church to Ebenezer Webster whose wife had died and left him with three small children and 225 acres of farmland to attend.

As stated before, this was the frontier, a wilderness. Education was hard to come by. The father was toiling from sunup to sundown, so, it was the mother's chore to care for her adopted children and the boy to whom she had given birth, Daniel Webster.

THE ROCKY HILL MEETING HOUSE (Buck Howe)



THE VIEW from the pulpit not only gives an indication of the height of it as it towers above the floor below, but also gives an excellent view of the individual box pews. (Buck Howe)

No one, we suppose, can really tell, but Daniel Webster, who became one of the great orators and patriots of our time, might well have received his initial education from the words that had burned into his mother's mind from Dr Webster's preachings on the vaulted pulpit.

Church, a must

Church attendance was not a matter of choice in those early years. It was a criminal offense not to attend. Early records show imprisonment for such a violation. In view of this stern approach by the town fathers, those who did attend felt quite free to censure their pastors if, in their regard, they stepped out of line of their duties.

At a town meeting vote in 1778, one section read: "With due respect and regard to our reverend ministers, it is the opinion of the town that our reverend ministers are deficient in preaching some of the more important doctrines of the gospel

All was not reverence for the very reverends as witnesses this poem directed to the men of cloth who occupied the pulpits of all churches

Then flip and toddy, though in common use
Were very seldom coupled with abuse.
E'en ministers and deacons take their gin.
And in so doing thought it not a sin
Aduiteration now in various ways.
Its foul deception on the public plays.
And spurious drinks at last have overcome
The oldtime use of Caldwell's famous rum

The successive members of the parish that embraced the Rocky Hill Meeting House had witnessed the opening of a new frontier in what was a raw wilderness It had men who fought in the French and Indian Wars The War of the Revolution had seen its men march off to Concord and Lexington in defiance of British tyranny It had seen its men conscripted into the ranks of the North in the Civil War

doomed Church

Rocky Hill Meeting House by the year 1853 was a doomed church. No church can survive as a functioning entity when placed in open country between two communities

The Rev Benjamin Sawyer was its last regular pastor It was at this time in our country s history that the slave and anti-slave factions were at each others throats

On entering this temple, which saw so much of the turmoil that surrounded our growing nation, one stands awed at its religious, aesthetic and raw beauty.

The pulpit seems to soar toward heaven. The raw pine compartmented pews are etched with the scribings of parishioners. There are 55 compartmented pews each bearing the name of the family to occupy them

The balcony, which embraces two sides and the front of the church, is supported by massive wood columns with marble-like paint as a facsimile of Gothic columns

Stout gunstocking that runs from the sills to the eaves supports this towering structure. Its windows let vast light into the interior which lacked other sources of heat and light

It is a remarkable building as solid as the outcroppings of ledge on which it is built.

While it no longer serves parochial or civic functions, it will always be a part of the lives of hundreds of men and women who worshipped there, who cast the votes at town meetings, who shed tears at funerals and smiled with joy at weddings.

Rocky Hill Meeting House, now owned by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, is a living symbol of Americana

from
The Salem Evening News from 1626

1626-Salem is settled-Discontent breaking out among those comprising the settlement at Cape Ann, Roger Conant and companions came and settled Salem in 1626. In the Conant party were James Lyford, a minister John Woodbury, John Balch, Peter Palfrey, Richard Norman and his son, William Allen and Walter Knight.

They landed at a place known as Massey,s Cove, near what is now Skerry Street. The settlement was first known as Naumkeag, the name of a tribe of Indians inhabiting this territory.

Shortly after arriving, Lyford headed a movement to go to Virginia and join the colonists there, but Conant prevailed upon his followers to remain with him. Lyfrod however, left for Virginia and died soon after reaching there.

Owing to conditions in the settlement in 1627, John Woodbury was dispatched to England to make known the difficulties under which the settlement was being maintained.

1628-Arrival of John Endecott-The visit of Woodbury to England and the work done by Rev. John White, a resident there and and firm friend of Conant, aroused interest in that country in the settlement of Naumkeag.

A grant, covering the settlement at Naumkeag and much additional territory, was secured by Sir Henry Roswell, John Endecott and others.

After securring the grant, these men selected John Endecott to come to the new country and look after their interest, and so, in June, 1628, Endecott set sail in the "Abigail," accompanied by his good wife and a band of emigrants. They arrived in Salem and landed on Sep 6, 1628, old style.

Conant and companions gathered on one shore to receive them, Indians thronging the other shore to witness the scene, must have presented a striking picture to the new comers.

Endecott, from his arrival, assumed entire charge of the affairs of the colony.

1628-Town divided into house lots- Gov. Endecott, shortly after he arrivedin the settlement in 1628, commenced laying the land out in house lots.

Washington Street was the first street laid out, and was about four rods wide. It connected the North and South Rivers and the primitive streets which ran along their banks, at a point at a point where they approached nearest together.

The first houses erected in Salem were evidently in what is now the center of the city. The house of Gov, Endecott, which was brought from the old settlement at Cape Ann, was located upon what is now the site of the Federal Theatre, and was the best house in the colony.

On the highest land in the central part of the settlement, a fort was built, being situated near the western corner of Lynde and Sewall streets.

1629-Higginson, Skelton and others arrive-A charter having been granted and Endicott dispatched to the new country, the company hastened to send others to the new colony across the water. On June 29, 1629 the "Talbot" with four ather sail anchored in the harbor off Naumkeag. Abord the Talbot among others were Rev. Francis Higginson and Rev. Samuel Skelton, while the entire company was made up of 50 women, 26 children, 300 men and some 140 head of cattle. The ships also brought many supplies of all kinds. In one of Higginson's letters, written to a friend in the old country, soon after his arrival, he states: "Namkecke" contained at that time about half a score of houses, built, and a fayre house newly built for the Governor, and that in all, about 200 planters were settled here.

1629-First church organized-Immediately after the arrival of Higginson and Skelton the first church in the settlement was organized, the date being August 6, 1629, and Rev. Samuel Skelton was chosen as its pastor, while the Rev. Francis Higginson was elected as its teacher. The society which was formed was the first Congregational society in America, and was independent of all other affiliations, having its powers and authority within itself. The first meeting house was erected on land that had been granted to William Lord, situated on what is now best known as Low's Corner, in Town House square, the very heart of the city.

The First church society continued until a few years ago to occupy this same spot but after its consolidation with the North society, under the name of First Church, it removed to the old North Church on Essex, just above North street, the site of the original church being sold to Daniel Low and Co.

1629-First use of Ballot-Upon the arrival of Higginson and Skelton, Gov. Endecott set apart July 20, 1629, "to be a solemn day of humilitation for the choice of a pastor and a teacher at Salem."

The vote was taken by each one writing in a note the name of his choice. Such was thethe origin of the use of the balot in this country. Rev. Samuel Skelton was chosen in this manner as the paston of the colony and Rev. Francis Higginson was selected as the teacher.

Hardly a gathering in the country today, when officers are chosen, but what resorts to the easy and convenient method of selection by ballot, that is, writing the name of one's choice on a slip of paper.

It is well to remember that this idea, now a custom throughout the country, originated in Salem.

1629-Name Chaneg to Salem-Sometime previous to July 24, 1629, and shortly after the arrival of Rev. Francis Higginson, the settlement of the colony had its name changed from Naumkeag to Salem.

1630-John Winthrop is next-Difficulties arising, owing to the Governor of the plantation, not the colony, being in London, caused the company to select John Winthrop to be resident governor, and he, with a company of emigrants, after a stormy passage, arrived at Salem in the "Arabella" on June 12, 1630. During the winter, consumption , then as now, a dreaded disease, had taken a heavy toll, for more than 80 had died, and many others were in a weak and sickly condition.

Winthrop, therefore, got a bad impression of the settlement, which was added to when his son was drowned in attemptin to cross what is now the North riverto visit an Indian Encampment, and so early in August, following trips of exploration, he removed to Charlestown, where he established the seat of government.

1634-Endecott cuts Croww from Flag-in what is now Town House Square was enacted a scene during the early part of 1634, which went down in history. John Endecott cut the rec cross from the ensign of England. This bold act of Endecott's was secretly approved by the leading men of the colony. However, it was feared that serious consequences might follow, for in England the act was considered one of rebellion, so Endecott was summoned before the court, which recommended that he be admonished and left out of office for a year.

A famous Salem Author thus sums up the incident: "We look back through the mist of ages, and recognize in the rending of the Red Cross from New England's banner, the first omenof that deliverance which our fathers consummated after the bones of the stearn Puritan had lain more than a century in the dust."

1635-1757-Salem Split into Many Sections-Salem originally covered much territory, but early in its history, various sections were set off and incorporated into towns.

In 1635 Salem was said to comprise the territory now covered by Beverly, Peabody, Marblehead, danvers, Middleton, and Manchester, and portions of Topsfield, Lynn and Wenham. Thus it will be seen that what is now called Greater Salem was in reality, once a portion of the lod place, always the center of the territory. The first records of Salem a "Book of Grants" is dated Oct. 1, 1637 and the first town records has the first entry under the date of Dec. 26, 1636. Roger Williams succeded Rev. Skelton as pastor of First church but was driven into exile in November because he preached the separation of church and state.

1637-Rev. Hugh Peter became minister in 1637 and he became interested in the promotion of business which led to the establishment of warehouses and the fishing business on Fish Street and Winter Island. Houses of entertainment soon followed. He went to England on business, got mixed up in politics, was hung, disemboweled, quartered and exhibited in four large cities and his head was raised on London Bridge. John Fisk was the first teacher of the public school the same year public school was established in Boston. The persecutions of others than the Puritan belief ended in 1637; Samuel Shattuck secured a manifesto from the King, addresed to Gov. Endecott prohibited inhumane treatment of Quakers.

Dear Mr. True:

Because there was a duplication in your request for two inventories of the records available in the Salt Lake Genealogical Library from Filby, we are refunding $12.00 of your deposit.

re: Arthur HULEN, Rowan Co., NC

The North Carolina section of the International Genealogical Index shows the 1814 marriage of an Arthur Hulin to a Tabitha Hulin, but does not give a county where this marriage took place. We also located one Hulen family history in the Library, but we found no mention of Arthur Hulen in the Family Group Record Archives.

Although many of the records available in the Library from Rowan county appear to begin too late to be of value in this particular case, the records of the court of pleas and quarter sessions and the court of equity may contain data linking Arthur to his parnets.

re: Henrie TRUE, Huddersfield, York, England

No entry for your Henrie True was found in either the Yorkshire section of the I.G.I. or in the Family Archives, and only two family histories for True families in England were found in the Library. The Library also has an excellent collection of records from Huddersfield. Of these, the registers of the Anglican Church and the early wills appear most likely to include information on your True family.

re: John TREWE, Filby, Norfolk, England

Again, we found no entry for John Trewe in either the Norfolk section of the I.G.I. or in the Family Archives, nor did we locate any family histories for Trewe families in England. As with the Huddersfield records, the early wills and Church of England registers from Filby appear most likely to be of assistance in locating members of the Trewe family in that town.

The enclosed brochure discusses our in-depth research services and fees. If you would like us to assist you with in-depth research on your families in England and North Carolina, we'll be happy to help you.

"I did extensive research on Henry during the 2 years I lived in England. I visited Filby several times and went to the parish church he attended. It is a partially thatched-roof building sitting in the middle of this quaint old village.

"He was the only Henry True living in the Filby, Norfolk County, of England, who came to America.

"He was married to a Mary Newell and had a daughter, Ann.

"Possibly because he was a master of a ship later on, he came from England by way of the West Indies and his first wife and child became ill and died.

LITCHFIELD, MAINE, CEMETERIES

From a report by Kermit R True, Gardiner, Maine, 6 Mar 1975 to a reunion. The report was made from a breakout of survey sponsored by the DAR of Hallowell. It is on file at the state library in Augusta and was made about 1930.

Litchfield was taken from the Smith brothers plantation first settled by two Smiths and a Mr Tibbetts with titles from the Plymouth Company with grants from King James I of England issued in 1606 and renewed in 1620.

A history of Kennebec County of 1892 reports that a burying ground called Grant was about a mile from Bachelder's Tavern contained wives of two named True.

ENGLISH RECORDS

From time to time, the Church of England required parishners to record all births, burials and marriages in 1536, with a copy to the Bishop. In some shires, particularly Stafford, the church records have been indexed and published. A 1628 ENGLISH LAW SUIT presided over by John Winthrop, from his notebook of cases before the Court of the Kings Wards established by King Henry VIII. Wardship was an element of feudal tenure; the feudal Lord owed his vassal protection, maintenance, justice, assistance, etc., and the vassal owed service. In one suit, Charles Trew, MA, Oxford, rector of Abington, County Northampton, for two months in 1628, sued Sir Edmundus Hampden.

KING PHILIP'S WAR 1675 - 1676

Many Indian tribes were involved with the English as they settled New England including the Wampanoags with Massasoit, an early friend. As the white settlement grew some colonist were unreasonable, acting somewhat on their own and led others into conflict. Metacmet followed his father and brother as chief (the sachem) in 1662 and he finally reacted with an all-out war following a hanging by the whites of two Indians. Three Indians with Tobias as leader killed another Indian and stood trial 29 Jan 1674 instead of leaving the punishment to the Indian chief who by this time was known as Philip. Two Indians were hanged and Philip set himself up as King Philip and began a systematic confrontation demonstration ending with an Indian getting killed by a white defender and the beginning of "King Philip's War." 1,000 Indians defended themselves, killing 60 to 70 Englishmen from 23 Jun 1675 until August 1676 when King Philip was ambushed. The above group was killed 26 Mar 1676 and commanded by CPT M. Pierce.

CYRUS TRUE HOUSE
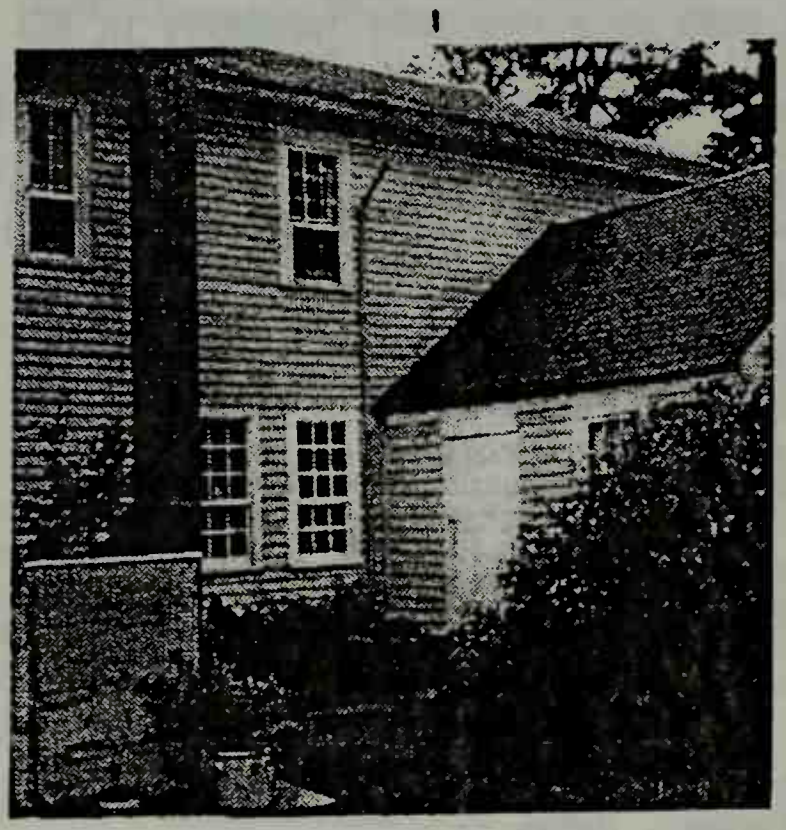
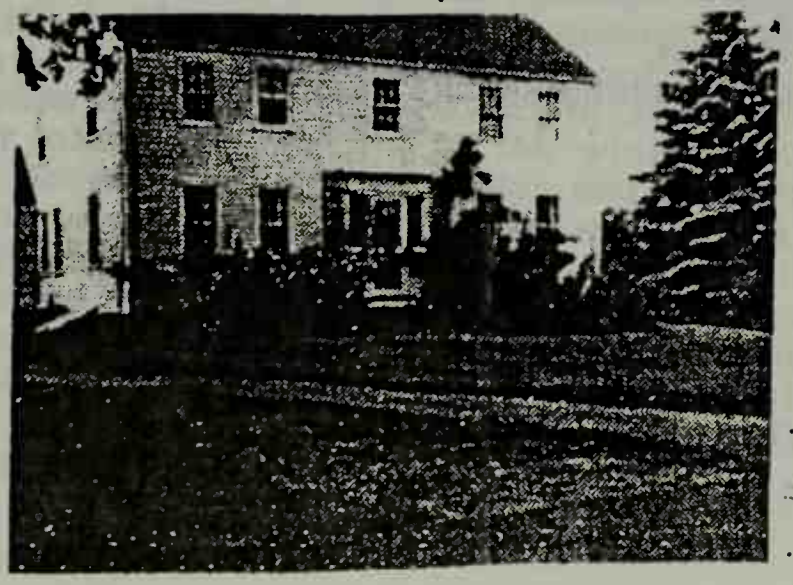
Amesbury, Mass.

Built in early 1800's reportedly in part from an earlier house which was moved across the street. The shed like part at the rear may be part of the house built by Wm. True (3rd generation) before 1734. It has fine wood panneling indicating that it was not built for a wood shed or dairy house.

The main part of the house has several fireplaces, one a beehive oven. Over the mantle is a "King's Board", 4 - 5 feet long, and over 23" wide. These belonged to the King, were marked with a crown and arrow ( ) and could not legally be kept by ordinary citizens.



When the house was remodeled the 6 - 9 windows (6 panes below and 9 above) were left in the rear part of the house. The Cyrus True, after whom the house is named, was the 7th generation whose lineage was through Henry, Henry, Wm. Winthrop, Moses and Wm. At present the house is owned by Mrs. Herbert W. Sears, great, great granddaughter of Cyrus True. We are advised that the Amesbury Historical Assn. has this house high on its priority list for a detailed historical study.



The Everett True House

On True Road at the north end of Salisbury, Mass. is one of the remaining houses among several identified as having been built by Trues. It was probably built around 1800, and is still occupied by Clara True, widow of Everett and daughter Barbara.

The lineage of Everett True is Henry, Henry, Jabez, Samuel Jabez, John, George, Alston

A VISIT TO McCONNELLSVILLE, OHIO

9309 Charles Wesley True, Jr.[10] and his wife, Katherine Moore Woodard True visited the Evelyn True Button Museum in McConnelsville, Ohio on 13 September 1989. Charles was given open access of the remaining records of the Museum and was delighted to find a few items that have not been reported elsewhere in this publication including a letter written by Dr. Henry Ayer True (see page 67, 585 DR HENRY AYER TRUE 6) which indicates the careful work he did to make his portion of this book entitled to credit; selections follow.

Annie Augusta Clarke, 639 Congress Street, Portland, Maine wrote a letter to Dr. Hiram True which included the following comments: 1. she resided at the above address and at a summer home at Pond Cove, Cape Elizabeth; 2. she knew of Dr. H. A. True's manuscript and wrote to Mr. Harry True, his son, but he seemed unwilling to make a decision to do any thing with it at the time (a note included in the envelope noted that he had several copies made); 3. She received a copy (typed) from Mr. P. A. True; 4. she said that she hoped to have her book ready within a year.

A standard office file-storage file box contained a wide assortment of letters, tablets and other varied genealogical type collections of Evelyn.

A worn copy of a chart prepared by Dr. H. A. True with the four generations of 1 Henry True - Israel Pike descendants was reviewed.

A letter from Dr. T. J. Trew of Cog Hill, McMinn County, 17 Dec 1873, to Dr. H. A. True thought the 'chart' should be rewritten, but he did not provide his own genealogy (at least it couldn't be found as it might show the connections between the Tennessee Trews and the Salem Trews).

On 21 Mar 1873 Dr. Henry True thought there was very little interest in True genealogy ten years ago but his interest and the interest of others had changed and that it had become a labor of love.

Several correspondants suggested that the 'manuscript' be published but no one came up with a funding plan, even by dropping a suggested plan from 300 copies to 200, indications were that Mrs. A. A. Clarke worked on it until about 1925 although the location of her file was not provided. One note indicated that Dr. True of Marion had sent her all he had and placed responsibility on her for getting out the history that had been started 'almost a hundred years before.' Perhaps some one can find the detailed finalized history there in Maine.

A letter from George A. True, Attorney, Fort Clinton, OH, 3 Aug 1901 to Dr. H. L. True, McConnelsville, 'We reported to Miss Clark some time ago all we knew of the family history; i've had one son, George Oliver True born since then.'

A letter from H. D. True 7 Mar 1912, Bend, OR, 'His father, William H. True came to Wisconson from New York about 1840 with ten children.'

Oliver Eaton wrote that his father's will in 1803 provided for Martha and that Ephraim abandoned his wife in 1985 and went to parts unknown.

Another letter said that Martha's father was well to do but didn't leave her much and provided that the youngest son look after her the rest of her life unless Ephraim came back for her.

Dr. H. A. True indicated that the 'first Henry True had seven children, although only three grew to maturity. Also, He went to New Foundland in 1659 and was never heard of afterwards.'

A note: Makes me think of Lloyd George's speech-'Always too late.'

C Wesley True sent Dr. H. A. True his genealogy.

Wes True of Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania indicated that he moved from Ohio and had relatives in or near Marietta .

A letter from Lydia Porter to Dr. H. True,' PS: For fear you cannot understand Grandmother's name i will write it again Mercy Eaton.' from Cleopatria, Mercer Co, misore. feb the 22 1870. Also, When you get the history ciphered out write and tell me all about it, be sure to sa.

A letter by Dr. H. A. True 4 Aug 1873, discussed 'a bid for 500 copies, 200 pp at $1.50 per page. Total $3 X 500 at 200 pp = $1500. Suggest bid for 300 cps instead. The bid was made by Oliver Eaton of East Salisbury, 15 Oct 1873.'

The suggested title was "The Genealogy and Memorial of the True Family" and that it should be rewritten. 17 Dec 1873. Concurred by Deacon Jabez True.

Letter from Annie A. Clarke, 639 Congress Street, Portland, ME to H. L. True of Williamsport, Indianna, son of Ephraim or sons Josiah or Abner. Mr. Charles F. True of Decatur, Ind son of Herod J. True who died in 1871 was of Williamsport. Father of Thomas J. True was brother of Charles F. True's father and Thomas moved west. Dr. True had Thomas J. True's descendants in Ottawa, Ill. Almira True Woodworth's daughter is Almira J. Brooks, Sherman, Cherokee County, Kansas. One of his typho - written copies was sent to Mr. P. A. True of Sallsbury last spring.

D. Trew taught school in Iron Point or near Shawnee in Perry County, OH about 1914.

John True married Jane Dalby 25 December 1836 in Harrison County, OH by David Bower, JP.

Ohio Anecdotes

First Physician

By Gilbert F. Dodds

THE first physician to make the Northwest territory his life-long home was Dr. Jabez True, of New Hampshire, who came to the far western country early in the summer of 1788, and settled at Marietta.

The settlement was only a few months old, very small, and the country was one vast wilderness. Dr. True seems to have been of the same sturdy stuff as those who came before him. He built himself a log cabin to be used as an office and settled himself to business. At that time he was unmarried and almost an entire stranger to the settlers.

When the Indian war broke out in 1791, Dr. True was appointed surgeon's mate to the troops mustered into service, with a salary of $22 a month. He held this appointment until the close of the war. In 1793 smallpox broke out in the settlement at Farmer's Castle, some 12 miles below Marietta, and a call was sent to Dr. True to come down and innoculate the settlers. Dr. True, traveling by canoe, accepted the invitation and out of 100 cases, but two died.

Settlers increased and spread out over the country. Dr. True, following Indian trails, extended his visits to them, swimming his horse across the swollen streams. He died in 1823 of the prevailing epidemic fever.

Hiram L. True was born June 4, 1845 in Dover Twp., Athens County, Ohio. He enlisted in Co A, 128th OVI, June 26, 1863. He married November 8, 1865, Julia G. Weethee born Oct. 14, 1844 and died January 23, 1869. They moved to Missouri where their son, Marcos Weethee True was born March 23, 1867. Hiram returned to Ohio with his infant son in 1869 and graduated from the Cincinnati Eclectic Medical College in 1871 with the degree of M.D. He located in McConnelsville, Ohio. On April 29, 1874 he married Helen E. Moore, born Nov. 11, 1846, daughter of Honerable James Moore and Rebecca McConnel, daughter of General Robert McConnel, who founded McConnelsville, and his wife, Mary Adams.

Before the time of the County Agricultural Agents, Dr. True worked hard to improve the grasses of Morgan County. He secured the right to plant samples of different grasses within the center of the racing track at the fair grounds and during fairs he had many farmers compare the grasses. He is the author of "The Cause of the Glacial Period" and was a member and the only president until his death October 22, 1912.

He married Mrs. Martha Hatfield of Cincinnati Feb 14, 1887. His daughter Augusta was born May 21, 1877 and died October 5, 1949. His daughter Evelyn was born January 26, 1875.

DR. H. L. TRUE, President.

It is a safe assertion to declare that there are few if any places in which a greater interest is taken in matters scientific than is shown right here in the twin cities of McConnelsville and Malta. There have been for generations past persons who delved more than ordinarily deep into matters pertaining to that subject of largest interest—the world in which we live, which offers limitless opportunity for reasoning from effect to cause, and for speculating upon processes set up on the way from inception to completion.

With the scientifically inclined there has long been an idea that haphazard individual research would be more useful and valuable to the "cult" as well as the community if the seekers after nature knowledge would combine their interests and be answerable for their findings to a body who could and would apply the microscope of investigation to the matter at hand. Looking along this line, several gentlemen of this city met on July 1st and discussed the feasibility of organizing a society for scientific research with the result that "The Morgan County Scientific Association" found its birth; and application to the Secretary of State for articles of incorporation was immediately made. The document, granting corporated life to the concern by the State, was duly received, and the applicants at once perfected their organization by the election of officers, who are as follows: Dr. H. L. True, president; Professor J. M. Richardson, vice president; Stanbery Alderman, secretary; Irven Travis, treasurer.

The plan of the society, briefly stated, is to encourage the study and preservation of Morgan county's antiquities and its history, and to provide for the preservation of scientific data and valuable articles relating thereto. It is expected to promote and maintain a library wherein shall be books, manuscripts, maps, curios of plant life, minerals, in fact anything in nature which may be a part of Morgan county as contributed by nature. This library and museum will in the course of time be accessible to members of the society

Another object of the society—a most laudable one—is to locate and mark in an appropriate manner, places of local historic interest, such as the site of Big Bottom Massacre, and the graves of the Revolutionary soldiers whose remains rest in Morgan county, also the graves of noted Morgan county men about whose names are associated deeds of valor on fields of action, or who have won distinction along the quieter paths of peace.

A collection of specimens of every kind of plant and animal life will be made, and as soon as possible a catalog with numbers corresponding with the specimens, will be published for the benefit of all persons interested.

The library will partake of the nature of a public library, and it is expected that a nucleous will be established by donations and cash subscription for purchasing volumes; the institution to be maintained later by the society.

The membership fee is fixed at one dollar a year, payable in advance; all members to receive such publications as the society may issue, free of charge.

Any resident of Morgan county, or others interested in any way with its scientific life may become a member of the society.

The persons who are at the head of this movement need no introduction to the citizens of Morgan county, as they are all well known men of prominence in their various walks in life. Dr. True is one of the most noted scientists in the State, being a member of The Ohio Academy of Science, and having contributed much valuable literature relating to scientific research. He is noted also as being the author of a new theory in regard to the glacial period.

Professor Richardson is the superintendent of McConnelsville's public schools, an educator of large ability, and a lecturer of high standing and great popularity throughout the State.

Mr. Irven Travis has been connected with the Government for several years and has been identified prominently with the affairs of this community.

Mr. C. L. Alderman is cashier of the Citizens National Bank, of this city, and is well known to the people of Morgan county.

Mr. Stanbery Alderman is one of McConnelsville's rising young men, who is especially interested in scientific research. He will act as librarian and curator of the society.

It is hoped by the organizers that the society may become popularized by a large membership. The very small fee is by no means exclusive, and the society should find a ready and hearty support from all good citizens.

The movement is one looking in the right direction and it should be, and no doubt will be, the means of sending many a ray of light into dark places.

Morgan county is rich in nature's varied gifts to man—many of them unique in the extreme; and her citizens will do well to further discover their causes and their uses, and conserve the public good by perpetuating accounts of them in enduring records for the enlightenment of men and women yet unborn.—MORGAN COUNTY LEADER.

It is a long, narrow building and perhaps his doctoring office and later his family records office. Let's look and report.

The True-Stengel Museum probably is on Church Street in Marietta, Ohio.

RE: Pages 557 and 564. The reference to 132 pages of legal size paper perhaps was the basis for pages 1 through 142 in this book. You may notice that 225 pages (written on insurance paper) could add from 225 to 300 additional pages. An unsuccessful search was made for this additional section. perhaps these pages could be in the basement of the former home of Dr. H. A. True, or in the collection made by MS Clark who intended to publish or they may be found later. CWT. (Also, no potraits were found.)

Ephraim True's last deed in Warren N.H. was July 9 1790. He must have returned to Seabrook after this. I don't know how long he stayed there. He sold out there & came to Ohio. It was just his boys out to trade & for coming here. My Gt. grandfather Josiah True was bound out to a silver smith. The boys didn't like it, & soon joined their father out here. Charles, son of Ephraim remained in the East. Ephraim & his son Josiah, bought land in 1797 in Wash. Co. O. Josiah soon sold his to his father & removed to Athens Co. He was Justice of the Peace in Dover Twp. Athens Co. for 30 yrs. These boys must have been educated above the average in those days. Ephraims son John was one of the first school teachers in Wash. Co. Later he was Justice. Many of the early marriages in & around Marietta were performed by him. I found in the Court House at Marietta many Deeds that had been settled with Ephraim True as executor. He seemed to be prominent there, in Salem Twp. where he lived. I have an original deed where Ephraim sells land in Jackson Co. O. to Josiah Ephraim was a good penman. Thomas Eaton, father of Mercy Eaton True, was well to do. He was a ship builder. He didn't leave Mercy anything except some household goods. Aaron & Wm. got Thomas' farm & Thomas in structed them, in his will, to give a home to their sister Martha True, until her husband, Ephraim True returned. Martha d. abt 1803. Aaron was mighty sore because he had to look after Mercy. As Mercy had un bended her share of the estate, we couldn't blame Aaron but he & Wm. got the lions share with the provision that Martha was to have a home there, where her father had always lived. Wm. Bryant got the proverbial one dollar. Aaron was the baby of the family & probably two fathers pet.

This was far away from Scioto Co. in those days & no way for them to get back. Thomas d. 1797. The Trues out here didn't know that Martha had received nothing & they always said there was money left there for their death. Now what are we going to do about it? We would at least like to get a MSS. history of the descendants of Ephraim True. I think probably Dr. True kept a copy of what he had! His son is a banker in Marion. I have heard that he was going to publish a history of the Trues.

Makes me think of Lloyd George's speech of a few days ago. "Always too late.

Dear

Marion O. July 9. 1875

I wrote some time ago to Melvin C. Fuse of Lower Salem, Washington Co. O. enquiring as to the age of Ephraim Fuse when he died in 1836. It seemed to me that a grave stone or neighbors could tell whether he was 79 or 89 when he died. He has not answered yet, except by a Postal card, saying he was waiting for some information & would reply "next week."

The Salisbury record says Ephraim was born Dec. 28. 1756. There is no mistake as to what the record is, as I have taken the trouble to have it verified lately. But I still suspect there is an original mistake in the record, & I give you my reasons.

1. Martha Eaton was b. Jan. 1. 1749. It is extremely probable he would have married one seven years older than himself, though it is possible.

2. ~~As he was born in 1773, Ephraim would have been but 17 yrs. old~~ & must have been married while he was 16; not probable.

3. It is said he was the 6th settler of Warren, N. H. in 1768 or 9, when he would have been but 12 or 13 yrs. old, which is not probable, hardly possible.

4. In the history of Warren N.H. sometime after this he is spoken of as a stalwart man, & having half a dozen towheaded children & to have been Ensign in the company in 1780. This would not be very probable, if he was born in 1756. And I think this last fact discredits the story of the ride he was on at Bunkerhill. The people in N. H. were very patriotic, & would be apt to know just the status of every man about them at that time.

I think they made a blunder in the record probably of ten years, & that his birth should have been recorded 1746. Now the grave stone ought to tell whether he was 79 or 89 at his death, or if there is no stone, his relatives or neighbors ought to know.

Dont you know somebody living near where Ephraim died who can tell something one way or the other, to decide this question?

I have completed the recording of the genealogy and to revise, compare + index. I can for a time get new matter by slips or re-write in case of necessity new sheets. But the back of the labor is broken." And now comes the question of publication. Dea. Jabez of Salisbury proposed to form a stock company for the purpose, as was done in the case of the Holdingham genealogy. I think that family raised $2000 for publication purposes, expecting to be reimbursed by sales. My impression is that not more than a $1000 would be required for the printing on the Ives genealogy. Different members of the family could subscribe stock according to their means, or disposition. Dea. Jabez, I think, said he could advance $100. Do you think your pastor would be disposed to help in this way? And will you ascertain?

I may say that there are about 132 pages of legal Cap which the printer estimates at two pages to one of printed matter. Then about 225 pages of Insurance paper sheets which are estimated at page for page, making say 300 pages. A lithographer at St. Louis will make 500 impressions of 10 portraits each at $20 or $21 for each one, according to the paper used. It has been proposed that each one who would like to have his portrait in the book shall pay this amount for himself. Dr. N. T. Ives of Oswego, N.Y. Prof. in the Normal School & Natural Science, says he will be one. Do you feel disposed to be another?

Yours Truly

Extracted from a letter to 9140 Arthur Webster True from 7311-2 Donna Sue McCaray Perry dated 28 May 1979: "I did extensive research on Henry during the two years I lived in England. He was the only Henry True living in The Filby, Norfolk County of England who came to America. Henry's father and mother were John and Jane Trew of Caistor-on-Sea, England. Henry married Mary Newell and had daughter Ann. Possibly because he was a master of a ship later on, he came from England by way of the West Indies and his first wife and child became ill and died. I went to Filby several times and went to the Parish church that he attended. It is a partially thatched roof-building setting in the middle of this quaint old building."

Dear Cousin Charles,

Here is an up-date to my letter of the 27th January.

The Maritime Museum and Lloyds were unable to help, but I did get a lead from the College of Arms. Enclosed is their answer to my query and my reply. Both are self-explanatory.

How are you doing on your side?

Keep well.

Sincerely,

T. WOODCOCK

Dear Mr True,

Thank you for your letter of the 16th of February and cheque for $100.

A search has been made in the College's official records and I must at once report that the result is most disappointing as there are no entries of your surname recorded here.

Between 1530 and 1689 the Heralds visited the counties of England and Wales approximately every thirty years recording the arms and pedigrees of families of gentry resident in each county. This system was known as the Heralds' Visitations and the original Visitation Books are kept here and form part of the College's official records. No entries of your surname under any obvious variant spelling are recorded. Since 1672 the complete text of every grant of arms has been kept in a consecutive series of volumes now numbering 150 and each containing between one and two hundred grants. Again none are to anyone of your surname. Before 1672 the College relies on the notebooks of the Kings of Arms and Heralds which record approximately a further 9,000 grants. Again none of these contain a grant to anyone named True/Trew. Between approximately 1550 and 1700 the Heralds organised funerals and the records of these funerals are preserved here. Again none relate to anyone of your surname. Since the end of the Heralds' Visitation system it has been for families to come to the College of Arms to record pedigrees. In cases where pedigrees are recorded evidence in the form of certificates of birth, marriage and death, parish register entries, etc., must be produced to support the descent. Approximately 20,000 pedigrees have been recorded but none contain any entries of your surname. I note that you wrote in your letter of the 27th of January that Captain Henry True was probably born in Norfolk or Yorksnire. The search was extended to printed sources and I notice in C.E.Banks's Topographical Dictionary of 2885 English Emigrants to New England, 1620-1650, on page 116, of which I enclose a photocopy, that a Henry True is stated to have come from Filby in Norfolk. As far as I am aware only the marriages from Filby have been printed and I enclose a photocopy of these. I notice entries of a John Trewe marriage in 1561/2 and Henrie True in 1615. This latter entry might relate to the parents of Captain Henry True who settled in Massachusetts between 1630 and 1640 and I wonder whether the original baptismal registers of Filby have been searched to see whether they contain an entry of Henry True or whether work has been done in testamentary records in Norfolk to try to establish the descent.

A search was also made in the College's Ordinaries of Arms which arrange arms according to design and this revealed that the coat was not registered here for any other family. The earliest unofficial printed source in which the coat appears attributed to a family of Trew is Robson's British Herald of 1830. It does not appear in Berry's Encyclopaedia of Heraldry, undated but probably of 1828, nor is it in Edmondson's Heraldry of 1780. Mottoes do not technically form part of a grant of arms as legal property cannot be granted over words. This means that they may be changed from generation to generation. Despite this families tend to retain the same motto and many books of mottoes exist. Elvin's Dictionary of Mottoes attributes the motto to the Order of St.Henry. The only Orders that I can find of St.Henry are one in Haiti and the other in Saxony although Carlisle's Foreign Orders of Knighthood, published in 1839, gives the motto of the latter as VIRTUTI IN BELLO. Fairbairn's Book of Crests, 1904, attributes both the crest and motto to J.P.Trew of Maple Lodge, Surbiton, Surrey and I suspect that the arms, crest and motto were invented by a member of this family living in Surrey in the early nineteenth century and that they have subsequently been attributed to other families of the surname. I should, however, be most interested if there is any earlier historical basis for use of this coat by families of this surname.

Yours sincerely,

Thomas Woodcock.

TREW FAMILY

H. S. Ritter

Several years ago, papers of the estate of Phebe F. Trew of Las Vegas, Nevada were acquired by the Clark County, Nevada Genealogical Society. The papers were given to Mrs. Thomas McEwen by Miss Trew before her death and Mrs. McEwen and Mr. Charles E. Recker gave them to the Ohio Genealogical Society since no relatives of Miss Trew were known in Nevada at the time of her death. The genealogical information contained in these papers follows:

A marriage license dated 20 March 1864, Parish of Llauhileth, County of Monmouth, Wales unites Edward Trew, "of full age", a collier, with Margaret Nicholas, by Rector James Hughes, witnesses Benjamin Nicholas and John Williams. Edward Trew's father is given as George Trew, collier, and Margaret Nicholas' father is Benjamin Nicholas, collier.

A pencilled note in the papers has the following: Margaret Nicholas, Garndiffaith, Monmouthshire, S.W. Edward Trew, Talywain, Monmouthshire, S.W.

Grandpa	George	Grandma	Mary Ann
Grandpa	Benjamin	Grandma	Ruth

Lived in Old Castle, next door to Gunters.

In other places, Edward Trew's birth is given as 27 Jan. 1842, died 6 Sept. 1920. Margaret Nicholas Trew born 24 Dec. 1845, died 16 Sept. 1925. Both buried Shawnee, O.Cemetery. Edward and Margaret's family were:

John Trew	b. 29 May 1866		d. 23 Feb 1923
Benjamin G. Trew	b. 17 April 1868	Pomeroy, O.	d. 15 Apr. 1949 Long Beach Calif.
Ed Trew	b. 28 Dec. 1870		d. 18 May 1962
Will Trew	b. 16 Oct. 1875
Mae Trew	b. 2 Nov. 1878		d. 28 Dec. 1960
Phebe Trew	b. 10 Oct. 1884		d. 20 Nov. 1974

Edward True (Trew) was a native of Wales and was naturalized in Perry County, Ohio Probate Court, 2 April 1883.

The papers include the marriage certificate of Edward and Margaret, his naturalization certificate, a cemetery deed, numerous photographs, death certificate of Edward M. Heathman (a relative), various newspaper clippings, a Bible, a Remembrance Book, some letters and other miscellany. This material has been placed in the Ohio Genealogical Society Library in Mansfield, Ohio.

THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR was provided for by Congress 12 July 1962. By July 1989 3,394 had been awarded and 3,170 recipients had died with the resting spots of 462 unknown. (San Antonio Light 2 Jul 1989/B9. Headstones are available.

"A wounded soldier asked a passer-by for a drink of water. The water was given cheerfully, and the confederate, discovering his benefactor to be an enemy, took a valuable relic from his pocket and gave it to him. The relic was a "Medal of Honor" given by Congress to members of the Tenth South Carolina Infantry. It bears the name in which the regiment participated and the name of T. T. True.

George McDoyle, Santa Ana, CA was the Federal soldier mentioned and "he was more than willing to return the relic to whom it belongs." A correction in a later issue pointed out that the name should have been Robert J. True."

A Medal was given by a Confederate soldier, Robert J. True, at Fort Donaldson to a Union soldier in appreciation for kindness shown him while wounded. The medal was offered to be returned to Mr. True. It could not have been the U. S. Congressional Medal of Honor as none were given to Confederate soldiers. The Confederate Congress, in 1862, authorized a Confederate Medal of Honor but none were awarded until the end of the war. In 1976, the Sons of Confederate Veterans revived the Confederate Medal of Honor to be awarded to the memory of Southern heroes of the Army and Navy. The following year the Medal was awarded to Pvt Wilson J. Barbee, Company L,First Texas, Hood's Texas Brigade, (and to three others) and it it is on permanent display at the Confederate Research Center, Hill College, Hillsboro, Texas.

EARLY TIMES IN RIVES, MICHIGAN
By 1395 Mrs. Elvira True Ranney 7

These synoptic reviews are from items in the History of Jackson County, 1981. Portrait and Biographical Album. Jackson County, Michigan. 1985. History of Jackson County. Deland. 1903. Landsmen of Jackson County, revised. Peck. 1986. Jackson County Citizen from 1880-. Jackson County Marriages. 1833-1870. and Jackson County Cemetery Records.

"In November 1834 my family (479 Alva True 6 and Lory Rathbun) moved to Jackson County, one of eleven families to settle in Rives township that year. We moved into a log house that was constructed by my father in January 1835. The flooring was sawed from frozen logs, laid down loose and rough with a rough partition forming a room. A stove pipe was passed through a window so that a stove could be used for heating and cooking.

"My father went back east and returned in April with three or four yoke of oxen to use in breaking the land for cultivation and he also brought four cows. In time the floor was refinished, a chimney was constructed and other refinements to render the cabin at least comfortable.

"All were happy with the home in the wilderness except mother. She had to return to the old homestead in Monroe County, NY to get over her homesickness, after which she was content to dwell here.

"Our nearest school house was about three miles away and for three years we had to walk there, before a school was provided for our district, Jacksonburgh. We could walk through the country with as much pleasure and ease as we could drive through it later.

"We produced good crops of flax and made our own cloth. Mother wove cloth for grain bags and sold each bag for seven shillings. (When did pennies, nickles, dimes and two-bit pieces come int general use?). We made starch from green corn or potatoes and band boxes from elm bark.

"The Indians visited us from time to time and frequently brought venison to trade for bread and potatoes."

"I taught school in 1842 in the Draper neighborhood and my pupils were Harriet Draper, Ann Phelps, Cordelia Cook, Sarah Hatton, Elizabeth Hatten, Charlotte Draper, Eunice Tingley, Josephene Snyder, Mary Draper, Violet Anderson, Andrew Phelps, William Bates, Edwin Smith, Austin Draper, Frank Quigley, --- Quigley, Edward Draper, John Anderson and James Anderson.

"In January 1842, I made a visit to Ohio and became acquainted with D. H. Ranney, who subsequently came to Jackson County, where in 1844 we were married by Reverend Mr. Harrison of Jackson."

JOHN MARCH 2 M 7 JEMIMA TRUE 2

The Massachusetts Bay Company provided for the management of its civil affairs by the use of an organization from 1634 until 1684 called the General Court by men of the area designated as freemen.

John March was chosen a Lieutenant of the militia to serve in the military affairs in CAP Clark's proposed 2d Company in August 1687. Lt John March 2 B 10 Jun 1658 M 1 Oct 1679 Jemima True 2 D 24 May 1737 was promoted to CAP before 1691 as he served in the campaign against the French and Indians on the Maine coast as a Captain in the English forces with CAPs Daniel King and Samuel Sherburn during a landing at Mequoit. The size of the English forces increased and CAP March was promoted to MAJ as he commanded the new fort at Falmouth (Casco Bay). A tax assessment was made in 1688 in order to enhance the financing of the Indian wars and LT John March declared the following taxable property: 2 heads, 3 houses, 2 plowlands, 2 horses and 1 hog. There were 4 others promoted to Captain when March, Sherborn and King were selected as captains. COL John March was referred to as Lieutenant Colonel while repelling the enemy at Casco Bay. The court records used the titles as Colonel and Lieutenant Colonel intermixed regarding the owners of a ferry in 1705 and 1706. LT COL John March 2 was appointed the Commanding Officer by Governor Joseph Dudley of land and naval forces for an attack against the French at Nova Scotia and Fort Royal. Since he was to command two regiments and a sailing force of 60 assorted ships, he may have had a promotion to Colonel, which proved to be his last major assignment. The activity lasted for about 8 months as his ship's officers and crews were paid from 3 April until 18 Oct 1707. In 1739 a township on the westerly side of the Merrimack River adjoining Contoock was granted and laid out to the "soldiers in the expidetion to Canada in 1690 under the command of Caps John March, Stephen Greenleaf and Philip Nelson." A List of 60 soldiers is shown on page 516, History of Newbury, MA., by J J Currier. 1902. Reprint, P E Randall, publisher.

John March 2 was recognized as one of the foremost military men of his day but he may have had a lingering illness as he tried to decline one or two of his last assignments and he died before 25 Aug 1712 when his will was proved, less than 5 years after he completed his last assignment where he was furnished a 3 man commission to make decisions of a military nature as seemed needed.

The early colonists came for several reasons and one of the terms used was that of 'planter.' They were proud to be called Planters and to own plantations; they came to plant Christianity, they came to plant colonies for the King and his men and they came to plant freedoms. John March 2 and Jemima True 2 and their issue had other interests in accomplishing their goals. They were gardners, farmers, stockmen, carpenters and persons of other skills. John March 2 was also a business man; in 1690 he was licensed as an inn-holder, he managed (probably owned) the Amesbury-Newbury ferry from 1695 until his death and later passing to his son-in-law Humphrey Hook and to other members of the family until 1792 when it was no longer needed because a bridge was put in service. John March 2 was conveyed all personal property and real estate by his father in 1679, and he was subsequently licensed to keep a tavern.

Colonel John March 2 was a resident with his wife, 7 Jemima True 2 March in Salisbury for a while, a ship builder in Andover, a farmer and stock raiser every where he lived and according to Johnson's Universal Encyclopedia, "he was the foremost military leader in New England up to the time of the Port Royal Expedition."

It was an important link between the settled East and the pioneer West and carried many emigrants to their new homes. Augustus was one of six children to come to America, the issue of Carl Heinrich Borck (Boark) and Oatarinn Dorofner; he came just in time for the Civil War, decided to be an American and refused to allow the German language to be spoken in his home after moving to Kansas. Other members of his family settled in NY and OH. He was a farmer-stockman.

THE MOORE FAMILY

We have traced our Moores back to Soverign R. Moore, born in 1800 in North Carolina as stated in later census records. We have not found who his parents were. A cousin of ours, Dr. Alma Freeland, a professor of the University of Texas, retired, has done quite a lot of research on the family - her line - our grandfathers were half brothers, sons of Soverign R. Moore. Next we find Soverign in Tennessee, married to Martha - has two sons, Thomas H., and James S. and a daughter Martha, born in 1824, 1826 and 1827 probably in Wilson, County as Alma has a receipt to S. R. Moore from that county. Next, we find him on the 1830 census of Madison County, Alabama, with a wife, two sons and a daughter.

In 1836 there is a receipt for board of Thomas and James. The 1840 census shows the family to be in Talladego County, Alabama. Martha died sometime after that census. S. R. married again to Sarah Mathis from Abbeville, SC, and living in Kemper County, Mississippi. There are receipts from a Dr. A. M. Chamberlin for $16.00 for delivery of a baby, Andrew Jackson Moore, Feb. 15, 1849. Receipt for $16.00 on January 17, 1850 for delivery of baby, Malissa Adeline Moore in Kemper County, Mississippi

The 1850 Federal census Soverign R. Moore age 50, Sarah age 30, Andrew Jackson age 2, Melissa age 2 months Daughter Martha is married to Thomas Shettlesworth and living next door to her father. She has one child. Thomas H. and James Moore are not shown on that census record.

The next record is found in Texas; Soverign R. Moore and family, Martha and family, and Thomas H. and James S. Moore are found settled at Troup, Smith County, Texas. In 1854 Thomas H. Moore married Sarah Elizabeth Temple, daughter of William Byston Temple and Mary Jane Sutton. Also in 1854 Soverign R. Moore had a son, Shadrack Green Moore. Some descendants of Soverign include

By 1858 Sarah had died and Soverign R. Moore married Sarah A. Gann Cooper. The last record we have on Soverign R. My father was a farmer and also a Presbyterian minister. I do not know who looked after the children, but I think it may have been their grand parents; John Brown Worrell and Elizabeth, or perhaps their uncle, Ross Worrell and or their aunt, Ella Worrell German, because I've heard Jeff talk about them; he lived with us while we were growing up. Dad hired a housekeeper, married her and when the marriage failed she divorce him.

6 Jesse David Moore was born in McLennan County Texas about 1903

Dad's older brother, James who had married Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Elizabeth Dunn Smith Worrell, wanted Dad to go to Oklahoma and homestead some land. Dad did this but became dissatisfied there and wanted to go back to his church work. Dad left Oklahoma with the two boys, leaving the girls with Jim and Lizzie and went back to McLennan County. In 1905 the Church sent Dad to the State Convention in Abiline. On the way back home on the train, he left the train at Hamilton to look up Linnie's Uncle whom they had never met; that was to be my grandfather, George Decale Worrell who introduced him to his family including an attractive daughter, Dorothy Anne and her younger sister Eliza Louzanie Worrell who married Charles Edward Little. That is how my mother and dad met. The next year when he went to the convention, again he stopped off and they were married in August of 1906. They were farming in Hamilton County, Texas by 1908.

1 HENRY TRUE 1 WAS BORN IN AUGHTON, ENGLAND FROM THE PARISH CHURCH OF THE Church of England. Parish records were initiated in 1600 and include marriages, baptisms and burials. The following was located:

Henrie (son of Henrie) baptized 1620
Richard (son of Henry) buried 1621
Henrie (son of Henrie) buried 1622
Margaret (widow of Henry) buried 1623
Richard (son of Henry) baptized 1627
Ann (wife of Henry) baptized 1627
George (son of Henry) baptized 1629
Robert (son of Henry) baptized 1632
Ellin (daughter of Henry) baptized 1637
Henrie (son of Henrie) baptized 1640
A Henry Trew of Aughton marries in 1647 at Aughton.

No further records of TRUE appear at all. Is this the Henry True of MA in 1644? Since records of TRUE disappear completely, we cannot be certin.

Aughton is on the river Derwent, a navigable river still used by barges. It flows into the Ouse River about 4 miles from Aughton and then into Huber Bay and the North Atlantic. Aughton is an old but small village. The parish church built in the 1100's still is in use, as is the baptismal fount.

I have alos determined that Richard Trew of Aughton had a probate of property in 1611. was this the father of Henrie? Probably. I will pursue more information. The Borthwick Institute at the University of York was unable to find any TRUE in Huddersfield in 1600-1645.

7431 Bruce H True 12 B 1935 Canal Zone, Panama secured the above records by personal knowledge, correspondence and on site visits; he visited in England and did personal research in the Church of England Parish Church in Aughton and saw the baptismal fount which probably was used as our emigrant ancestor was Christened. He also learned that Rannulfus Truue was listed in the Pipe Rolls for Wiltshire, England in 1180 and Roger de Trow is listed in the 1207 Curia Regis Rolls. Also, according to the Heraldic Research Institute in England, the old English word 'treaw' means tree and may indicate a person that dwelt near a forest; or it also means loyal-faithful and may denote character. The surname may have various beginnings from different locales in England and probably does not root in one particular person."

1882 - HISTORY OF CLAYTON COUNTY, IOWA

Charles Henry True, farmer and nurseryman, section 28 Lodomillo Township, was born twenty miles west of Freeport, Illinois on August 19, 1847. His parents were Charles and Esther (Rhodes) True, who had a family of six children, five living. Charles was the third child and second son. Before he was two years of age his parents came with him to Clayton County, Iowa, settling in Lodomillo Township. In the fall of 1865 they removed to McDonough County, Illinois.

*Mr. True died in 1867, and Charles taught school in McDonough, Warren and Fulton Counties until 1874. He was married to Luthera Bixby on August 19,1874, this also being his birthday. Luthera was born in Clayton County, and was the daughter of Rev. N. W. and Ruby (Knapp) Bixby. Mr. True then taught school till 1878, when he returned to Clayton County, where he still resides.

Charles and Luthera True are members of the Free-will Baptist Church. They have two children - Ernest L. and Clyde L. (Ed. note - Daughter, Mabel M. True was not born until 1884.)

Mr. True is a man of integrity, and stands high in his community.

(Copied by Norma Cedergreen, 1988 as an additional page for the Knight-True Family book.) *This article states, "death date for Charles True as 1867." His gravestone also says he died September 13, 1867 at age 54 years, 11 months, 21 days. (Noted during visit in 1986 to the Edgewood Cemetery, Iowa.) This differs with his death data written earlier on Page 1 of the Knight-True Family booklet. In this review Charles Henry True is identified as 1 3.
